19TH YEAR. NO. 111. EAST LIVERPOOL, O., SATURDAY, MAY 10, 1902—TWELVE PAGES. TWO CENTS.

MANUFACTURERS ARE OPPOSED

And the Men Do Not All Seem to Understand the System's Benefits.

THE NEW EXECUTIVE BOARD

Will Investigate Matters And File Its Conclusions—Various Important Resolutions Considered—Delegate Called Home by Father's Death.

Trenton, May 10. —(Special)— It now appears that the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters will make another attempt to prevail upon the potters of this city to accept the uniform price list which was the cause of so much contention a little over a year ago. The majority of the trade here is desirous of having a change in conditions.

The resolution calling upon the Brotherhood to take hold of the matter was introduced in the convention Thursday. After a heated discussion the matter was laid over and taken up again yesterday morning.

A debate upon the merits of the uniform price list characterized the morning session. It was finally decided to leave the matter entirely in the hands of the incoming executive board, which, after it investigates the conditions here, will file a report as to the advisability of a uniform price list.

If the potters of this city finally decide to accept the uniform list, it will not be without some opposition. Many here do not favor the list because they claim it would reduce their wages. The opposition is chiefly among those who, while not receiving enormously high wages, are at the same time getting more than those who in some instances are working in the same shop, making the same kind of ware.

The uniform price list has never been in effect in the east, and therefore never given a fair test. They all unite in saying that in the west it works well, because it was compiled to suit western conditions. The heads of the Brotherhood claim that the organization knows no east or west, and the list can be enforced here as well as elsewhere.

The Trenton manufacturers ever since the agitation of a uniform price list, have been using their influence with the men not to accept it, claiming it would reduce their wages. If the list would result as they say the Brotherhood officials hold that the manufacturers would only be too willing to put it in force.

The Trenton Manufacturing Potters' association declined to meet President Hughes in conference two years ago concerning the list, and none of the members would allow him inside their plants to make measurements.

Since the enforement of the list in East Liverpool and other cities in the west, the men have been brought in close touch with the manufacturers.

The claim of the Trenton manufacturers that the list cannot be enforced here because of the more or less antiquated condition of the local plants, is not consistent with the provisions for such conditions as are made in the list, or the assertions of the western pottery owners.

In East Liverpool the uniform price list met with the same opposition at first, but after it was given a trial the manufacturers appeared perfectly satisfied and now claim that it is one of the best measures that has yet been compiled for the advancement of the pottery trade.

At a meeting of the Kilnmen's local Thursday nighht, the list was the subject of much discussion. The measurements of two kilns was submitted and, according to the uniform list, the men would receive three days in advance over what is now paid for one and two days for the other.

It is not the intention of the Brotherhood officials to enforce upon the potters here a measure which they do not want. After due investitgation the executive board will likely make a report which will be left entirely to the locals for approval.

The election of officers will likely take place until next week. President Hughes and Secretary Duffy are practically sure of re-election.

There is little opposition to the re-election of First Vice President Hutchins. The opposition comes principally from the eastern delegates. The work of Mr. Hutchins has been very commendable. He has practically the solid support of the western representatives, which, it is thought, is enough to insure re-election.

The dish machines which were mentioned in the report of President Hughes, was considered at some length yesterday. In view of the men the machine is displacing a resolution was adopted prohibiting the employment apprentice dishmakers where journeymen can be had. The resolution having far its purpose the abolishment of the apprentice system in the jigger department was lost by a close vote.

Another resolution which failed to receive approval was one apportioning the number of apprentices to each journeyman presser.

At present two apprentices are allowed to each two journeyman. The purpose of the resolution was to reduce this number to one to every two journeyman.

A resolution passed calls for the manufacturers to supply men to carry broken ware from the kiln shed, instead of leaving that work to kilnment.

Secretary Duffy was arranging yesterday morning the railroad fares of the delegates.

A communication from Mayor Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland, inviting the delegates to a ride on the Trenton, Lawrenceville & Princeton railroad, owned by the Johnson syndicate, was received and accepted. The convention adjourned at 2:15 to allow the delegates to make the trip..

They visited the grounds and buildings of Princeton University and spent some time viewing the baseball team at practice on Osborne field.

BLIGHTING FROST

DID GREAT DAMAGE IN THE COUNTRY DISTRICTS.

Orchards And Gardens Suffered—West Virginia Fruit Growers Doleful.

Frost did great damage in the country about East Liverpool last night. Many farmers think fruit prospects seriously impaired.

On the Lisbon road, north of town, the frost was quite heavy. Ice froze in vessels which had been left outside. All small garden plants, such as tomatoes and cabbage, were totally destroyed where residents had neglected to provide protection from the frost. The fruit escaped serious injury, as it was in a majority of instances, along far enough to be in a hardy condition and was able to stand the biting. All of the larger fruit, particularly peaches, are doing well, and give promise of large crops.

The damage to fruit in Chester is considered serious by most of the fruit growers near the town. The damage to vegetables was not noticed so much.

Patent Trouser Creaser.

At last the well dressed man will be able to keep the crease in his trousers without having them pressed by the tailor. Terry O. Carman has applied for a patent on an idea of this character. Of course the trouseres will have to be creased with a smooth iron first, but the method of making the crease remain in its position, and the way it is done is an idea that Carman will sell. The patent papers are expected to be received by Mr. Carman soon.

Anti-Trust Bill.

Columbus, May 10.—(Special)—An important measure passed by the house was the Brumbaugh anti-trust bill, to amend the Valentine law by providing that any person or firm who is injured in his business by any combination or trust may recover damages, both as a recompense and as punishment.

School District Bill Passed.

Columbus, May 10.—(Special)—The senate has enacted into a law the bill of Representative Crist making a special school district of certain sections of Washington and Yellow Creek townships.

CLEMENT GRISCOM, HEAD OF THE NEW SHIP COMBINE.

Clement A. Griscom, it is said, will manage the great ship combination recently formed in America and Europe by J. Pierpont Morgan. Mr. Griscom has for some time been president of the International Navigation company.

A WIFE MAKES UGLY CHARGES

SHE HAS NOW LEFT HIM

Lisbon, May 10.—(Special)—Verna Brooks, of Wellsville, has entered suit for divorce and alimony against John Brooks, of Cleveland. She asks that her maiden name be restored and also for the custody of her three-year-old daughter.

They were married in 1898 when she was less than 16 years old. Since marriage they have roamed much, living in Lisbon, Salisbury, Irondale, Cleveland and again in Irondale. In July she left her husband and went to live with her mother at Wellsville, where she has been supporting herself and child. She claims that her husband has defamed her character; that he has become enraged without cause, knocking her down and otherwise most cruelly abusing her, both by speech and action; that she fears the mental strain caused by his actions would result in the loss of her mind.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE

Between Boss Plumbers And Journeymen Arranged for Monday Night.

Committees have been appointed by both journeymen and boss plumbers with instructions to hold a meeting Monday night for the purpose of making a mutual agreement if possible, on the proposition presented yesterday by the journeymen.

Inspected the Jail.

Lisbon, May 10. —(Special)— The committee appointed by the county commissioners to visit the charitable and penal institutions of the county inspected the county jail yesterday. The committee is composed of three ladies and three men. Those visiting the jail were Dr. William Moore, of Lisbon; Mrs. Henry W. Aten, of Wellsville, and Robert Elyson, of Damascus. They report the jail in unusually good condition.

Out For Buell's Place.

William McLeran, of Salem, who has preserved order in an efficient manner in the visitors' gallery in the house of representatives during the present session, announces that he will be a candate to succeed Hon. Samuel Buell in the house.

TWELVE INNINGS WERE REQUIRED

First Time For Years That Such a Ball Game Has Been Played Here.

MOST PHENOMENAL SPURT

Coupled With Good Luck Won the Contest for East Liverpool, Which Had Not Scored Up to the Ninth. An Exciting Finish.

For the first time since 1893 when the old Eclipse base ball team of East Liverpool defeated the Keystones, of Pittsburg, by a close score, a 12-inning game was witnessed in West End park yesterday afternoon, it being the second of the series between the locals and the Canton Marines.

A warmer, more interesting and more exciting contest is seldom seen. It was beyond a doubt a great game from start to finish and the 500 fans in the park were not slow in showing their appreciation. From the beginning of the ninth until the end they howled and hurrahed like mad, every play, good or bad, being received alike.

That the locals won can be credited to nothing else but pure luck, notwithstanding that they played a practically errorless game. They walked off the diamond victorious after scoring goose eggs for eight innings, and but one explanation can be given for their triumphant finish.

Although the fresh, cool wind which prevailed made the spectators huddle together for warmth, it acted as an incentive and an invigorator for the players, and perhaps was the cause of the bitter struggle. However, the occasional clouds of dust and dirt flying over the field did little to inspire the "old boys" and not a few plays were made under difficult circumstances as a result.

Promptly at 4 o'clock the game was commenced by Umpire Clark, the locals taking the field. The visitors started the show by placing a hit which was instrumental in scoring two runs. The manner in which they commenced on Winters was indeed discouraging, but the battle was hardly begun when he changed the conditions with four strikeouts and several other admirable feats. During the following seven innings the Marines failed to score a run, but in the eighth made another jump, by doubling their tallies, while the locals laid down the bat in rapid succession for at least 24 times.

The outlook for a team was never more disheartening than it was for the locals at the beginning of the ninth. With not a single score against the four credited to their adversaries they took the field in rather low spirits, but quickly arose from their gloomy spell and started the balls rolling their way. There were only three visitors up, all going out in order, Ahmon on a pop fly and Sperry and Barry on three strikes.

Following this the victors made the telling spurt. Three elegant hits and the same number of errors on the part of the Marines tied the score.

Everything now was excellent; everybody inside the fences had yelled himself hoarse. At the conclusion of the tenth phenomenal playing was hardly noticed, so many of them coming in a bunch. Neither side could make an opening, 12 men in the tenth and eleventh going down as lambs before a lion.

The twelfth and last acted in like manner for the Marines, but not so with the choice of the fans. Heckathorn was the first up. He lined a pretty hit to the field; was followed with an out by Webb, but a few seconds later ended the game which will be fresh in the minds of the spectators for years by scoring on the chance hit made by C. Davis to center field.

Winters in the box played to the satisfaction of all. He was credited

FRANCHISE WANTED FOR TROLLEY ROAD

B. S. Pope, S. B. Goucher, Fred G. Porter, Cyrus Brenneman and Edward Hazlett, have filed application with the clerk of the county court of Hancock county, W. V., for a franchise and license authorizing them to construct and operate an electric railway on and over the public road leading, by way of Newell's ferry, from Chester to Congo, from the point where the road crosses the southwestern boundary line of Chester to and upon the public highway in Congo to New Cumberland.

The county court will be asked to grant the application on the first day of the June term of court, June 9.

EAST LIVERPOOL TAX LEVY MAY BE FURTHER INCREASED

PLANS TO INCREASE REVENUE

And Also to Curtail Expenses Were Considered at Much Length.

AN ANTIQUATED ORDINANCE

Was Resurrected and If Enforced Will Help Considerably In Curtailing Expenses—Levy of 9 Mills to Be Recommended.

But four of the six members of the finance committee of council were present at the meeting which was called for last evening. They were President Nice, Bullock, Howell and McConnell, Dr. Marshall for some unaccountable reason not being present. Mr. Orr, the other member of the committee, is out of town. Solicitor McGarry, Clerk Davidson and ex-Clerk J. N. Hanley were also present.

A general discussion of the city's financial condition was indulged in, and incidentally the probable tax levy for the coming year.

Mr. Hanley's report showed that several of the funds had run behind to the amount of some thousands of dollars, and that in order to meet current expenses alone the city's revenue would have to be increased.

It was the opinion of those members who were in attendance that during the coming year, the strictest economy must be practiced. The matter of revenue from sources other than the tax levy was discussed at length, and the committee resolved to watch these funds more closely in the future in order that a few of the departments would be nearly self-sustaining.

There is no improvements contemplated at present that would require the expenditure of any considerable amount of money with the exception of the paving of the wharf. The business men and manufacturers have long been agitating this question, and the majority of the members of council have determined to see that the improvement is made if it can be done at a reasonable expense. There is but little money in the wharf fund, and if the paving of that portion of the river beach was to be paid for at once, it would be necessary to put it to a vote, and and if favored, issue bonds. The members of the committee, however, believe they see a way out of the dilemma without the trouble and expense of a vote—not to speak of its probable defeat. If the arrangement can be made, it is the intention to have ordinances passed and new regulations adopted whereby the city could have a much greater income from this source. Every boat that lands at Broadway wharf could be assessed any amount the city may see fit to impose. This has never been done. Parties using the river shore for coal boat purposes at various points within the city limits have been collected from heretofore, but it is thought the amount might be increased a trifle. From these and other avenues it is thought the yearly income of the wharf fund could be materially increased so that in a short time the improvement, even if made at once, could be paid for from the increase derived from the wharf itself.

Another very important question was raised when some member gave it as his opnion that the city was spending an enormous amount of money in new additions which was unnecessary, and which the land companies could be made to pay before the plot was acepted.

Mr. Horwell remembered that an ordinance had been passed during a former term which covered the entire matter. The ordinance was unearthed and found to be No. 465, passed in 1895. It provides that, before a plot is accepted, the lines must be run and clearly defined, the streets placed to grade, the gutters lowered and bridges erected over streams and a number of other very important and expensive items looked after by the owners. It was thought if this ordinance was observed to the letter the city would be richer by several thousand dollars per year.

The amount levied last year for all

ATTENDED THE SECOND NIGHT'S PERFORMANCE.

Scottish Reformation Entertainment Cleared Over $500 in the Two Nights.

The second presentation of the "Scottish Reformation," which was given last night at the opera house was even a greater success than on the previous night.

The opera house was crowded with an appreciative audience. Mrs. W. C. Lynch as Queen Mary was again the recipient of much merited applause, while D. M. McLane as John Knox was a general favorite. The lecture given by Mrs. Monroe and accompanied by stereopticon views was greatly enjoyed.

The exact sum netted by this play is not known, but it is estimated that over $500 for the Y. M. C. A. was cleared during the two nights' performances.

FROM LANCASTER

G. A. R. AND S. of V. DELEGATES HAVE RETURNED.

All Report That the State Encampment Was a Success. Officers Chosen.

The delegates and past captains of the local camp Sons of Veterans, together with the representatives of the G. A. R. of this city, have all returned from the Lancaster encampment, and are very pleased with the hospitality of their comrades and friends in that ctiy.

The election of officers in the various organizations did not include any East Liverpool people. Delegates to the S. of V. encampment refused offices offered in order to leave the field clear for J. J. Rose's election as commander next year. The next encampment will be held in Marietta. The S. of V. of that city propose to offer a fine silk flag as a prize for best secret and degree work. Garfield camp stands a good show of capturing it.

They were President Nice, Bullock, Howell and McConnell, Dr. Marshall for some unaccountable reason not being present. Mr. Orr, the other member of the committee, is out of town. Solicitor McGarry, Clerk Davidson and ex-Clerk J. N. Hanley were also present.

A general discussion of the city's financial condition was indulged in, and incidentally the probable tax levy for the coming year.

Mr. Hanley's report showed that several of the funds had run behind to the amount of some thousands of dollars, and that in order to meet current expenses alone the city's revenue would have to be increased.

It was the opinion of those members who were in attendance that during the coming year, the strictest economy must be practiced. The matter of revenue from sources other than the tax levy was discussed at length, and the committee resolved to watch these funds more closely in the future in order that a few of the departments would be nearly self-sustaining.

There is no improvements contemplated at present that would require the expenditure of any considerable amount of money with the exception of the paving of the wharf. The business men and manufacturers have long been agitating this question, and the majority of the members of council have determined to see that the improvement is made if it can be done at a reasonable expense. There is but little money in the wharf fund, and if the paving of that portion of the river beach was to be paid for at once, it would be necessary to put it to a vote, and and if favored, issue bonds. The members of the committee, however, believe they see a way out of the dilemma without the trouble and expense of a vote—not to speak of its probable defeat. If the arrangement can be made, it is the intention to have ordinances passed and new regulations adopted whereby the city could have a much greater income from this source. Every boat that lands at Broadway wharf could be assessed any amount the city may see fit to impose. This has never been done. Parties using the river shore for coal boat purposes at various points within the city limits have been collected from heretofore, but it is thought the amount might be increased a trifle. From these and other avenues it is thought the yearly income of the wharf fund could be materially increased so that in a short time the improvement, even if made at once, could be paid for from the increase derived from the wharf itself.

Another very important question was raised when some member gave it as his opnion that the city was spending an enormous amount of money in new additions which was unnecessary, and which the land companies could be made to pay before the plot was acepted.

Mr. Horwell remembered that an ordinance had been passed during a former term which covered the entire matter. The ordinance was unearthed and found to be No. 465, passed in 1895. It provides that, before a plot is accepted, the lines must be run and clearly defined, the streets placed to grade, the gutters lowered and bridges erected over streams and a number of other very important and expensive items looked after by the owners. It was thought if this ordinance was observed to the letter the city would be richer by several thousand dollars per year.

The amount levied last year for all

LARGEST POTTERY IN THE WORLD

Was Entrusted the Work of Making the First Piece of Ware in the New No. 3 Plant — Its Up-to-Date Arrangement.

By starting work in the new addition the Laughlin China company of this city, has in operation the largest pottery in the world. It exceeds the capacity of the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles company by just one kiln. The company succeeded in having the first piece of ware made there during the afternoon of May 7. The honor of doing this, and rightly so, belongs to Samuel P. Jackson, the oldest employe of the company, who has been working for the firmy since the original pottery was started by Homer Laughlin, now residing in Los Angeles, Cal.

It has been stated by what can be considered reliable authority, that the new addition cost not less than $200,000, as every modern improvement was followed. From where the clay, in its crude state, is taken from the cars, to the shipping department, one straight line is followed, which makes the work of the employe more easy than any other shop in the city.

Fronting on a long siding of the Cleveland & Pittsburg railroad are located the seven clay bins, and these are reasonably full of the several mixes. On the inside of the plant, and alongside the bins is built a small track, upon which is a traveling scale, into which the clay is placed before it is dumped into the five plungers and slip mills. These latter contrivances are quite large and all are kept constantly at work. From these mills the clay through pipes is conveyed to two agitators. From there ihto another large agitator the clay is sent. The latter is built in the ground, in the corner of the clay room. Two large double pumps are then used in forcing the clay into the five 32 cell clay presses, which to date have made about 250 presses of clay.

This work has all been done under the supervision of J. W. Stilgenbauer, who has charge of this department. After the clay has been pressed it is placed on a small car and sent to the large clay cellar, where it is allowed to remain for an indefinite period. After being pgged the clay is placed on an elevator of the continuous kind, and sent to the clay shops on the second floor. The arrangement of this department could not be better, as there is a division between each part of this shop, jiggers, pressers and turners all having spacious departments. The management of this department has been placed in the hands of George Stevenson, who is quite a young man, and only a few years ago was employed by the same firm as a presser. His rise with the company has been rapid, and he is now surrounding himself with workmen of the best class. This is what has made his work as superintendent a success.

There are 13 jiggers in the shop, three lathes and room for a large number of pressers. Owing to the large amount of work that yet remains to be done before the plant is completed, it will be at least a month before all departments are in full operation.

The power for this massive plant is secured from two sources. The machinery in the clay department, including the clay shops, and the making of the sagger clay and wads, is furnished from a 30 horse power Westinghouse gas engine, making 300 revolutions a minute. This remarkably inexpensive engine, as it consumes about 2,000 cubic feet of gas per day, costs the company but 16 cents daily.

The machinery in the slip department is operated by the large engine in No. 2 addition. The steam from the dry rooms, and for heating purposes, is furnished by a boiler which is used for no other purpose, and whch is located in a building entirely separate from the main building. This is quite a change in the arrangement of the plant, as in other instances the boilers are confined to the building in whcih the clay department is located. The engines of the large addition are looked after by Allen M. Fisher, who has been with the company for years.

The new building is to be lighted by electricity, and the power for this purpose will be furnished from a large dynamo which has been installed in the No. 2 addition.

The wareroom, decorating departments and the shipping and packing departments have been well provided for as far as room is concerned. In the old plant there are times when the printers and decorators are crowded for room, but in the new addition provision has been made for this, and no trouble will result from an oversight on this score. These departments have not been completed, but there is a large force of carpenters now working in this end of the plant under the direction of Harvey McHenry.

There are sidings on both sides of the building, which makes it very convenient as far as shipping is concerned. As a result of this the company will be enabled to pack four cars at one time, and more if necessity requires.

The first piece of ware made was a 7-inch plate, bythe old employe, Samuel P. Jackson. On the bottom of this plate is the following: "The first piece of ware made in No. 3 plant by Samuel P. Jackson, May 7, 1902." This plate will be well taken care of by the officials of the firm, as it has a significant meaning, that of "progress." The first bowl was made by W. H. Colclough, who will operate the cup jigger, and to him belongs the distinction of making the first cup also. Vernon Raynolds made the first piece of pressed ware, it being a 24s jug. The lathes have not yet been started, and it is likely no work will be done in this department for several days. The two lathes, however, will be in charge of Mr. Headley and Mr. Evans, the latter for years employed at the china works. Nick Swartz will press ewers, while Raymond Raynolds will press 24s jugs. Emmet Green will operate the big jigger; William and Thomas Copestick will operate the dish jiggers, with James Cochran, of Chester, recently employed at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor plant. Harry Dray will make individual butters and fruits, and Elijah Sherwood will make wash bowls.

There are many places not filled by Manager Stevenson, but for each vacant job there are a dozen applications. Mr. Stevenson stated this morning that he would secure the cream of the trade, and nothing else. Thomas Miles will have charge of the biscuit crew. Until recently he was employed at the Sebring potteries. He was formerly a resident of the East End, and is well known throughout the city.

Following the rule when No. 2 plant was started, the company will place a new toilet set on the market. This was modeled at Trenton, and the moulds will be made within a few weeks. The design is very neat.

It will be several days before the jiggermen will be working full, as the moulds are not dried. They are now being placed in the dry room and will be ready for use soon.

To show a comparison between the two largest potteries in the city, the following is given:

Knowles, Taylor & Knowles—Old end, 5 kilns; new end, 9; china works, 8; Buckeye, 9; total 31 kilns.

EAST END

Thinking that there is a lack of laborers in this city, Alexander Chafin, of the East End, has sent to the southern counties of Ohio and Kentucky for not less than 25 men, and these are expected to arrive in the East End not later than next Sunday. Chafin stated this morning that all of the men who have come to the city from the south during the past few months have secured employment, and now that other factories are about to start, Chafin sees a chance to increase the population and he proposes to do it.

About a dozen persons are expected in Chafinville tomorrow who are said to be coming up on the boats. It may be that Chafin will have to build many more houses to keep these new comers in before long, as there is not a vacant house in that section of the city at the present time.

PROFANE BALL PLAYERS

Cause East End Residents to Make Complant to the Police.

Much complaint has been made during the past few days by persons residing in the Boyce orchard, whose property fronts the railroad, about the language used by a crowd of boys who persist in playing ball on the railroad property during the afternoon and early evening. It is claimed that workmen who are employed in the East End potteries, and who live in those houses have refused to allow their families to set on their porches during the evenings on account of the actions of these boys.

Officer Jay Fisher was notified today of the doings, and it is reasonable to believe that if the practice of playing ball on the railroad is not stopped several arrests will follow.

NEW EAST END HOUSES

Contracts to Be Let Next Week for Several More.

There is now considerable building being done in the East End. Next week it is said the contracts will be let for the erection of two new houses, while Alex. Chafin has commenced the foundation for six additional one-story houses on the flat north of Pennsylvania avenue. Some of these have already been rented, money having already been paid for this purpose.

Prohibition Alliance Meeting.

A meeting of the East End branch of the Prohibition Alliance was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Dawson, on St. George street. The attendance was quite large and some business was transacted that the members will not talk about. Several applications for membership were presented and the next meeting will be held in a fortnight at the residence of Archie Searight, on Pennsylvania avenue.

U. P. Church Services.

The services at the Second U. P. church tomorrow will be in charge of Rev. Mr. McQuiston, of Monmouth, Ill., who preached at this church, several weeks ago. A meeting of the congregation will be held next Wednesday evening for the purpose of selecting a pastor, and extending a call, and it is likely the call will be extended to a preacher who has had charge of the services at this church within the past few weeks.

EAST END

Thinking that there is a lack of laborers in this city, Alexander Chafin, of the East End, has sent to the southern counties of Ohio and Kentucky for not less than 25 men, and these are expected to arrive in the East End not later than next Sunday. Chafin stated this morning that all of the men who have come to the city from the south during the past few months have secured employment, and now that other factories are about to start, Chafin sees a chance to increase the population and he proposes to do it.

About a dozen persons are expected in Chafinville tomorrow who are said to be coming up on the boats. It may be that Chafin will have to build many more houses to keep these new comers in before long, as there is not a vacant house in that section of the city at the present time.

PROFANE BALL PLAYERS

Cause East End Residents to Make Complant to the Police.

Much complaint has been made during the past few days by persons residing in the Boyce orchard, whose property fronts the railroad, about the language used by a crowd of boys who persist in playing ball on the railroad property during the afternoon and early evening. It is claimed that workmen who are employed in the East End potteries, and who live in those houses have refused to allow their families to set on their porches during the evenings on account of the actions of these boys.

Officer Jay Fisher was notified today of the doings, and it is reasonable to believe that if the practice of playing ball on the railroad is not stopped several arrests will follow.

NEW EAST END HOUSES

Contracts to Be Let Next Week for Several More.

There is now considerable building being done in the East End. Next week it is said the contracts will be let for the erection of two new houses, while Alex. Chafin has commenced the foundation for six additional one-story houses on the flat north of Pennsylvania avenue. Some of these have already been rented, money having already been paid for this purpose.

Prohibition Alliance Meeting.

A meeting of the East End branch of the Prohibition Alliance was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Dawson, on St. George street. The attendance was quite large and some business was transacted that the members will not talk about. Several applications for membership were presented and the next meeting will be held in a fortnight at the residence of Archie Searight, on Pennsylvania avenue.

U. P. Church Services.

The services at the Second U. P. church tomorrow will be in charge of Rev. Mr. McQuiston, of Monmouth, Ill., who preached at this church, several weeks ago. A meeting of the congregation will be held next Wednesday evening for the purpose of selecting a pastor, and extending a call, and it is likely the call will be extended to a preacher who has had charge of the services at this church within the past few weeks.

FAREWELL GLIMPSES

Columbus, O., May 10.—[Sepcial.]—When the present legislature adjourns on Monday next, at 12 o'clock, as it will, unless there be a hitch over the passage of the appropriation bills, exactly eighteen weeks will have passd since the opening day, on January 6, when the session was called to order and the routine of work began. In any sort of a comparison with previous legislatures several things ought to be remembered before judgment is pronounced. This general assembly faced at the start the promises of its party platforms both Republican and Democratic, declaring for a reform in taxation laws and a relief to the people from the somewhat excessive state levy under which the state had been operating. To devise the means by which that could be done and still bring into the state treasury sufficient money to meet the operating expenses of the different departments was a stupendous undertaking. It has been solved, although the wisdom of the solution is yet a matter of future demonstration. No such task has faced a general assembly in recent years. Another matter which demanded attention was that of redistricting. By common consent, the state has been changed in its boundaries every decade. It fell upon this legislature to undertake that work. The question of giving satisfactory primary election laws under which the people could operate smoothly and without conflict and avoid any touch of fraud was a paramount issue with which, unfortunately, nothing has been done. But these were not all. It was known that the canal question would come up and the state be forced to declare its policy in connection with this department of its government. For weeks no issue before the legislature created such a bone of contention or was so vigorously and bitterly fought. Day after day, and night after night, the lobby of the halls of both the house and the senate were filled with eager men fighting over the matter, buttonholeing members. They represented those who saw in the canals a useless expense and burden to the state, a source of outlay from which there was no adequate return, and they represented the men who wished the canals given up in order that the banks might be utilized for the building of electric and steam roads, the facilitating of transportation. On the other hand there were hundreds to whom the canals give employment, from the members of the board of public works and canal commissions to the laborers along the banks, all vitally interested. There were the many manufacturers in all parts of Ohio who obtain waterpower from these public ways, much upon the presumption that water, like air, is free, and again came the utopian dreamers who hope some day to see the canals converted into great ship canals by which vessels of magnitude may be transported from lake to river and then out into the ocean and thus to all the markets and marts of the world. On top of all these were the professional lobbyists, to whom the legislature is a bargain counter where they bring their goods and sell to the highest bidder. Few legislatures have been afflicted with these men more than the present.

When all of these things are taken into consideration and weighed, it will be found that much has been done and real good has been accomplished. The new plan of taaxtion has been put into operation and the state levy reduced, as promised, by an increase in the tax upon corporation both domestic and foreign. The reduction to the people in the amount of tax they will be forced to pay each year will amount to some $2,500,000, and if the operation of the new plan meets with the success anticipated, this reduction will be still greater and the state levy still further reduced.

The primary election matter unfortunately has not been settled, although an earnest and genuine attempt was made in that direction by Dunlap of Cuyahoga, who introduced a bill, providing that the primaries of all parties should be held on the same day and at the same hour. It was defeated by one of those strange freaks of voting which sometimes strikes legislative bodies, and not because of any real opposition. Only the late date of its consideration prevented the matter being taken up again, when it would undoubtedly have been passed. But a healthy, good, genuine, solid sentiment in favor of a rational and sensible primary law was created, which may at the next session bring about tangible results.

On the canal matter the policy of the state has been definitely determined for all time to come. The legislature has said that the canals are to be maintained as means of water transportation at public expense, and that in case of an abandonment of all or any part of them such boats as were built to run over the abandoned part will be purchased by the state at their value at the time of the abandonment. The effect of this has been to stimulate boat building as nothing else could have done, and from up and down the canals everywhere come the reports of new craft under way of construction. Officials believe this will be the most productive year within a quarter of a century in the matter of canal transportation and the tramp of the mule on the tow-path is expected to be heard again in the land.

The redistricting question goes out of the legislature as it came in, except that the advantage of a full and free discussion has been given. Nothing but an eleventh hour change of sentiment on Monday can be hoped for to effect a single switch in a district. The difficulty attending this has been to bring about such a revision as would give general satisfaction, and leave no disappointments behind. Such a thing was absolutely impossible. When the house decided to change the 12th district alone, by making of Franklin county a district by itself, the senate rose up and declared that if the 12th were changed the third must be also. On this the house demurred, and especially Guerin of Erie, who was outspoken in saying that it would be unfair to adopt such a course unless consideration were given his county of Erie, by taking it out of the 13th and putting it in the 14th. To have gratified the desire of all the members would have been impossible. So it has come about that nothing has been done, and the districts will be left as they are, which pleases the Ohio delegation in congress and seems to leave no great regret anywhere except, perhaps, here and there, where some aspiring statesman has seen his ambitions knocked into a cocked hat.

Of course, these do not include all or a fraction of all, the bills of even general importance which have been acted upon. But it is a review of the more important things which have formed the foundation for the building of the legislative structure. Every section has had its local measures and every member his pet schemes. The Willis bill, effecting the sale of liquor in municipalities, has been passed and a uniform system of public accounting provided for under the direction of the state auditor. Several new boards of state examiners for different things have been created, and a number of bills abolishing different boards of different kinds, in different places passed. Altogether it has been a busy session, and a long one, and none will feel sorry that it's over, for all are weary and tired and ready for the rest that follows labor.

Great Britain and the Boer War

By Dr. JOHN WATSON (Ian MacLaren)

I WISH AS ONE WHO LOVES THE UNITED STATES NEXT TO HIS OWN COUNTRY TO MAKE AN APPEAL BOTH TO THE MIND AND HEART OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE NOT TO THINK HARDLY ABOUT US BECAUSE WE DON'T SEE OUR WAY TO WITHDRAW FROM THE WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

I WANT THE AMERICANS TO BELIEVE THAT WE ONLY ASKED THE BOERS TO TREAT OUR ENGLISH PEOPLE IN THE TRANSVAAL AS WE TREATED THE DUTCH IN CAPE COLONY; THAT IF THE BOERS HAD NOT ATTACKED US WE SHOULD NOT HAVE MADE WAR ON THEM; THAT AFTER WHAT HAS HAPPENED THERE WOULD BE NO GUARANTEE OF PEACE FOR SOUTH AFRICA IF THE TWO REPUBLICS REMAIN INDEPENDENT AND HOSTILE STATES; THAT IF THE TWO STATES BECOME AN INTEGRAL PART OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE THEY WILL BE PLACED AS SOON AS POSSIBLE IN THE ROSITION OF CANADA AND AUSTRALIA AND THAT THEY WILL THEN ENJOY SUCH ORDER AND PEACE AND JUSTICE AS THEY HAVE NEVER KNOWN IN THE PAST.

DAN GROSVENOR SAYS:

"Peruna is an Excellent Spring Catarrh Remedy---I am as Well as Ever."

HON. DAN. A. GROSVENOR, OF THE FAMOUS OHIO FAMILY.

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., says:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peruna. One week has brought wonderful changes and I am now as well as ever. Besides being one of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy."---

DAN. A. GROSVENOR.

In a recent letter he says:

"I consider Peruna really more meritorious than I did when I wrote you last. I receive numerous letters from acquaintances all over the country asking me if my certificate is genuine. I invariably answer, yes."---Dan. A. Grosvenor.

A County Commissioner's Letter.

Hon. John Williams, County Commissioner, of 517 West Second street, Duluth, Minn., says the following in regard to Peruna:

"As a remedy for catarrh I can cheerfully recommend Peruna. I know what it is to suffer from that terrible disease and I feel that it is my duty to speak a good word for the tonic that brought me immediate relief. Peruna cured me of a bad case of catarrh and I know it will cure any other sufferer from that disease."—John Williams.

Miss Mattie L. Guild, President Illinois Young People's Christian Temperance Union, in a recent letter from Chicago, Ill., says:

"I doubt if Peruna has a rival in all the remedies recommended to-day for catarrh of the system. A remedy that will cure catarrh of the stomach will cure the same condition of the mucous membrane anywhere. I have found it the best remedy I have ever tried for catarrh, and believing it worthy my endorsement I gladly accord it.--Mattie L. Guild.

A Congressman's Letter.

Hon. W. P. Brownlow, Congressman from Tennessee, writes from Washington, D. C., the following:

"I have suffered from catarrh of the stomach for several years, and for the past twelve months was in an exceedingly critical condition. My attention was called to your Peruna, and I began to use it, and my improvement was noticeable after the first three days. I have taken three bottles of the medicine and I feel satisfied that I am now almost, if not permanently, cured. In connection with the Peruna, I have used your Manalin for biliousness and torpid liver. I regard it as the best medicine for this purpose that I have ever used. Having been benefited so much myself, I give you this statement, that others may be likewise benefited."—W. P. Brownlow, M. C., Jonesboro, Tenn.

Mrs. Elmer Fleming, Minneapolis, Minn.

"I have been troubled all my life with catarrh in my head. I took Peruna for about three months, and now think I am permanently cured. I believe that for catarrh in all its forms Peruna is the medicine of the age. It cures when all other remedies fail. I can heartily recommend Peruna as a catarrh remedy."—Mrs. Elmer Fleming.

Treat Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the time to treat catarrh. Cold, wet winter weather often retards a cure of catarrh. If a course of Peruna is taken during the early spring months the cure will be prompt and permanent. There can be no failures if Peruna is taken intelligently during the favorable weather of spring.

As a systemic catarrh remedy Peruna eradicates catarrh from the system wherever it may be located. It cures catarrh of the stomach or bowels with the same certainty as catarrh of the head.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

For weeks no issue before the legislature created such a bone of contention or was so vigorously and bitterly fought. Day after day, and night after night, the lobby of the halls of both the house and the senate were filled with eager men fighting over the matter, buttonholeing members. They represented those who saw in the canals a useless expense and burden to the state, a source of outlay from which there was no adequate return, and they represented the men who wished the canals given up in order that the banks might be utilized for the building of electric and steam roads, the facilitating of transportation. On the other hand there were hundreds to whom the canals give employment, from the members of the board of public works and canal commissions to the laborers along the banks, all vitally interested. There were the many manufacturers in all parts of Ohio who obtain waterpower from these public ways, much upon the presumption that water, like air, is free, and again came the utopian dreamers who hope some day to see the canals converted into great ship canals by which vessels of magnitude may be transported from lake to river and then out into the ocean and thus to all the markets and marts of the world. On top of all these were the professional lobbyists, to whom the legislature is a bargain counter where they bring their goods and sell to the highest bidder. Few legislatures have been afflicted with these men more than the present.

When all of these things are taken into consideration and weighed, it will be found that much has been done and real good has been accomplished. The new plan of taaxtion has been put into operation and the state levy reduced, as promised, by an increase in the tax upon corporation both domestic and foreign. The reduction to the people in the amount of tax they will be forced to pay each year will amount to some $2,500,000, and if the operation of the new plan meets with the success anticipated, this reduction will be still greater and the state levy still further reduced.

The primary election matter unfortunately has not been settled, although an earnest and genuine attempt was made in that direction by Dunlap of Cuyahoga, who introduced a bill, providing that the primaries of all parties should be held on the same day and at the same hour. It was defeated by one of those strange freaks of voting which sometimes strikes legislative bodies, and not because of any real opposition. Only the late date of its consideration prevented the matter being taken up again, when it would undoubtedly have been passed. But a healthy, good, genuine, solid sentiment in favor of a rational and sensible primary law was created, which may at the next session bring about tangible results.

On the canal matter the policy of the state has been definitely determined for all time to come. The legislature has said that the canals are to be maintained as means of water transportation at public expense, and that in case of an abandonment of all or any part of them such boats as were built to run over the abandoned part will be purchased by the state at their value at the time of the abandonment. The effect of this has been to stimulate boat building as nothing else could have done, and from up and down the canals everywhere come the reports of new craft under way of construction. Officials believe this will be the most productive year within a quarter of a century in the matter of canal transportation and the tramp of the mule on the tow-path is expected to be heard again in the land.

The redistricting question goes out of the legislature as it came in, except that the advantage of a full and free discussion has been given. Nothing but an eleventh hour change of sentiment on Monday can be hoped for to effect a single switch in a district. The difficulty attending this has been to bring about such a revision as would give general satisfaction, and leave no disappointments behind. Such a thing was absolutely impossible. When the house decided to change the 12th district alone, by making of Franklin county a district by itself, the senate rose up and declared that if the 12th were changed the third must be also. On this the house demurred, and especially Guerin of Erie, who was outspoken in saying that it would be unfair to adopt such a course unless consideration were given his county of Erie, by taking it out of the 13th and putting it in the 14th. To have gratified the desire of all the members would have been impossible. So it has come about that nothing has been done, and the districts will be left as they are, which pleases the Ohio delegation in congress and seems to leave no great regret anywhere except, perhaps, here and there, where some aspiring statesman has seen his ambitions knocked into a cocked hat.

Of course, these do not include all or a fraction of all, the bills of even general importance which have been acted upon. But it is a review of the more important things which have formed the foundation for the building of the legislative structure. Every section has had its local measures and every member his pet schemes. The Willis bill, effecting the sale of liquor in municipalities, has been passed and a uniform system of public accounting provided for under the direction of the state auditor. Several new boards of state examiners for different things have been created, and a number of bills abolishing different boards of different kinds, in different places passed. Altogether it has been a busy session, and a long one, and none will feel sorry that it's over, for all are weary and tired and ready for the rest that follows labor.

By Dr. JOHN WATSON (Ian MacLaren)

I WISH AS ONE WHO LOVES THE UNITED STATES NEXT TO HIS OWN COUNTRY TO MAKE AN APPEAL BOTH TO THE MIND AND HEART OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE NOT TO THINK HARDLY ABOUT US BECAUSE WE DON'T SEE OUR WAY TO WITHDRAW FROM THE WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

I WANT THE AMERICANS TO BELIEVE THAT WE ONLY ASKED THE BOERS TO TREAT OUR ENGLISH PEOPLE IN THE TRANSVAAL AS WE TREATED THE DUTCH IN CAPE COLONY; THAT IF THE BOERS HAD NOT ATTACKED US WE SHOULD NOT HAVE MADE WAR ON THEM; THAT AFTER WHAT HAS HAPPENED THERE WOULD BE NO GUARANTEE OF PEACE FOR SOUTH AFRICA IF THE TWO REPUBLICS REMAIN INDEPENDENT AND HOSTILE STATES; THAT IF THE TWO STATES BECOME AN INTEGRAL PART OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE THEY WILL BE PLACED AS SOON AS POSSIBLE IN THE POSITION OF CANADA AND AUSTRALIA AND THAT THEY WILL THEN ENJOY SUCH ORDER AND PEACE AND JUSTICE AS THEY HAVE NEVER KNOWN IN THE PAST.

DAN GROSVENOR SAYS:

"Peruna is an Excellent Spring Catarrh Remedy---I am as Well as Ever."

HON. DAN. A. GROSVENOR, OF THE FAMOUS OHIO FAMILY.

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., says:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peruna. One week has brought wonderful changes and I am now as well as ever. Besides being one of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy."---

DAN. A. GROSVENOR.

In a recent letter he says:

"I consider Peruna really more meritorious than I did when I wrote you last. I receive numerous letters from acquaintances all over the country asking me if my certificate is genuine. I invariably answer, yes."---Dan. A. Grosvenor.

A County Commissioner's Letter.

Hon. John Williams, County Commissioner, of 517 West Second street, Duluth, Minn., says the following in regard to Peruna:

"As a remedy for catarrh I can cheerfully recommend Peruna. I know what it is to suffer from that terrible disease and I feel that it is my duty to speak a good word for the tonic that brought me immediate relief. Peruna cured me of a bad case of catarrh and I know it will cure any other sufferer from that disease."—John Williams.

Miss Mattie L. Guild, President Illinois Young People's Christian Temperance Union, in a recent letter from Chicago, Ill., says:

"I doubt if Peruna has a rival in all the remedies recommended to-day for catarrh of the system. A remedy that will cure catarrh of the stomach will cure the same condition of the mucous membrane anywhere. I have found it the best remedy I have ever tried for catarrh, and believing it worthy my endorsement I gladly accord it.--Mattie L. Guild.

A Congressman's Letter.

Hon. W. P. Brownlow, Congressman from Tennessee, writes from Washington, D. C., the following:

"I have suffered from catarrh of the stomach for several years, and for the past twelve months was in an exceedingly critical condition. My attention was called to your Peruna, and I began to use it, and my improvement was noticeable after the first three days. I have taken three bottles of the medicine and I feel satisfied that I am now almost, if not permanently, cured. In connection with the Peruna, I have used your Manalin for biliousness and torpid liver. I regard it as the best medicine for this purpose that I have ever used. Having been benefited so much myself, I give you this statement, that others may be likewise benefited."—W. P. Brownlow, M. C., Jonesboro, Tenn.

Mrs. Elmer Fleming, Minneapolis, Minn.

"I have been troubled all my life with catarrh in my head. I took Peruna for about three months, and now think I am permanently cured. I believe that for catarrh in all its forms Peruna is the medicine of the age. It cures when all other remedies fail. I can heartily recommend Peruna as a catarrh remedy."—Mrs. Elmer Fleming.

Treat Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the time to treat catarrh. Cold, wet winter weather often retards a cure of catarrh. If a course of Peruna is taken during the early spring months the cure will be prompt and permanent. There can be no failures if Peruna is taken intelligently during the favorable weather of spring.

As a systemic catarrh remedy Peruna eradicates catarrh from the system wherever it may be located. It cures catarrh of the stomach or bowels with the same certainty as catarrh of the head.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

There is a feeling on the part of many citizens that a mistake has been made in planting a hedge about the Carnegie library grounds. It is argued that the grass plot alone would be much prettier and that the hedge when it has grown will seriously detract from the view of the imposing building and the handsome site it occupies. Further objection is made that a hedge has no place about a public building and is bound to give a graveyard appearance to the ground inside. Of course, there are those who would find fault, no matter what was done or left undone. The News Review has no desire to interfere in the matter, except to say that the public should have what it wants. Frankly, we do not like the hedge. If the public is of the same opinion, it would be an easy matter to remove it now, but a far more difficult task later. It is a question which is worthy of attention, and we would be glad to have expressions from our readers on the subject.

Playing at war is expensive, but much less so than the real thing. Kaiser William, the war lord, is preparing to have a good time fighting imaginary foes. The great land and sea maneuvers which are to take place on the German north coast next month are to be elaborate. It will be supposed that a naval enemy is holding the island of Borkum and is planning a descent upon the coast for the purpose of landing troops at an unknown point, under the command of General von Stuenzner. Wireless telegraphy will be used and the emperor, with a great following of naval and military officers, will be active in the performance. It is to be assumed that the German fleet is absent. If the kaiser can content himself forever with this harmless sort of war the rest of the world will be well pleased.

The press reports indicate that the fate of ancient Pompeii has overtaken the town of St. Pierre, on one of the French islands of the West Indies, and thousands of its inhabitants. No such destruction of life in modern times has ever resulted from a similar cause. Though the pages of history are filled with accounts of great disasters from such causes, the western hemisphere has heretofore contributed comparatively little to the record. If there is not a rapid exodus of population from the island of Martinique after this, it will be surprising.

The Cuban congress is in session and the machinery of the new republic will soon be in full operation. No other people in the world ever entered national existence under such favorable conditions as those which present themselves to the Cubans. They have had over three years' tuition in the business of republican government by the world's greatest republic.

The Scottish entertainment was a pronounced success and all interested are to be congratulated. But the next time East Liverpool attempts a play, it should make it a point to engage a full quota of bagpipers the first thing.

AT THE THEATER

"The Great White Diamond" is the best melodrama on the road. It contains four big acts and four big sensations that are entirely different from anything produced on the stage. Gorgeous scenery, marvelous effects. Moreover, there is a charming vein of comedy which runs through the story, and there is nothing lacking in the way of specialties, which serve to liven things, as the whirling scenes succeed one another.

Bodies Turned to Stone.

Human bodies buried in limestone countries are often turned to solid stone by the limewater which penetrates the graves. In other soils there are elements which sometimes so embalm the buried dead as to preserve form and features unchanged. Many such cases are on record. Robert Burns' body was disinterred in 1815 to be removed to a new tomb. To the surprise of all his friends the features were found to be as perfect as at burial. When the body of John Hampden, the famous English patriot and leader, was disinterred by Lord Nugent 200 years after burial, the form and features were as unchanged as if the corpse had been recently laid in the grave.

One of Dumas' Jokes.

Just for a joke Dumas once addressed a letter to "the greatest poet in Paris." The postoffice sent it to Lamartine, the idol of sentimental readers. He hesitated to open it and took it to Victor Hugo, who protested that his brother bard had far too humble an opinion of himself. After some conversation they agreed to decide by lot which of the two should open the envelope. The lot fell to Victor Hugo, who, taking out the letter, read, "My dear Alfred." It was written to Alfred de Musset.

A Capable Student.

In one of the Philadelphia colleges a professor of chemistry asked a student the other day, "Now, suppose you were called to a patient who had swallowed a heavy dose of oxalic acid, what would you administer?"

"I would administer the sacrament," replied the student, who, by the way, is said to be studying for the ministry and takes chemistry because it is obligatory.—Argonaut.

POTTERY NEWS

It is reasonable to believe that the time is not far distant when the manufacturers will meet for the purpose of appointing a committee to confer with the executive board of the Brotherhood, for the purpose of talking over the revision of any matters that are now being passed by the convention. It is known that some of the resolutions which have been or will be presented to the convention call for an increase in wages, and as this is always an important matter, of course conferences will have to be held on this matter. From what can be learned it is intimated that some departments would like to have an increase of almost 15 per cent.

"This company for one will not go into the pottery combination," states an official of the Barberton pottery. Although repeatedly approached by agents of the combination this company has refused to band itself with those of East Liverpool. As to the pottery companies located in Akron they will not say how they regard the matter. They, too, have been communicated with as regards the movement and although they state now that they are not considering the proposition there are still many chances remaining that they will allow themselves to absorbed.

Now that fine weather is at hand, jiggermen are having troubles of their own. A fine day is the signal for the mold runners and batters-out to take a day, and sometimes it is a week before they returned to their places. Meantime the jiggerman is compelled to lose much time scouring the icty for boys, and generally tries to select those who are willing to stick to their work.

In speaking of the propositions submitted by Messrs. Trainer and Irwin, of Chicago, a prominent manufacturer today said: "This proposition will never be accepted by the manufacturers, as far as I can learn. We received a document from these people, and after we read it it was cast aside, and this shows you how much interest this firm is taking in their scheme.

I can go out now and borrow as much money on this plant as these people propose to give us, and this being so, what is the use in forming a combination on such a plan as has been presented?" Several other manufacturers, who have received the same proposition, as exclusively published in this paper Wednesay evening, are of the same opinion.

John Patterson, who has been employed as a jiggerman at the Union for some time, has resigned his position and Monday will start at Laughlin No. 2. His finisher, Miss Eunice McLean, will also be transferred to the East End plant.

Many of the local potteries are holding back contemplated improvements until it is known what the result of the convention will be. It has been stated that several firms propose to erect new kilns, but have deferred action for a month or so.

Kilnmen's local No. 9 held a short session in Brotherhood hall last evening. Two applications for membership were received, and two transfer cards were granted. No other matters were considered, other than that of a routine nature.

The new clay press ordered for the Union some time ago is expected to be installed within a week or 10 days. With this press in operation the compnay will have double the capacity for making clay as it had before.

The water tower at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor pottery at Chester is being raised about 20 feet. This will allow the water to enter the pottery with more force than it does at present.

William Hartford, manager of the N. U. Walker plant, has returned to the city from Toronto, where he has been attending the funeral of his father-in-law, Jefferson Saltsman.

Della Dugan, who has been forewowan in the biscuit warehouse at the Union, has left that plant. Her work is now being looked after by Eva Powell.

Toronto manufacturers are now getting more cars in which to make shipments. The Forest City plant yesterday shipped 14 cars of sewer pipe.

There is a shortage of girls at the Toronto pottery. The company states that it desires girls of good character for the decorating department.

Major Adams, the well known dipper, has returned from Sebring. Mr. Adams has stood by his post at the vat for more than 40 years, and enjoys the distinction of holding such position longer than any other man.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

A Popular Expression That Had Its Origin In Congress.

The following is the origin of "I acknowledge the corn," which is used in the sense of admitting failure or having been outwitted: In 1828 Andrew Stewart was in congress discussing the principles of protection and said in the course of his remarks that Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana sent their haystacks, cornfields and fodder to New York and Philadelphia markets to sell.

Charles A. Wyckliffe jumped up and said: "Why, that is absurd, Mr. Speaker. I call the gentleman to order. He is stating an absurdity. We never send haystacks or cornfields to New York or Philadelphia."

"Well, what do you send?" asked Stewart.

"We send," replied Wyckcliffe, "horses, cattle, hogs and mules."

"Well," continued Stewart, "what makes your horses, cattle, hogs and mules? You feed $100 worth of hay to a horse; you get on top of your haystack and ride off to market. How about your cattle? You make every one carry $50 worth of hay or grass to an eastern market. You send a hog worth $10 to market. How much corn at 33 cents a bushel does it take to fatten it? Why, thirty bushels. Then you put thirty bushels of corn into the shape of a hog and make it walk to an eastern market."

Before Stewart could proceed further Wyckliffe arose and said, "Mr. Speaker, I acknowledge the corn."

Scotch Consolation.

A story is told of a canny Scot who dealt in old horses, alternating his spells of labor with heavy sprees. During the period of depression which followed each overindulgence John habitually took to bed and there diligently studied the family Bible. During one of these fits of attempted reformation his condition prompted his wife to call in the Rev. Mr. Wallace, the parish minister, who at the time happened to be passing.

"What's wrang wi' him?"

"He's feart to meet his Makker," said Mrs. John.

Quick as fire came the crushing reply:

"Humph! Tell'm he needna be feart for that. He'll never see'm!"

There is a feeling on the part of many citizens that a mistake has been made in planting a hedge about the Carnegie library grounds. It is argued that the grass plot alone would be much prettier and that the hedge when it has grown will seriously detract from the view of the imposing building and the handsome site it occupies. Further objection is made that a hedge has no place about a public building and is bound to give a graveyard appearance to the ground inside. Of course, there are those who would find fault, no matter what was done or left undone. The News Review has no desire to interfere in the matter, except to say that the public should have what it wants. Frankly, we do not like the hedge. If the public is of the same opinion, it would be an easy matter to remove it now, but a far more difficult task later. It is a question which is worthy of attention, and we would be glad to have expressions from our readers on the subject.

Playing at war is expensive, but much less so than the real thing. Kaiser William, the war lord, is preparing to have a good time fighting imaginary foes. The great land and sea maneuvers which are to take place on the German north coast next month are to be elaborate. It will be supposed that a naval enemy is holding the island of Borkum and is planning a descent upon the coast for the purpose of landing troops at an unknown point, under the command of General von Stuenzner. Wireless telegraphy will be used and the emperor, with a great following of naval and military officers, will be active in the performance. It is to be assumed that the German fleet is absent. If the kaiser can content himself forever with this harmless sort of war the rest of the world will be well pleased.

The press reports indicate that the fate of ancient Pompeii has overtaken the town of St. Pierre, on one of the French islands of the West Indies, and thousands of its inhabitants. No such destruction of life in modern times has ever resulted from a similar cause. Though the pages of history are filled with accounts of great disasters from such causes, the western hemisphere has heretofore contributed comparatively little to the record. If there is not a rapid exodus of population from the island of Martinique after this, it will be surprising.

The Cuban congress is in session and the machinery of the new republic will soon be in full operation. No other people in the world ever entered national existence under such favorable conditions as those which present themselves to the Cubans. They have had over three years' tuition in the business of republican government by the world's greatest republic.

The Scottish entertainment was a pronounced success and all interested are to be congratulated. But the next time East Liverpool attempts a play, it should make it a point to engage a full quota of bagpipers the first thing.

Speaking of the Santo Domingo revolution, a contemporary remarks: "It requires no prophetic powers to look into the future and find all these islands, wherein government has been Everybody is anxious to see the cornerers of the meat supply cornered.

The workingmen of New York don't propose to let the millionaires monopolize all forms of social enjoyment. Their organizations in that city are about to build a veritable palace for the use of their clubs, societies and associations. This follows the plan advocated by the late Sir Walter Besant in many fo his writings.

The English are pushing on with the railroad designed to run the entire length of the continent of Africa. But when it is finished what is to prevent Pierpont Morgan from merging it with his consolidated planetary steamship line?

so unstable and life so unhappy, enjoying peace and prosperity under the dominion of the United States." Better go slow: annexing revolutions is risky business.

Illinois is in luck. Billy Mason is no longer to misrepresent that state in the senate.

AT THE THEATER

"The Great White Diamond" is the best melodrama on the road. It contains four big acts and four big sensations that are entirely different from anything produced on the stage. Gorgeous scenery, marvelous effects. Moreover, there is a charming vein of comedy which runs through the story, and there is nothing lacking in the way of specialties, which serve to liven things, as the whirling scenes succeed one another.

Bodies Turned to Stone.

Human bodies buried in limestone countries are often turned to solid stone by the limewater which penetrates the graves. In other soils there are elements which sometimes so embalm the buried dead as to preserve form and features unchanged. Many such cases are on record. Robert Burns' body was disinterred in 1815 to be removed to a new tomb. To the surprise of all his friends the features were found to be as perfect as at burial. When the body of John Hampden, the famous English patriot and leader, was disinterred by Lord Nugent 200 years after burial, the form and features were as unchanged as if the corpse had been recently laid in the grave.

One of Dumas' Jokes.

Just for a joke Dumas once addressed a letter to "the greatest poet in Paris." The postoffice sent it to Lamartine, the idol of sentimental readers. He hesitated to open it and took it to Victor Hugo, who protested that his brother bard had far too humble an opinion of himself. After some conversation they agreed to decide by lot which of the two should open the envelope. The lot fell to Victor Hugo, who, taking out the letter, read, "My dear Alfred." It was written to Alfred de Musset.

A Capable Student.

In one of the Philadelphia colleges a professor of chemistry asked a student the other day, "Now, suppose you were called to a patient who had swallowed a heavy dose of oxalic acid, what would you administer?"

"I would administer the sacrament," replied the student, who, by the way, is said to be studying for the ministry and takes chemistry because it is obligatory.—Argonaut.

It is reasonable to believe that the time is not far distant when the manufacturers will meet for the purpose of appointing a committee to confer with the executive board of the Brotherhood, for the purpose of talking over the revision of any matters that are now being passed by the convention. It is known that some of the resolutions which have been or will be presented to the convention call for an increase in wages, and as this is always an important matter, of course conferences will have to be held on this matter. From what can be learned it is intimated that some departments would like to have an increase of almost 15 per cent.

"This company for one will not go into the pottery combination," states an official of the Barberton pottery. Although repeatedly approached by agents of the combination this company has refused to band itself with those of East Liverpool. As to the pottery companies located in Akron they will not say how they regard the matter. They, too, have been communicated with as regards the movement and although they state now that they are not considering the proposition there are still many chances remaining that they will allow themselves to absorbed.

Now that fine weather is at hand, jiggermen are having troubles of their own. A fine day is the signal for the mold runners and batters-out to take a day, and sometimes it is a week before they returned to their places. Meantime the jiggerman is compelled to lose much time scouring the icty for boys, and generally tries to select those who are willing to stick to their work.

In speaking of the propositions submitted by Messrs. Trainer and Irwin, of Chicago, a prominent manufacturer today said: "This proposition will never be accepted by the manufacturers, as far as I can learn. We received a document from these people, and after we read it it was cast aside, and this shows you how much interest this firm is taking in their scheme.

I can go out now and borrow as much money on this plant as these people propose to give us, and this being so, what is the use in forming a combination on such a plan as has been presented?" Several other manufacturers, who have received the same proposition, as exclusively published in this paper Wednesay evening, are of the same opinion.

John Patterson, who has been employed as a jiggerman at the Union for some time, has resigned his position and Monday will start at Laughlin No. 2. His finisher, Miss Eunice McLean, will also be transferred to the East End plant.

Many of the local potteries are holding back contemplated improvements until it is known what the result of the convention will be. It has been stated that several firms propose to erect new kilns, but have deferred action for a month or so.

Kilnmen's local No. 9 held a short session in Brotherhood hall last evening. Two applications for membership were received, and two transfer cards were granted. No other matters were considered, other than that of a routine nature.

The new clay press ordered for the Union some time ago is expected to be installed within a week or 10 days. With this press in operation the compnay will have double the capacity for making clay as it had before.

The water tower at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor pottery at Chester is being raised about 20 feet. This will allow the water to enter the pottery with more force than it does at present.

The employes at the Little Giant brick works at New Cumberland are still out. The company offers $1.60, but the men want $1.65. The men are losing $200 a day in wages while out.

William Hartford, manager of the N. U. Walker plant, has returned to the city from Toronto, where he has been attending the funeral of his father-in-law, Jefferson Saltsman.

Della Dugan, who has been forewowan in the biscuit warehouse at the Union, has left that plant. Her work is now being looked after by Eva Powell.

Toronto manufacturers are now getting more cars in which to make shipments. The Forest City plant yesterday shipped 14 cars of sewer pipe.

There is a shortage of girls at the Toronto pottery. The company states that it desires girls of good character for the decorating department.

Major Adams, the well known dipper, has returned from Sebring. Mr. Adams has stood by his post at the vat for more than 40 years, and enjoys the distinction of holding such position longer than any other man.

"Chip" Gamble is helping out at the Diamond during the absence of bench boss John T. Wood, who is attending the National convention.

George E. Sebring is spending a week in Boston on business.

A Popular Expression That Had Its Origin In Congress.

The following is the origin of "I acknowledge the corn," which is used in the sense of admitting failure or having been outwitted: In 1828 Andrew Stewart was in congress discussing the principles of protection and said in the course of his remarks that Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana sent their haystacks, cornfields and fodder to New York and Philadelphia markets to sell.

Charles A. Wyckliffe jumped up and said: "Why, that is absurd, Mr. Speaker. I call the gentleman to order. He is stating an absurdity. We never send haystacks or cornfields to New York or Philadelphia."

"Well, what do you send?" asked Stewart.

"Well," continued Stewart, "what makes your horses, cattle, hogs and mules? You feed $100 worth of hay to a horse; you get on top of your haystack and ride off to market. How about your cattle? You make every one carry $50 worth of hay or grass to an eastern market. You send a hog worth $10 to market. How much corn at 33 cents a bushel does it take to fatten it? Why, thirty bushels. Then you put thirty bushels of corn into the shape of a hog and make it walk to an eastern market."

Before Stewart could proceed further Wyckliffe arose and said, "Mr. Speaker, I acknowledge the corn."

Scotch Consolation.

A story is told of a canny Scot who dealt in old horses, alternating his spells of labor with heavy sprees. During the period of depression which followed each overindulgence John habitually took to bed and there diligently studied the family Bible. During one of these fits of attempted reformation his condition prompted his wife to call in the Rev. Mr. Wallace, the parish minister, who at the time happened to be passing.

"What's wrang wi' him?"

"He's feart to meet his Makker," said Mrs. John.

Quick as fire came the crushing reply:

An Odd Habit Among Rooks.

Among the odd habits of rooks is the way that members of the same rookery have of intermarrying generation after generation. The males always choose their wives from among their near neighbors, and if one should be so bold as to bring home to his rookery a bride from a distance the other rooks will invariably refuse to receive her and will force the pair to build some way off. In the neighborhood of big rookeries outlying nests of this kind may always be found.

EAST LIVERPOOL TAX LEVY

purposes was 8.5 mills, divided as follows: General fund, 1.8 mills; street, 1.2; fire, 1.5; light, 1.3; interest, 2; sanitary, 1; library, .3; park, .2. The levy was placed very low a year ago for the reason that every member of the finance committee realized that the work of the equalizing and decennial boards had been anything but satisfactory, and that the unequal apportionments would undoubtedly work an actual hardship to the taxpayers. They also hoped the inequality could be remedied before it would be necessary to make another levy and it was kept down.

During the past year, however, the street, fire, light, police and sanitary funds have been overdrawn to the amount of from $1,000 to $17,000.

There is but one of these funds in which the present expenses can be curtailed—the street. In the others, especially the police and fire, no cutting can be done, as every resident knows the city's fire and police protection is as limited as it can be run with any degree of satisfaction to the owners of property.

It is also argued that, since these departments did run behind, and money had to be borrowed to make it up, the levy should be increased to an amount that would allow the city to be free from debt at the end of the year. Interest on the borrowed money amounts to 7 per cent, and it would be pursuing a "penny wise and pound foolish" policy for the city to keep on running in debt. The committee will recommend the addition of two-tenth mills to the general fund, one-tenth to the fire; police, one-tenth, and the same amount to the light. This would make five-tenths in all, raising the total to 9 mills, the limit as provided by law.

The recommendation will be laid before the council at its next meeting, so that all members may be permitted to give their views.

The Home of the Kindergarten.

The Japanese have the most perfect kindergarten system in the world. In fact, they originated this method of instructing by entertainment instead of by punishment. Their play apparatus for such purposes is elaborate, but all of it is adapted to the infant mind, which it is designed at once to amuse and to inform. The little ones of Japan even become somewhat interested in mathematics by seeing and feeling what a pretty thing a cone, a sphere or a cylinder is when cut out of wood with a lathe. They make outlines of solid figures out of straw, with green peas to hold the joints together, and for the instruction of the blind flat blocks are provided, with the Japanese characters raised upon them.—Pearson's Weekly.

McKinley and His Mother.

Dr. Rixey, who for some years was the private physician in the McKinley household, used to tell that when the late president's mother sat down for the first time to a White House dinner what seemed to impress her most was the prodigal supply of cream. She commented on the abundance and then added, "Well, William, at last I know what they mean when they speak of the cream of society."

The president laughed. "I admit," said he, "that there seems to be an extravagant array of cream on the table, but you know, mother, we can afford to keep a cow now."

Taking It Coolly.

The ship of an admiral who was the Duke of Wellington's near connection was wrecked. He was placed in command of a second ship, which was also lost, and he himself was drowned. Lord Charles communicated the disaster to his father, who merely exclaimed, with Spartan coldness and brevity, "That's the second ship he has lost."

Much Pleasanter.

"Prosperity has ruined many a man."

"No doubt. But if I'm given any choice in the matter I'd rather be ruined by prosperity than by adversity. The process is more enjoyable."—Chicago Post.

SUPERSTITIONS AT SEA.

Quaint Notions Still Prevail Among the Older Mariners.

It is a mistake, according to a well known young naval officer, to suppose that the sailors of our present navy are free from superstition. "I remember," he said, "only five years ago when I was in the training ship that the old salts there were as full of old superstitious beliefs as any of their ancestors could have been.

"When at sea in a dead calm, the swaying of the masts in the motionless atmosphere sometimes causes a peculiar wailing sound like distant cries. This, the old seamen assured us, was the moaning of the souls of sailors lost at sea.

"Another one of their pet beliefs is that all sailors that die by drowning are at once transformed into Cape Horn pigeons, or, as they are also called, Mother Carey's chickens. Officers are supposed to find their reincarnations in sea gulls and mews, while the big, solitary albatrosses, following the wake of passing vessels, are the souls of captains who have gone down with their ships. These are the reasons why sailors never kill these birds.

"I remember that these tales impressed me a great deal in those days when I was still a mere boy. On one occasion I was sitting in the forecastle on my watch below, chatting with the boatswain's mate, a real old timer, when our conversation was interrupted by a low wail of agony, louder than that usually produced by the wind. We listened in a deep, awed silence.

"'Boy,' said the boatswain's mate, 'ye hear that? That's a seaman's call wot's been drownded.'

"Again the wail disturbed the silence.

"'Yes,' said the old sailor in an anxious whisper; 'that's some old salt wot's lost his life on board this yessel. Likely he's come for something he's forgot.'

"After awhile I ventured out on deck. The wails were coming from the roof of the forecastle. I climbed up and there found the captain's little son tugging away at the cat's tail, which the poor animal was resenting with the full power of its lungs."—New York Tribune.

Some Phonetic Spelling.

Before we complain of the spelling of our daughters we should perhaps take exception to the pronunciation of our fathers. Most of the eccentricities in spelling common to children arise from their attempts to reproduce words as they hear them pronounced by their elders. A child who was told to make a list of all the fruits she knew wrote down, "Apls, strorbriz, rarsbriz, goozbris, bnarners." Another spelled the word "idea" with the addition of an "r." "Idear!" exclaimed her teacher. "That is a funny way of spelling idea." Her pupil, however, was not to be outdone. "I know," she answered readily, "but I spelled it that way for short."—London Chronicle.

An Odd Habit Among Rooks.

Among the odd habits of rooks is the way that members of the same rookery have of intermarrying generation after generation. The males always choose their wives from among their near neighbors, and if one should be so bold as to bring home to his rookery a bride from a distance the other rooks will invariably refuse to receive her and will force the pair to build some way off. In the neighborhood of big rookeries outlying nests of this kind may always be found.

purposes was 8.5 mills, divided as follows: General fund, 1.8 mills; street, 1.2; fire, 1.5; light, 1.3; interest, 2; sanitary, 1; library, .3; park, .2. The levy was placed very low a year ago for the reason that every member of the finance committee realized that the work of the equalizing and decennial boards had been anything but satisfactory, and that the unequal apportionments would undoubtedly work an actual hardship to the taxpayers. They also hoped the inequality could be remedied before it would be necessary to make another levy and it was kept down.

During the past year, however, the street, fire, light, police and sanitary funds have been overdrawn to the amount of from $1,000 to $17,000.

There is but one of these funds in which the present expenses can be curtailed—the street. In the others, especially the police and fire, no cutting can be done, as every resident knows the city's fire and police protection is as limited as it can be run with any degree of satisfaction to the owners of property.

It is also argued that, since these departments did run behind, and money had to be borrowed to make it up, the levy should be increased to an amount that would allow the city to be free from debt at the end of the year. Interest on the borrowed money amounts to 7 per cent, and it would be pursuing a "penny wise and pound foolish" policy for the city to keep on running in debt. The committee will recommend the addition of two-tenth mills to the general fund, one-tenth to the fire; police, one-tenth, and the same amount to the light. This would make five-tenths in all, raising the total to 9 mills, the limit as provided by law.

The recommendation will be laid before the council at its next meeting, so that all members may be permitted to give their views.

The Home of the Kindergarten.

The Japanese have the most perfect kindergarten system in the world. In fact, they originated this method of instructing by entertainment instead of by punishment. Their play apparatus for such purposes is elaborate, but all of it is adapted to the infant mind, which it is designed at once to amuse and to inform. The little ones of Japan even become somewhat interested in mathematics by seeing and feeling what a pretty thing a cone, a sphere or a cylinder is when cut out of wood with a lathe. They make outlines of solid figures out of straw, with green peas to hold the joints together, and for the instruction of the blind flat blocks are provided, with the Japanese characters raised upon them.—Pearson's Weekly.

McKinley and His Mother.

Dr. Rixey, who for some years was the private physician in the McKinley household, used to tell that when the late president's mother sat down for the first time to a White House dinner what seemed to impress her most was the prodigal supply of cream. She commented on the abundance and then added, "Well, William, at last I know what they mean when they speak of the cream of society."

The president laughed. "I admit," said he, "that there seems to be an extravagant array of cream on the table, but you know, mother, we can afford to keep a cow now."

Taking It Coolly.

The ship of an admiral who was the Duke of Wellington's near connection was wrecked. He was placed in command of a second ship, which was also lost, and he himself was drowned. Lord Charles communicated the disaster to his father, who merely exclaimed, with Spartan coldness and brevity, "That's the second ship he has lost."

Before we complain of the spelling of our daughters we should perhaps take exception to the pronunciation of our fathers. Most of the eccentricities in spelling common to children arise from their attempts to reproduce words as they hear them pronounced by their elders. A child who was told to make a list of all the fruits she knew wrote down, "Apls, strorbriz, rarsbriz, goozbris, bnarners." Another spelled the word "idea" with the addition of an "r." "Idear!" exclaimed her teacher. "That is a funny way of spelling idea." Her pupil, however, was not to be outdone. "I know," she answered readily, "but I spelled it that way for short."—London Chronicle.

POLLUTED STREAMS

STATE HEALTH BOARD ON WATER SUPPLY OF CITIES.

Danger Lurks in Ohio River Water Which Is Constantly Growing Worse.

Columbus, May 10.—In the annual report of the state board of health the question of water supply for cities receives much attention. During the year the board acted on plans for the supply for various cities, including Wellsville and Salineville.

The examination of the supply for cities dependant upon Ohio river and Lake Erie for water, begun in 1897, and coninued until this year by means of monthly tests of water, lead the board to interesting conclusions. It says: "Large cities, with few exceptions, must forever depend upon lakes and streams for a water supply. The investigations of the board show the extend to which these are already polluted. The pollution of our streams is rapidly increasing. Their minimum flow is decreasing, and to the same extent their ability to dispose by natural agencies of the sewage and other pollutions poured into them. Our cities must more and more turn to water purification. But even then, unless efficient measures are taken to conserve the streams, many of them will become open sewers, breeding sickness along their course, and unfitted for the use of man or beast.

"The investigation indicates for the Ohio river that it at no place offers a safe domestic supply during the entire year. Its waters are improved and scarcely made safe by sedimentation. The low alkalinity at times will make it necessary to use much care in the use of coagulants (alum) in the purification of the water by mechanical filtration. In the interest of public health early attention should be given to the proper purification of all public water supplies obtained from this stream."

East Liverpool People Receiving the Full Benefit.

There have been many cases like the following in East Liverpool. Everyone relates the experience of people we know. These plain straightforward statements will do much toward relieving the suffering of thousands. Such testimony will be read with interest by many people.

Mrs. William Dunn, of 192 Sixth street, says: "Doan's kidney Pills did for me what none of the doctors could do. They told me I had gravel, and a little relief was all I could expect. I suffered terribly for two or three years alternately better and, worse with severe pains across the small of my back and up my side The pains were so severe that I was often compelled to stay in bed, not being able to get up. My limb swelled so I could hardly walk, and periodically I was taken with such severe pains through the groins that I could hardly stand it. The doctors advised hot applications and gave me bottle after bottle of medicine, but I did not receive any real benefit until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy. Having seen them so highly recommended by others I took them, and am grateful to say they helped me alomst at once."

Keep the Balance Up

It has been truthfully said that any disturbance of the even balance of health causes serious trouble. Nobody can be too careful to keep this balance up. When people begin to lose appetite, or to get tired easily, the least imprudence brings on sickness, weakness, or debility. The system needs a tonic, craves it, and should not be denied it; and the best tonic of which we have any knowledge is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Its early use has illustrated the wisdom of the old saying that a stitch in time saves nine. Take Hood's for appetite, strength and endurance.

SICK MADE WELL

Marvelous Elixir of Life Discovered by Famous Doctor-Scientist That Cures Every Known Ailment.

Wonderful Cures Are Effected That Seem Like Miracles Performed—The Secret of Long Life of Olden Times Revived.

The Remedy Is Free to All Who Send Name and Address.

After years of patient study, and delving into the dusty record of the past, as well as following modern experiments in the realms of medical science, Dr. James W. Kidd, 2917 Baltes Building, Fort Wayne, Indiana, makes the startling announcement that he has surely discovered the elixir of life. That he is able with the aid of a mysterious compound, known only to himself, produced as a result of the years he has spent in searching for this precious life-giving boon, to cure any and every disease that is known to the human body. There is no doubt of the doctor's earnestness in making his claim and the remarkable cures that he is daily effecting seems to bear him out very strongly. His theory which he advances is one of reason and based on sound experience in a medical practice of many years. It costs nothing to try his remarkable "Elixir of Life," as he calls it, for he sends it free, to anyone who is a sufferer, in sufficient quantities to convince of its ability to cure, so there is absolutely no risk to run. Some of the cures cited are very remarkable, and but for reliable witnesses would hardly be credited. The lame have thrown away crutches and walked about after two or three trials of the remedy. The sick, given up by home doctors, have been restored to their families and friends in perfect health. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stomach, heart, liver, kidney, blood and skin diseases and bladder troubles disappear as by magic. Headaches, backaches, nervousness, fevers, consumption, coughs, colds, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis and all affections of the throat, lungs or any vital organs are easily overcome in a space of time that is simply marvelous.

Partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, dropsy, gout, scrofula and piles are quickly and permanently removed. It purifies the entire system, blood and tissue, restores normal nerve power, circulation and a state of perfect health is produced at once. To the doctor all systems are alike and equally affected by this great "Elixir of Life." Send for the remedy today. It is free to every sufferer. State what you want to be cured of and the sure remedy for it will be sent you free by return mail.

There is no doubt of the doctor's earnestness in making his claim and the remarkable cures that he is daily effecting seems to bear him out very strongly. His theory which he advances is one of reason and based on sound experience in a medical practice of many years. It costs nothing to try his remarkable "Elixir of Life," as he calls it, for he sends it free, to anyone who is a sufferer, in sufficient quantities to convince of its ability to cure, so there is absolutely no risk to run. Some of the cures cited are very remarkable, and but for reliable witnesses would hardly be credited. The lame have thrown away crutches and walked about after two or three trials of the remedy. The sick, given up by home doctors, have been restored to their families and friends in perfect health. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stomach, heart, liver, kidney, blood and skin diseases and bladder troubles disappear as by magic. Headaches, backaches, nervousness, fevers, consumption, coughs, colds, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis and all affections of the throat, lungs or any vital organs are easily overcome in a space of time that is simply marvelous.

Partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, dropsy, gout, scrofula and piles are quickly and permanently removed. It purifies the entire system, blood and tissue, restores normal nerve power, circulation and a state of perfect health is produced at once. To the doctor all systems are alike and equally affected by this great "Elixir of Life." Send for the remedy today. It is free to every sufferer. State what you want to be cured of and the sure remedy for it will be sent you free by return mail.

If you have any of these symptoms you certainly have a weak heart, and should immediately take

AIRSHIP BUILDER

Former Salem Man Constructing an Improved Flying Machine.

Salem, May 10.—Leo Stevens, the aeronaut who formerly resided here, and who is known by many Salem people, is the name of another airship builder who has a flying machine within 60 days of completion. He now has his workshop on the second floor of 291 Eighth avenue, New York city, and says he will contest for the big prize at St. Louis.

His machine, he thinks, is an improvement on the Santos-Dumont machine. He expects to make his first trip through the air over the tops of New York's sky scrapers.

FUNERAL OF CORRIGAN.

CARDINAL GIBBONS CHIEF OFFICIANT AT MASS.

Many Prelates and Priests Present Body Interred Under Cathedral Altar.

New York, May 10.—A solemn requiem mass for the repose of the soul of the Most Reverend Michael Augustine Corrigan, archbishop of New York, was said yesterday in St. Patrick's cathedral by Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, in the presence of 8 archbishops, 18 bishops and more than 1,000 priests of the church.

The officiating clergymen were: Celebrant, Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore; assistant priest, the Rev. Joseph F. Mooney, vicar general; deacons of honor, the Rt. Rev. John Edwards, of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and the Rev. Father Colton, of St. Stephen's; deacon to the mass, the Rev. Father McGean, of St. Peter's; sub-deacon, the Rev. Father Lavelle, pastor of the cathedral; masters of ceremonies, the Rev. Father James Connelly, of the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, and the Rev. Father Thomas F. Myhan, of St. Ann's; preacher, Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia.

Other Masses Well Attended.

Although the funeral service proper was set for 10:30 o'clock, the early masses, at which prayers for the dead were said, were attended by large congregations. Before 6 o'clock, the hour of the first mass, there was 3,000 persons around the cathedral waiting for the opening of the doors. Five masses were said up to 8 o'clock, and as one congregation left the large building another took its place. At the end of the 8 o'clock mass the doors were closed so that preparations might be made for the final ceremonies.

Final absolution was given at noon and the casket then was borne by six priests to the crypt under the altar of the cathedral, where interment was made.

A wreath of Easter lilies, white roses and snowballs was received at the cathedral yesterday morning from President Roosevelt. Another wreath received bore the name of John W. Mackay.

Gave $50,000 to the Pope.

Rome, May 10.—Shortly prior to his death Archbishop Corrigan sent the pope a check for $50,000 as a personal gift in connection with the pontiff's jubilee.

It is calculated that the diocese of New York supplies the vatican with most of the Peter's pence, which has now been reduced to about a third of the amount formerly received.

The correspondent of the Associated Press is informed that it is not likely the successor of Archbishop Corrigan will be nominated at the next consistory and that probably more than a month will elapse before a decision in the matter will be reached. It is therefore probable that a capitulary vicar will be appointed to administer the archdiocese.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Another delightful social event was that of yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. John C. Thompson entertained about fifty guests at her handsome residence, "The Lyndens." The home was beautifully decorated as on the previous day with pink roses, lilies of the valley and palms. Progressive euchre was the game. At its conclusion very elaboarte refreshments were served by a Steubenville caterer. After lingering some time in the sun-parlor, which is one of the delightful features of this artistically arranged home, the guests departed after a most delightful afternoon. Mrs. Thompson is noted as being one of East Liverpool's most charming hostesses, and her entertainments have always been most brilliant.

The class which presented the "Scottish Reformation" at the opera house on Thursday and Friday evenings will entertain in honor of Miss Lucy Reninger, the trainer at Rock Springs this evening. Miss Reninger has become quite a favorite during her brief sojourn in the city and the class takes this means of expressing its appreciation. All the members who can are urged to be present and assist in making the occasion memorable.

Mrs. Harrison Sloterbeck and daughter, Miss Florence, are to give a reception at their home on South Negley avenue, Pittsburg, next Tuesday evening, in honor of Mrs. Simon R. Huss, nee Florence Cartwright, of this city. About 400 invitations have been issued.

ART THRIVES IN THIS CITY

East Liverpool Can Produce Other Good Things as Well as Pottery.

SOME EXQUISITE WORK

The city of East Liverpool has for years been conceded to be the pottery manufacturing center of the United States. It can be justly proud of the distinction, as a larger, more beautiful and artistic display of the elegant product cannot be seen anywhere. Nevertheless the citizens must not confine themselves to being proud of pottery alone.

There are other admirable features connected with the business, manufacturing and industrial reputation of the city and perhaps the most noticeable attractions among them are the art studios, one of the finest and best equipped being located on Washington street in the First National bank building. It is known as the Spencer studio and is owned and managed by R. E. Spencer, a man with years of experience in photography and possessed of superior talent for the work incident to the business.

A News Review reporter had the pleasure of visiting the Spencer studio this morning. He was amazed at the magnificent display of art, grandeur of the scenic production and the pleasing effects presented. The parlors are indeed realistic representations of artistic loveliness. From the walls overhanging are seen in most perfect types the faces of the adored living and the fondly remembered dead, while interspersed among them are true reproductions of nature's beauteousness.

In making the Sepia crayons Mr. Spencer and his assistants are particularly efficient. Three of their latest productions are now hanging in the directors' room in the First National bank. The portraits are those of Josiah Thompson, deceased, and ex-president of the bank; Hon. David Boyce, president, and N. G. Macrum, cashier of the bank. They are life-size and are perfect in every respect. The directors and adherents of the bank look upon them with pride.

Porcelain and ivory miniatures are also produced in elegant style by Mr. Spencer. He states that they will, in a few years, be almost exclusively in demand, as the public in general is taking a fancy to them more and more every day.

All interested in the display seen in the studio can glean a fair conception of the elegance by taking a view of the photographs to be seen in the lower show window of Lewis Bros.' furniture store. Here are presented a number of those who took part in the Scottish Reformation. Mrs. W. C. Lynch, as Queen Mary, is most beautifully photographed, as well as she and her guards in one of the imposing scenes of the play. Again the queen and the ladies and gentlemen of the court, bring forth many admiring expressions from those who have seen the photos.

D. M. McLane's picture as John Knox and surrounded by the ladies and gentlemen of the court, elicits many compliments.

Mrs. H. E. Monroe, who superintended the presentation of the play, states that the photographs taken by Mr. Spencer far exceed any she has ever seen, and those who have not been before his camera are extended a very cordial invitation to avail themselves of the opportunity at once.

TELEPHONE GIRLS

COLUMBIANA COUNTY COMPANY PROUD OF THEM.

The Recent Controversy Over Wages Discussed By Manager Crossley.

To the Editor of the News Review.

Dear Sir: I desire to publish this letter for the benefit of all. At the consultation between the operators of the East Liverpool exchange, Mr. Richardson and myself, the terms of settlement were discussed fully and freely. After I found what the girls wanted I framed a proposition which I thought met them a little more than half way, submitted it to them and gave them the use of the office for private consideration. After discussing the matter we were asked to return.

After some further discussion and some effort on the part of the older and more experienced operators, all voted to accept the proposition, which they considered a just and fair one, and return to work. Later in the evening of the same day, two of the operators, one of the youngest operators in the office, and the other, who had worked for us in all about one year, but who had left us some time since, and lately returned to work, became dissatisfied, as they thought they should be the ones that should be most favored, and proceeded to do a great deal of talking, and gave to the operators who returned to work a very unlady-like epithet of scabs.

In justice to the operators not employed in the East Liverpool exchange I wish to say through your columns that they were most lady-like through all the discussion, and when I placed the matter before them, and made them the proposition, they said, while perfectly satisfied, and thought the proposition a most fair one, they would not accept the same unless all voted to do so. They all did vote to accept, and immediately returned to work. And I think it very fair and unlady-like in those two who persist in talking the way they have talked.

I trust the public will not censure the operators not at work for the action taken by them in returning to work after they had all voted to do so. We also desire to say, that, as a company, we are justly proud of the service given by our East Liverpool operators.

If you can add anything to this letter that will be of benefit to the girls, I will be pleased if you do so.

Very truly,

The management made no mistake in signing Reark. Yesterday was his first game and he played as if he had practiced all spring. Three hits and four put outs is a pretty good record for the first game.

Godwin failed to get a put out, but he was there in assists, seven in all. His pickups were marvelous and elicited much praise.

C. Davis behind the bat rarely let the ball get away, but didn't seem to fancy keeping company with it, as he dropped it like hot 34 times.

At first base Fred Heckathorn was all right. He got a run, a hit and 15 put outs.

Sympathy was with Whitnight on third. His errors were numerous, but being a general favorite, he was excused. When not in bad luck he covers the base to perfection.

Ahmon pitched a fair game and bids fair to enter faster company.

It's a good thing for Manager Walsh that his team won. Had it not after the change from Thursday's lineup evevery fan in the city would have rebelled. Nobody knows why he made the change, anyway.

40,000 DIE IN FIRE

CITY OF ST. PIERRE WIPED OUT.

Some Shipping Was Also Destroyed. U. S. Consul and Family Reported Perished—Volcano Erupting on St Vincent—No Damage Reported.

St. Thomas, D. W. I., May 10.—It was estimated last night that 40,000 persons perished as a result of the volcanic eruption in the island of Martinique.

The British schooner Ocean Traveller, of St. John, N. B., arrived at the island of Dominica, British West Indies, at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. She reported having been obliged to flee from the island of St. Vincent, West Indies, during the afternoon of Wednesday, in consequence of a heavy fall of sand from a volcano which was erupting there. She tried to reach the island of St. Lucia, British West Indies, but adverse currents prevented her from so doing. The schooner arrived opposite St. Pierre, Martinique, Thursday morning, May 8. While about a mile off the volcano (of Mont Pelee) exploded and fire from it swept the whole town of St. Pierre, destroying the town and the shipping there, including the cable repair ship Grappler, of the West India and Panama Telegraph company, of London, which was engaged in repairing the cable near the Guerin factory. The Ocean Traveller, while on her way to Dominica, encountered a quantity of wreckage.

Washington, May 10.—The following cablegram was received at the state department last evening:

"Pointe-A-Pitre, May 9, 1902.

"Secretary of State, Washington:

"At 7 o'clock a. m., on the 8th instant, a storm of steam, mud and fire enveloped the city and community. Not more than 20 persons escaped with their lives. Eighteen vessels were burned and sunk with all on board, including four Americans, and a steamer from Quebec named Roraima. The United States consul and family are reported among the victims. A war vessel has come to Guadaloupe for provisions and will leave at 5 tomorrow.

(Signed) "Ayme, Consul."

London, May 9.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegraph company, from Kingston, Jamaica, after giving the details of the Martinique disaster already known, says:

"Thousands were killed at St. Pierre, where a terrible panic prevailed. The eruption began Saturday, May 3, when St. Pierre was covered with ashes and appeared to be enveloped in fog. The flow of lava continued until Wednesday, May 7."

The message adds:

"In the island of St. Vincent the Soufriere (volcano) is active and earthquakes are frequent. But so far no damage has been done."

In response to the request of Governor Llewellyn, of the Windward islands, the British second-class cruiser Indefatigable has been dispatched from the island of Trinidad to the island of St. Vincent, by way of St. Lucia.

A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Pointe-A-Pitre, island of Gaudaloupe, French West Indies, dated yesterday, says:

"The Mont Pelee (St. Pierre) crater ejected yesterday morning molten rocks and ashes during three minutes and completely destroyed St. Pierre and the districts within a four-mile radius. All the inhabitants were burned.

"About eight passengers from the Roraima, of the Quebec steamship line were saved by the French cruiser Suchet.

"The inhabitants of the southern districts of the island who were dependent on St. Pierre for provisions are menaced by famine."

A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Jamaica says:

"The first intimation of a disaster at Martinique was the breaking of the cables on Tuesday. The French cable to Martinique, from Puerto Plata, was broken Wednesday. Cable communication with all the northern islands is stopped.

"The survivors of the British steamer Roddam describe the scene at St. Pierre as being "glimpses of hell,' beggaring description. The Roddam's men were killed chiefly by molten lava.

"The Roraima was wrecked in a terrible upheaval of land and sea. The whole crew perished.

"Two ships were lost with all on board in an attempt to approach Martinique."

Washington, May 10.—The senate yesterday confirmed the nomination of H. Clay Evans to be consul general at London

TERRITORIES BILL PASSED.

House Passed Admission Measure. Delegate Smith Collapsed at Close of Speech.

Washington, May 10.—The opposition in the house to the bill for the admission of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico collapsed at the last minute yesterday, and the bill was passed without division as it came from the committee, except for a few verbal amendments. The real test came on an amendment offered by Mr. Overstreet, of Indiana, to join New Mexico and Arizona and admit them as the state of Montezuma. It was beaten—280 to 106—and all opposition then ceased. The closing scenes of the debate were accompanied by a dramatic incident which narrowly escaped being a tragedy. Delegate Mark A. Smith, of Arizona, who has been fighting for the admission of his territory for a dozen years, had just made a vigorous speech against the Overstreet amendment, when he was seized with a rush of blood to the head. He was conveyed to the lobby, where several physicians, who are members of the house, by the prompt administration of powerful heart stimulants, saved him from a stroke of apoplexy. He later rallied and was removed to his hotel.

The bill as passed yesterday provides enabling acts for Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico, similar in form to former enabling acts, with the exception that the constitutional convention of New Mexico is empowered to designate the name by which the new state shall enter the Union, and in the case of Oklahoma the convention, by irrevocable ordinance, shall express the consent of that state that congress at any future time may attach all or any part of Indian territory to it. The enabling acts differ from each other chiefly in reference to the public lands appropriated for educational and public purposes.

The latter part of the session was devoted to private pension bills, 87 of which were passed; 28 original, 54 for increases and 5 to correct military records.

NO TIME TO VOTE FIXED.

Efforts of Philippine Bill's Friends Failed In Senate.

Washington, May 10.—An effort was made in the senate to fix a time for a vote on the pending Philippine bill, but it was unsuccessful. The minority said many senators still desired to speak on the measure, and it would not be proper to determine at this time upon a vote. Yesterday's debate on the Philippine bill was mild. Mr. Teller, of Colorado, occupied considerable time in opposition to the measure. He contended principally that the Filipinos were capable of self-government and of establishing a government quite equal to some European governments. Some debate occurred over the resolution to discharge the committee on privileges and elections from further consideration of the proposed constitutional amendment giving the election of senators to the people. It was finally withdrawn, assurance being given that a report from the committee soon would be made.

MINERS TO QUIT WORK

ARBITRATION OFFER DECLINED.

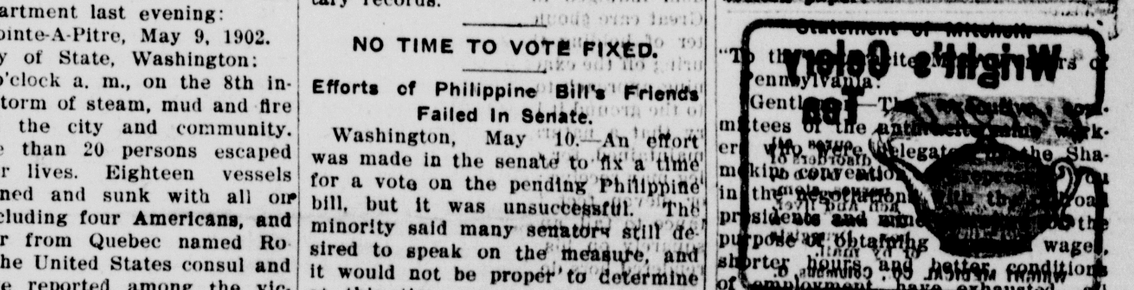
Operators Rejected Proposal of Miners' Officials—Delegate Convention to Consider Whether to Strike to Be Held Wednesday.

Scranton, Pa., May 10.—A general strike of the miners of the anthracite region has been ordered for Monday next, but the order has a string to it. The question as to whether the strike is to be made permanent is left to the decision of a convention of delegates of all the local organizations of the mine workers, to be held at Hazleton next Wednesday.

The miners' executive committee of the three districts met yesterday morning and had a three-hour session. At its conclusion President Mitchell gave out a statement, saying in part:

"Replies to our proposition to submit the entire question in dispute to an impartial board of arbitration have been received from President Baer, of the Philadelphia and Reading; Chairman Thomas, of the Erie railroad; President Truesdale, of the Lackawanna, and President Oliphant, of the Delaware and Hudson, all of whom refused to join in the adjustment of the differences between us by the methods we propose."

At 4:30 the committeemen assembled and remained in session until 7:30 o'clock. When the session concluded President Mitchell prepared a statement, and assembling the newspaper men at the St. Charles hotel, read to them as follows from a typewritten paper:



"To the anthracite mine workers of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen:—The executive committees of the anthracite mine workers who were delegated by the Shamokin convention [illegible] in the Scranton convention [illegible] presidents and [illegible] the purpose of obtaining [illegible] wages, shorter hours and better conditions of employment, have exhausted all peaceable, conciliatory and honorable means at their command, and have failed to secure any concessions of a tangible nature, and while, under the resolutions adopted by the Shamokin convention, authority was vested in the executive committees, should they fail in the negotiations, to inaugurate a strike at whatever time, in their judgment, held out the greatest promise of success, the committees, after three days' serious deliberation, feel that in justice to the anthracite mine workers and those dependent upon them, before a general strike is inaugurated, the question should be further considered by a delegate convention, in which representatives from the various local unions shall be fully instructed by their constituents and prepared to vote in favor of or in opposition to a complete cessation of work.

"In the meantime all persons employed in or around the collieries, are instructed to temporarily abstain from working, beginning with Monday, May 12, and continuing thereafter until a final decision is reached by a delegate convention, which will convene Wednesday morning, May 14, at Hazleton, Pa.

Asked to Instruct Delegates.

"The basis of representation in this convention shall be one vote for each 100 members and one vote for each additional 100 members or majority fraction thereof. The executive committees recommend that special meetings of all local unions be held on Monday afternoon, May 12, for the purpose of selecting delegates and considering the question involved, and it is especially recommended that specific instructions be given to delegates as to how they shall vote on the proposition to inaugurate a strike or to continue work under present conditions.

"The instruction for all men to suspend work on Monday does not include firemen, engineers, pump men and other labor necessary to preserve the property of the operators."

The order is signed by all the district presidents and secretaries.

Clara Taylor and Niece Held.

Washington, May 10.—Agreeable to the request of the state department, the Italian authorities have provisionally detained Clara Taylor and the kidnaped child at Booberigahera, the town in Italy where they were located by Ambassador Choate. The arrival [illegible] papers from Cincinnati are awaited.

The miners' executive committee of the three districts met yesterday morning and had a three-hour session. At its conclusion President Mitchell gave out a statement, saying in part:

"Replies to our proposition to submit the entire question in dispute to an impartial board of arbitration have been received from President Baer, of the Philadelphia and Reading, Chairman Thomas, of the Erie railroad; President Truesdale, of the Lackawanna, and President Oliphant, of the Delaware and Hudson, all of whom refused to join in the adjustment of the differences between us by the methods we propose."

At 4:30 the committeemen assembled and remained in session until 7:30 o'clock. When the session concluded President Mitchell prepared a statement, and assembling the newspaper men at the St. Charles hotel, read to them as follows from a typewritten paper:

Statement of Mitchell.

"To the Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania:

"Gentlemen: The executive committees of the anthracite mine workers have met the delegates from the Shamokin convention [illegible] in the negotiations with the operators and endeavored to secure for the purpose of obtaining higher wages, shorter hours and better conditions of employment, have exhausted all peaceable, conciliatory and honorable means at their command, and have failed to secure any concessions of a tangible nature, and while, under the resolutions adopted by the Shamokin convention, authority was vested in the executive committees, should they fail in the negotiations, to inaugurate a strike at whatever time, in their judgment, held out the greatest promise of success, the committees, after three days' serious deliberation, feel that in justice to the anthracite mine workers and those dependent upon them, before a general strike is inaugurated, the question should be further considered by a delegate convention, in which representatives from the various local unions shall be fully instructed by their constituents and prepared to vote in favor of or in opposition to a complete cessation of work.

"In the meantime all persons employed in or around the collieries, are instructed to temporarily abstain from working, beginning with Monday, May 12, and continuing thereafter until a final decision is reached by a delegate convention, which will convene Wednesday morning, May 14, at Hazleton, Pa.

Asked to Instruct Delegates.

"The basis of representation in this convention shall be one vote for each 100 members and one vote for each additional 100 members or majority fraction thereof. The executive committees recommend that special meetings of all local unions be held on Monday afternoon, May 12, for the purpose of selecting delegates and considering the question involved, and it is especially recommended that specific instructions be given to delegates as to how they shall vote on the proposition to inaugurate a strike or to continue work under present conditions.

"The instruction for all men to suspend work on Monday does not include firemen, engineers, pump men and other labor necessary to preserve the property of the operators."

The order is signed by all the district presidents and secretaries.

It sweetens the stomach, corrects digestion and gives the bowels a regular, healthy action. It cures kidney and bladder diseases, and restores to the normal conditions all the functions of the body. It works by completely changing all the blood in your veins and making it rich and healthy. "Blood Wine" sells on its merits, and wins friends as soon as it touches the stomach. Go to your druggist. Some Famous Dunces.

Literary history is crowded with instances of torpid and uninteresting boyhood. Gibbon was pronounced "dreadfully dull," and the utmost that was predicted of Hume in his youth was that "he might possibly become a steady merchant." Adam Clarke, afterward so deeply skilled in oriental languages and antiquities, was pronounced by his father to be "a grievous dunce," and of Boileau, who became a model for Pope, it was said that he was a youth of little understanding. Dryden was "a great numskull," who went through a course of education at Westminster, but the "stimulating properties of Dr. Busby's classical ferrule were thrown away upon the drone who was to be known as 'Glorious John.'" —London Standard.

A Small Legal Fee.

The smallest fee ever taken by an English counsel was sixpence, that fee having on one occasion been taken by the late Sir John Holker. Barristers' fees were in olden times much less than those now paid. An entry occurs in the churchwardens' accounts of St. Margaret's, Westminster, for 1476, showing that a fee of 3s. 8d., with fourpence for his dinner, was paid to Robert Flypott, counsel, learned in the law, for his advice.

In Nare's "Glossary" a barrister's fee was stated to be an angel, or 10 shillings. These are somewhat different figures from the 600 guineas paid to Sir Charles Russell a number of years ago at the Leeds assizes for less than three hours' work, or at the rate of over 3 guineas a minute.—London Tit-Bits.

Gray of Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Pole Vault Champion. The Cyclists.

The smashing of records has already begun. Notwithstanding that the outdoor athletic season has but recently been initiated Frank Kramer, the cyclonic East Orange (N. J.) cycler, has added another record to his long string, and E. H. Gray of the University of Pennsylvania has succeeded in breaking the intercollegiate pole vault record.

Gray cleared the bar at a height of 11 feet 8 inches. He has been for several years a prominent competitor in collegiate athletics, and his latest achievement is the result of diligent effort. Pole vaulting is a sport that requires unceasing practice, and carelessness in the performance of the feat oftentimes results in serious injury.

Pole vaulting is attracting more and more attention every year. It is distinctly an amateur pastime and is seldom indulged in by foreign athletes Great care should be taken in the matter of holding the pole and in measuring off the exact distance for the running approach to the bar. In dropping to the ground it is particularly necessary that a natural, relaxed attitude is maintained, for otherwise an arm or a leg may receive a disabling blow. Ten or eleven feet is a considerable distance to fall, and unless a man lands squarely on his feet he will soon be rendered hors de combat.

Racing men have awakened to the fact that the coming season is likely to be a very prosperous one for those prominent in cycling. There are indications everywhere that the silent steed has been taken back into favor by the general public, and this means that the public will enjoy good racing if it is served up in an up to date manner.

The warm, sunny days that have occurred thus far this spring have seen the boulevards and cycle paths thronged with riders. Everywhere the dealers report the return of former patrons of the wheel. Men who have not ridden for several years are having their old steeds fixed up, and the rising generation is taking a very healthy interest in wheels.

Realizing the proximity of a boom, professional cycle teams are being organized on a scale that reminds one of the halcyon days of 1894 and 1895. New tracks are being constructed on modern lines and not so expensively as to involve the builders in financial difficulties, and the Coliseum circuit is being rapidly enlarged. When completed, the Coliseum circuit in the east will include twenty-five tracks and will give constant employment to at least 300 money chasers, of which number about seventy-five will be pace followers, about seventy-five sprinters and the rest pacemakers, trainers and managers.

What will make the racing picturesque this season will be the presence of a number of speedy foreigners in their odd, many colored uniforms, conspicuous for lack of good taste. Two of these men who have already signed a contract to ride here are Basil de Guichard, a lad of sixteen, and Emil Bouhours. They will ride under the management of P. O. Sheehan.

PUGILISM

Terry McGovern will tackle Young Corbett in an open air fight next October at Hartford, Conn. Manager Crowley, who secured the fight between these great little men by offering a fourteen thousand dollar purse, has decided to use the baseball ground in Hartford as the arena. There is no law against pugilism in Hartford, hence a big time is expected when the battle is fought.

Sam Harris, manager of Terry McGovern, feels confident he has another world beater in Hughey McGovern, a brother of the little Brooklyn whirlwind. In favor of his opinion Harris is willing to back Hughey against any boy in the world at 110 pounds for $1,000.

Mrs. Joseph Choate was Caroline Dutcher Sterling. She was born in Salisbury, Conn., and spent most of her girlhood days in Cleveland. In 1856 she was married to Mr. Choate and removed to New York. Travelers to California

Naturally desire to see the grandest and most impressive scenery en route. This you will do by selecting the Denver & Rio Grande and Rio Grande Western, "The Scenic Line of the World," and "The Great Salt Lake Route," in one or both directions, as this line has two separate routes across the Rocky mountains between Denver and Ogden. Tickets reading via this route are available either via its main line through the Royal George, Leadville, over Tennessee Pass, through the Canon of the Grand river and Glenwood Springs, or via the line over Marshall Pass and through the Black Canon of the Gunnison, thus enabling the traveler to use one of the above routes going and the other returning. Three splendidly equipped fast trains are operated to and from the Pacific coast, which carry through standard sleepers daily between Chicago, St. Louis, Denver and San Francisco. Dining cars (service a la carte) on all through trains. If you contemplate such a trip, let us send you beautifully illustrated pamphlets, free. S. K. Hooper, G. P. & T. A., Denver, Col.

In the Art Gallery.

"Ah," exclaimed Mrs. Oldcastle, who was again enjoying the splendors of her new neighbors' art gallery, "a Corot, I see!"

"Where?" asked her hostess, looking doubtfully at the canvas which seemed to claim the other's attention.

"Well, now, I declare. I can't see a single crow anywhere around. You don't mean them little black spots in the left hand corner, do you? Them's clouds!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Limit of Chivalry.

There was once a man who zealously declared that woman has no right to invade the field of wage earning men. She should stay at home, where she belonged.

Finally his four sisters, three cousins and two aunts, who were without a masculine protector, gathered about him and inquired:

"Whose home? Yours?"

Wisdom In City Directories.

The New York city directory for the early years of the nineteenth century contained an almanac and other features now considered to be extraneous to directories. The compilation was largely done by Abraham Shoemaker. Mr. Shoemaker had a habit of ornamenting the margins of the pages with quaint old "saws" of this character:

A poor man must walk to get meat for his stomach, the rich man to get a stomach for his meat.

MISS ROSE OWENS,

No. 720 Seventeenth St., WASHINGTON, D. C.

"If every suffering woman has the same experience with Wine of Cardui that I had, your medicine will be most popular. About a year ago I began to have a worn out tired feeling with lassitude, pains in the back and head which kept increasing every month. I felt that I needed something, but to get the right medicine was the trouble. I finally decided on your Wine of Cardui and only needed to take three bottles when I was fully recovered."

Miss Rose Owens.

WHEN Miss Rose Owens, who has a responsible position in the Government service at Washington, D. C., decided to try Wine of Cardui, she made a wise choice. Over a million women have been relieved of female weakness by this same Wine of Cardui. It is not a strong medicine but may be taken every day in the year by any woman with benefit. It does not force results, but corrects derangements of the menstrual organs. It strengthens the nervous system, gives tone to the bodily functions, acts directly on the genital organs, and is the finest tonic for women known to the science of medicine.

If you are a suffering woman we would say to you that Wine of Cardui seldom fails to completely cure any case of female ills. We say emphatically, it never fails to benefit. Every day hundreds of sufferers are writing to our Ladies' Advisory Department. The letters are opened by persons competent to give advice. Mrs. Jones was cured by following the advice which was freely given her by the Ladies' Advisory Department. Miss Owens was cured without advice by just buying a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from her druggist and taking this great medicine in the privacy of her home. No doctor's examination, treatment or advice is necessary. You have read what these two cured women have written. Is this not enough to lead you to determine to be rid of suffering?

August 13, 1900, Mrs. W. H. Jones, of Cameron, Mo., writes:

"I suffered terribly at monthly periods for three years. I would sometimes go for seven months with no flow at all. Now I have my health back again and am expecting to be confined in January. I cannot praise your medicine enough."

In her salon gather the beauty and wit of the American colony in London, and invitations to her receptions, which are always crowded, are sought for by members of the British nobility. The latest photograph of Mrs. Choate shows her as she is, a beautiful type of the American matron. She is par excellence a diplomat's wife—quick witted, cordial and tactful.

MRS. JOSEPH H. CHOATE.

Mrs. Joseph Choate was Caroline Dutcher Sterling. She was born in Salisbury, Conn., and spent most of her girlhood days in Cleveland. In 1860 she was married to Mr. Choate and removed to New York. Mrs. Choate is a blond, her hair now slightly tinged with gray. Her features are aristocratic, her cheeks rosy with health and her eyes dark and brilliant.

Mrs. Choate is the possessor of a dignified and at the same time a winning personality. She is thus generously provided with all the attributes most needed by a diplomat's wife.

The Choate family is a charming one. There are two sons and a daughter.

In the Art Gallery.

"Ah," exclaimed Mrs. Oldcastle, who was again enjoying the splendors of her new neighbors' art gallery, "a Corot, I see!"

"Where?" asked her hostess, looking doubtfully at the canvas which seemed to claim the other's attention.

The Limit of Chivalry.

There was once a man who zealously declared that woman has no right to invade the field of wage earning men. She should stay at home, where she belonged.

Finally his four sisters, three cousins and two aunts, who were without a masculine protector, gathered about him and inquired:

"Whose home? Yours?"

Wisdom In City Directories.

The New York city directory for the early years of the nineteenth century contained an almanac and other features now considered to be extraneous to directories. The compilation was largely done by Abraham Shoemaker. Mr. Shoemaker had a habit of ornamenting the margins of the pages with quaint old "saws" of this character:

A poor man must walk to get meat for his stomach, the rich man to get a stomach for his meat.

MISS ROSE OWENS,
No. 720 Seventeenth St., WASHINGTON, D. C.

"If every suffering woman has the same experience with Wine of Cardui that I had, your medicine will be most popular. About a year ago I began to have a worn out tired feeling with lassitude, pains in the back and head which kept increasing every month. I felt that I needed something, but to get the right medicine was the trouble. I finally decided on your Wine of Cardui and only needed to take three bottles when I was fully recovered."

Miss Rose Owens.

WHEN Miss Rose Owens, who has a responsible position in the Government service at Washington, D. C., decided to try Wine of Cardui, she made a wise choice. Over a million women have been relieved of female weakness by this same Wine of Cardui. It is not a strong medicine but may be taken every day in the year by any woman with benefit. It does not force results, but corrects derangements of the menstrual organs. It strengthens the nervous system, gives tone to the bodily functions, acts directly on the genital organs, and is the finest tonic for women known to the science of medicine.

If you are a suffering woman we would say to you that Wine of Cardui seldom fails to completely cure any case of female ills. We say emphatically, it never fails to benefit. Every day hundreds of sufferers are writing to our Ladies' Advisory Department. The letters are opened by persons competent to give advice. Mrs. Jones was cured by following the advice which was freely given her by the Ladies' Advisory Department. Miss Owens was cured without advice by just buying a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from her druggist and taking this great medicine in the privacy of her home. No doctor's examination, treatment or advice is necessary. You have read what these two cured women have written. Is this not enough to lead you to determine to be rid of suffering?

August 13, 1900, Mrs. W. H. Jones, of Cameron, Mo., writes:

"I suffered terribly at monthly periods for three years. I would sometimes go for seven months with no flow at all. Now I have my health back again and am expecting to be confined in January. I cannot praise your medicine enough."

The National Period of American Literature

BY LORENZO SEARS, LIT. D.,
Professor of American Literature in Brown University.

VIII.—Three Southern Orators.

IN this period, as in the colonial, some of its best literature was spoken. It does not much matter whether the preliminary composition was made with pen and ink, wholly or in part, or whether the words flowed unwritten from a mind that had pondered long upon the subject, or whether in their final form they were the result of correction and revision. The version which has been accepted and approved by the speaker or in some instances by hearers and contemporaries is what must abide the tests of literary value.

The oratory which had become a prominent feature of intellectual life before the war for independence and up to the adoption of the constitution received a new impulse when this instrument came to be the rule of the national administration. It was a rule which was new to all and not a favorite with many. Those who had made concessions could not forget what they had surrendered. There was room for varied and diverse interpretation of rights and privileges. In particular the powers which belonged to the original colonies before there was either federation or union were the cause of much dispute, and when a union of these separate and sometimes discordant provinces was agreed upon and established by the constitution a vast amount of definition and discussion followed. And so with respect to home and foreign policies and the conflicting interests of different sections of the country. All this had to be brought into the sessions of the people's representatives and those of each state assembled in congress, where deliberative oratory followed as a matter of course.

It would have been strange if this had not been of a high order, considering the antecedents of eloquence in this country and the examples of it in the British parliament easily accessible in the reported speeches of illustrious orators. In the first quarter of the century and later oral discourse was the principal means of political instruction. The people had been trained to listen by two or three sermons and lectures a week for two centuries, and a corresponding education had been given by practice in the pulpit and at the bar to a race of speakers.

The newspaper was as yet limited to a fractional part of its present scope and circulation. The town meeting, the campaign assembly, the state legislature, the house of representatives and the senate chamber were the progressive steps in the political education of statesmen who in those days listened to the words that were spoken, having no "organ" laid upon their desks each morning to guide them in the formation of their daily opinions and principles.

The man who in those years aspired to influence his fellow citizens and legislators had to depend upon his speech in all the comprehensive meaning of the term, including his intellectual attainments as well as his personal power with an audience. As a consequence, the orator's art became one of the ambitions of a public man, more easily acquired then by reason of its general prevalence and the inheritance from preceding generations.

Congressional oratory may conveniently be said to begin with the opening of the century, when in 1800 John Randolph was sent to congress. It was fitting that the traditional eloquence of the south should be continued by this ambitious though eccentric Virginian. He cannot be called a man of peace, being usually, as was once said, "in opposition to the exercise of authority by anybody but himself." This disposition fostered a denunciatory habit of speech which easily ran into invective and sometimes malediction. It was a stormy sort of eloquence, enjoyed, no doubt, by sympathizing colleagues more than by opponents. Still, it is said that his speeches were read more generally than those of any other member of congress. Events that were to take place half a century later appear to have been foreseen by this ill boding but true prophet, yet what he dreaded as a "coalition of knavery and fanaticism" finally issued in the united devotion of all parties and sections to a common country. He could predict the incidental calamity, but could not see the ultimate restoration. Nevertheless he left on record one phase of oratory, and if it is somber and even violent at times its counterpart can be found wherever an ardent and courageous soul has met evils that threatened disaster.

The name of Henry Clay recalls a career which was prominent and continuous for nearly half a century. It was too pronounced in its statesmanship not to elicit a variety of testimony with regard to his political aims, but as in all such cases the truth lies midway between extremes. With respect to his eloquence, however, the tributes of contemporaries are more concordant. It was for its kind unsurpassed, and, considering the advantages of education and training of which he was deprived, it was phenomenal. The son of a Baptist minister who left him the best inheritance that can be transmitted to a youth of political ambitions, a good voice and impressive delivery, the young lawyer, who had received his academic education in a log cabin school and his graduate course in a grocery store, began professional life as clerk in a chancery court. After four years of recording decisions he was granted license to practice in Richmond, where he established a school of oratory in the form of a debating club. At the age of twenty-one he opened an office in Lexington, Ky., and was soon full of business and on the highroad to politics. His oratorical ability helped him to win a contest where his opponent's speech was followed by deafening applause, but his own by profound and impressive silence. From 1800 to 1811 he was in the house of representatives or the senate at Washington, where he continued, with short interruptions, until he was seventy-three.

Of necessity his oratory was political and deliberative, but it had an honesty and a sincerity that carried somewhat of his own convictions to all who heard him speak. Off the lines of these strong convictions he could not be eloquent. Along that line he was very able to inspire others with his own fearless sentiments and hopeful expectations. Even his opponents were ready to acknowledge the straightforward honesty of his speech. This was clear in statement and addressed to the common sense of his hearers. His own antecedents favored such sympathetic knowledge of their limitations, and he made himself understood by the average man.

When his speeches passed into printed pages, they necessarily lost much of the personal power which went with the magnetic orator, but they have the conservative element which makes them oratorical literature. They bear well the test of much rehearsing in the schools and of frequent reading by the student of eloquence and of our political history. The issues are dead which called them forth, but so are those which have from time to time inspired the loftiest utterances of greatest speakers, from the Attic age to that in which Henry Clay and his compeers lived. Their eloquence is embalmed each in its own language and is an important element in the literature of the nations.

The name of John C. Calhoun is naturally recalled next to that of Henry Clay. A graduate of Yale college in 1804 and subsequently a law student in Litchfield, he cultivated extemporary speaking with great diligence and success. Perhaps as a consequence he was elected to the legislature of his native South Carolina upon his return home and to congress after he had been but nine years out of college. Questions arising out of the war of 1812, the national bank, tariff and nullification and finally of slavery, successively occupied his attention. It was a stormy period, when the republic was adjusting itself to sectional differences of policy, which were not diminished by diversity of opinion between political leaders. But this very antagonism called out the utmost resources of party chiefs and patriots. The battle had to be fought by oral discussion before the people first as the source of power and then before their representatives and the executors of their will.

It was before the legislative rather than the popular assembly that Calhoun was at his best. He was more severely logical than impassioned, dignified rather than inspiring. If his premises were accepted, escape from his conclusions was difficult, and there was no suspicion that he was not sincere in his convictions. His earnestness conveyed these to other men with undiminished force. His generalizations were bold and even reckless at times, and his exaggerations were often absurd, as is the case with most orators when overmastered by their purpose. It was then that he became most eloquent. But oftenest it was the qualities of solidity, breadth and clearness that chiefly prevailed. A natural logician of analytic temper, he could make his own position strong while exposing the weak points of an adversary's position. Discussing the relations between cause and effect, he was quick to see combinations which were effective and advantageous.

In the manner and method of his speech he was direct and plain. His thoughts were well arranged in his mind, and his resources were at ready command. They usually gathered around a few simple propositions. He often began in a modest and quiet way, but grew loud and shrill in voice and intensely energetic in action as his subject moved him. It was not like the oratory of a southern speaker so much as of the logical Scotch race from which he descended. But the causes he advocated had need of demonstrative argument more than the ardor of advocacy and the adornment of imagery. In congress he had to deal with men in whom the reasoning powers were not lacking and to meet them on their own ground.

It is interesting after the lapse of two-thirds of a century to observe how far these statesman prophets divined truly the outcome of the contests in which they engaged. It is evident that they had many forebodings for the future, but these were always connected with nonconformity to their own political precepts. As this was common even in their own day, there were many gloomy predictions on all sides. The conviction of coming disaster grew stronger and more widespread, but when it came it was not exactly in the manner or for the reason most frequently and publicly assigned by the orators thus far mentioned. The closer they kept to the enunciation of general principles and general predictions the nearer they were to the final event. When they began to particularize, they failed, like all modern prophets, but the prophecies themselves were sublime and eloquent and a noble part of the literature of the country. They dealt with great and vital themes and in their composition and utterance were worthy of the vast questions which they discussed.

Within Ten Years THE OCEAN WILL BE Crossed by Airships

By M. SANTOS-DUMONT

IT is a mistaken idea that there is any unusual danger in the flying machine. It is not as dangerous as the ordinary balloon. The airships that I use are as much under my control as any steam engine, except, of course, in case of storm.

I AM NOW PLANNING AN AIRSHIP THAT WILL CARRY FROM TEN TO TWENTY PASSENGERS. IT WILL BE THE FIRST PASSENGER AIRSHIP THAT HAS EVER BEEN BUILT ALONG THE DIRIGIBLE LINES.

I hope that as a result of the exhibition I am to give in St. Louis the enterprising and wealthy men of America will become so much interested as to push forward this great work. All that I have done heretofore has been at my own expense and without any assistance. WITH THE PROPER SORT OF ENCOURAGEMENT, SUCH AS THIS COUNTRY COULD GIVE, THE DESIRED GOAL WOULD BE BROUGHT MUCH NEARER. IN A WORD, WITHIN TEN YEARS WE WOULD HAVE TRANSATLANTIC AERIAL NAVIGATION.

Willing as I am to spend all my own fortune, you must understand that these races, which are no longer in the experimental stage, are most expensive.

It is here, it seems to me, in this land where things advance so rapidly, the greatest country in the world, that the matter might be taken up with all its magnificent possibilities.

WITHIN MY LIFETIME I EXPECT TO SEE AERIAL NAVIGATION BETWEEN AMERICA AND EUROPE A COMMON THING. AN AERIAL TRANSATLANTIC LINE FOR COMMERCIAL PURPOSES IS NOT A FAROFF POSSIBILITY.

The No. 7 machine, with which I will race here in America, is a heavier machine than the No. 6, and I expect that my experiments here will establish the commercial possibilities of aerial navigation, as the No. 7 will carry four passengers, whereas the No. 6 never used to carry more than one.

I have no patents on my inventions. Any one who wants to construct machines after the fashion of the Santos-Dumont machines is welcome to do so. I only wish that I could help others to build aerial ships so that the great day when it will be the principal means of traffic will not be delayed.

WHAT HE THOUGHT OF HIM

A Postal Card Serial Story and a Lost Suit For Slander.

A certain Kansas man, so the story goes, wanted to tell a neighbor what he thought of him without laying himself open to a suit for damages. So he hit on the plan of sending him each day a postal card with only one word written on it in a large hand, in addition to the date obscurely tucked away in a corner.

The person receiving the cards recognized the handwriting and, suspecting something, kept them until they stopped coming, when he read them consecutively in the order of their reception. What he read was, "Ridiculous old Bill Jones is the meanest cuss in town," and he at once instituted a suit for slander against the sender.

The latter's lawyer, however, called attention to the fact that the postal card containing "ridiculous," though mailed first, was dated the day after the date of the card having the word "town." Moreover, a careful inspection would show that after the word "ridiculous" was an exclamation point, and after the word "town" was an interrogation mark, so that the series of postal cards might be made to read: "Old Bill is the meanest cuss in town? Ridiculous!" He claimed, therefore, that instead of slandering the plaintiff his client had defended him from slander, and this plea was sustained by the court.

But, all the same, everybody in town insisted that the first reading of the cards was the correct one, so that the writer attained his object.

Friendly Foes In Kentucky, 1802.

In these matters of principle not a hand was raised to prevent a free choice. No feeling of personal hatred stood between those who saw life's duty differently. A neighbor to the right of a little home called one evening on his neighbor to the left. He kissed the children and shook hands with the parents.

"I may not see you again. Tonight I go to join Morgan," he said.

The host went to his little wardrobe, took therefrom his greatcoat thrust a pistol into the pocket and threw it over the arm of his guest. Both were poor men, and winter approached. The recipient attempted to return it. "No," said the donor—"no, you take this coat. Your path is to be one of privation; besides, I won't need it. Tomorrow morning I start north to enlist. My government has overcoats to spare, and pistols too. You who go south may find neither. God bless you, friend. May we return to meet again."—Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

HOME STUDY COURSE

EDITED BY E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS LL.D.

Professor of American Literature in Brown University.

VIII.—Three Southern Orators.

IN this period, as in the colonial, some of its best literature was spoken. It does not much matter whether the preliminary composition was made with pen and ink, wholly or in part, or whether the words flowed unwritten from a mind that had pondered long upon the subject, or whether in their final form they were the result of correction and revision. The version which has been accepted and approved by the speaker or in some instances by hearers and contemporaries is what must abide the tests of literary value.

The oratory which had become a prominent feature of intellectual life before the war for independence and up to the adoption of the constitution received a new impulse when this instrument came to be the rule of the national administration. It was a rule which was new to all and not a favorite with many. Those who had made concessions could not forget what they had surrendered. There was room for varied and diverse interpretation of rights and privileges. In particular the powers which belonged to the original colonies before there was either federation or union were the cause of much dispute, and when a union of these separate and sometimes discordant provinces was agreed upon and established by the constitution a vast amount of defiution and discussion followed. And so with respect to home and foreign policies and the conflicting interests of different sections of the country. All this had to be brought into the sessions of the people's representatives and those of each state assembled in congress, where deliberative oratory followed as a matter of course.

It would have been strange if this had not been of a high order, considering the antecedents of eloquence in this country and the examples of it in the British parliament easily accessible in the reported speeches of illustrious orators. In the first quarter of the century and later oral discourse was the principal means of political instruction. The people had been trained to listen by two or three sermons and lectures a week for two centuries, and a corresponding education had been given by practice in the pulpit and at the bar to a race of speakers.

The newspaper was as yet limited to a fractional part of its present scope and circulation. The town meeting, the campaign assembly, the state legislature, the house of representatives and the senate chamber were the progressive steps in the political education of statesmen who in those days listened to the words that were spoken, having no "organ" laid upon their desks each morning to guide them in the formation of their daily opinions and principles.

The man who in those years aspired to influence his fellow citizens and legislators had to depend upon his speech in all the comprehensive meaning of the term, including his intellectual attainments as well as his personal power with an audience. As a consequence, the orator's art became one of the ambitions of a public man, more easily acquired then by reason of its general prevalence and the inheritance from preceding generations.

Congressional oratory may conveniently be said to begin with the opening of the century, when in 1800 John Randolph was sent to congress. It was fitting that the traditional eloquence of the south should be continued by this ambitious though eccentric Virginian. He cannot be called a man of peace, being usually, as was once said, "in opposition to the exercise of authority by anybody but himself." This disposition fostered a denunciatory habit of speech which easily ran into invective and sometimes malediction. It was a stormy sort of eloquence, enjoyed, no doubt, by sympathizing colleagues more than by opponents. Still, it is said that his speeches were read more generally than those of any other member of congress. Events that were to take place half a century later appear to have been foreseen by this ill boding but true prophet, yet what he dreaded as a "coalition of knavery and fanaticism" finally issued in the united devotion of all parties and sections to a common country. He could predict the incidental calamity, but could not see the ultimate restoration. Nevertheless he left on record one phase of oratory, and if it is somber and even violent at times its counterpart can be found wherever an ardent and courageous soul has met evils that threatened disaster.

The name of Henry Clay recalls a career which was prominent and continuous for nearly half a century. It was too pronounced in its statesmanship not to elicit a variety of testimony with regard to his political aims, but as in all such cases the truth lies midway between extremes. With respect to his eloquence, however, the tributes of contemporaries are more concordant. It was for its kind unsurpassed, and, considering the advantages of education and training of which he was deprived, it was phenomenal. The son of a Baptist minister who left him the best inheritance that can be transmitted to a youth of political ambitions, a good voice and impressive delivery, the young lawyer, who had received his academic education in a log cabin school and his graduate course in a grocery store, began professional life as clerk in a chancery court. After four years of recording decisions he was granted license to practice in Richmond, where he established a school of oratory in the form of a debating club. At the age of twenty-one he opened an office in Lexington, Ky., and was soon full of business and on the highroad to politics. His oratorical ability helped him to win a contest where his opponent's speech was followed by deafening applause, but his own by profound and impressive silence. From 1800 to 1811 he was in the house of representatives or the senate at Washington, where he continued, with short interruptions, until he was seventy-three.

Of necessity his oratory was political and deliberative, but it had an honesty and a sincerity that carried somewhat of his own convictions to all who heard him speak. Off the lines of these strong convictions he could not be eloquent. Along that line he was very able to inspire others with his own fearless sentiments and hopeful expectations. Even his opponents were ready to acknowledge the straightforward honesty of his speech. This was clear in statement and addressed to the common sense of his hearers. His own antecedents favored such sympathetic knowledge of their limitations, and he made himself understood by the average man.

When his speeches passed into printed pages, they necessarily lost much of the personal power which went with the magnetic orator, but they have the conservative element which makes them oratorical literature. They bear well the test of much rehearsing in the schools and of frequent reading by the student of eloquence and of our political history. The issues are dead which called them forth, but so are those which have from time to time inspired the loftiest utterances of greatest speakers, from the Attic age to that in which Henry Clay and his compeers lived. Their eloquence is embalmed each in its own language and is an important element in the literature of the nations.

The name of John C. Calhoun is naturally recalled next to that of Henry Clay. A graduate of Yale college in 1804 and subsequently a law student in Litchfield, he cultivated extemporary speaking with great diligence and success. Perhaps as a consequence he was elected to the legislature of his native South Carolina upon his return home and to congress after he had been but nine years out of college. Questions arising out of the war of 1812, the national bank, tariff and nullification and finally of slavery, successively occupied his attention. It was a stormy period, when the republic was adjusting itself to sectional differences of policy, which were not diminished by diversity of opinion between political leaders. But this very antagonism called out the utmost resources of party chiefs and patriots. The battle had to be fought by oral discussion before the people first as the source of power and then before their representatives and the executors of their will.

It was before the legislative rather than the popular assembly that Calhoun was at his best. He was more severely logical than impassioned, dignified rather than inspiring. If his premises were accepted, escape from his conclusions was difficult, and there was no suspicion that he was not sincere in his convictions. His earnestness conveyed these to other men with undiminished force. His generalizations were bold and even reckless at times, and his exaggerations were often absurd, as is the case with most orators when overmastered by their purpose. It was then that he became most eloquent. But oftenest it was the qualities of solidity, breadth and clearness that chiefly prevailed. A natural logician of analytic temper, he could make his own position strong while exposing the weak points of an adversary's position. Discussing the relations between cause and effect, he was quick to see combinations which were effective and advantageous.

In the manner and method of his speech he was direct and plain. His thoughts were well arranged in his mind, and his resources were at ready command. They usually gathered around a few simple propositions. He often began in a modest and quiet way, but grew loud and shrill in voice and intensely energetic in action as his subject moved him. It was not like the oratory of a southern speaker so much as of the logical Scotch race from which he descended. But the causes he advocated had need of demonstrative argument more than the ardor of advocacy and the adornment of imagery. In congress he had to deal with men in whom the reasoning powers were not lacking and to meet them on their own ground.

It is interesting after the lapse of two-thirds of a century to observe how far these statesman prophets divined truly the outcome of the contests in which they engaged. It is evident that they had many forebodings for the future, but these were always connected with nonconformity to their own political precepts. As this was common even in their own day, there were many gloomy predictions on all sides. The conviction of coming disaster grew stronger and more widespread, but when it came it was not exactly in the manner or for the reason most frequently and publicly assigned by the orators thus far mentioned. The closer they kept to the enunciation of general principles and general predictions the nearer they were to the final event. When they began to particularize, they failed, like all modern prophets, but the prophecies themselves were sublime and eloquent and a noble part of the literature of the country. They dealt with great and vital themes and in their composition and utterance were worthy of the vast questions which they discussed.

Within Ten Years THE OCEAN WILL BE Crossed by Airships

By M. SANTOS-DUMONT

IT is a mistaken idea that there is any unusual danger in the flying machine. It is not as dangerous as the ordinary balloon. The airships that I use are as much under my control as any steam engine, except, of course, in case of storm.

I AM NOW PLANNING AN AIRSHIP THAT WILL CARRY FROM TEN TO TWENTY PASSENGERS. IT WILL BE THE FIRST PASSENGER AIRSHIP THAT HAS EVER BEEN BUILT ALONG THE DIRIGIBLE LINES.

I hope that as a result of the exhibition I am to give in St. Louis the enterprising and wealthy men of America will become so much interested as to push forward this great work. All that I have done heretofore has been at my own expense and without any assistance. WITH THE PROPER SORT OF ENCOURAGEMENT, SUCH AS THIS COUNTRY COULD GIVE, THE DESIRED GOAL WOULD BE BROUGHT MUCH NEARER. IN A WORD, WITHIN TEN YEARS WE WOULD HAVE TRANSATLANTIC AERIAL NAVIGATION.

Willing as I am to spend all my own fortune, you must understand that these races, which are no longer in the experimental stage, are most expensive.

It is here, it seems to me, in this land where things advance so rapidly, the greatest country in the world, that the matter might be taken up with all its magnificent possibilities.

WITHIN MY LIFETIME I EXPECT TO SEE AERIAL NAVIGATION BETWEEN AMERICA AND EUROPE A COMMON THING. AN AERIAL TRANSATLANTIC LINE FOR COMMERCIAL PURPOSES IS NOT A FAROFF POSSIBILITY.

The No. 7 machine, with which I will race here in America, is a heavier machine than the No. 6, and I expect that my experiments here will establish the commercial possibilities of aerial navigation, as the No. 7 will carry four passengers, whereas the No. 6 never used to carry more than one.

I have no patents on my inventions. Any one who wants to construct machines after the fashion of the Santos-Dumont machines is welcome to do so. I only wish that I could help others to build aerial ships so that the great day when it will be the principal means of traffic will not be delayed.

WHAT HE THOUGHT OF HIM

A certain Kansas man, so the story goes, wanted to tell a neighbor what he thought of him without laying himself open to a suit for damages. So he hit on the plan of sending him each day a postal card with only one word written on it in a large hand, in addition to the date obscurely tucked away in a corner.

The person receiving the cards recognized the handwriting and, suspecting something, kept them until they stopped coming, when he read them consecutively in the order of their reception. What he read was, "Ridiculous old Bill Jones is the meanest cuss in town," and he at once instituted a suit for slander against the sender.

The latter's lawyer, however, called attention to the fact that the postal card containing "ridiculous," though mailed first, was dated the day after the date of the card having the word "town." Moreover, a careful inspection would show that after the word "ridiculous" was an exclamation point, and after the word "town" was an interrogation mark, so that the series of postal cards might be made to read: "Old Bill is the meanest cuss in town? Ridiculous!" He claimed, therefore, that instead of slandering the plaintiff his client had defended him from slander, and this plea was sustained by the court.

But, all the same, everybody in town insisted that the first reading of the cards was the correct one, so that the writer attained his object.

Friendly Foes In Kentucky, 1862.

In these matters of principle not a hand was raised to prevent a free choice. No feeling of personal hatred stood between those who saw life's duty differently. A neighbor to the right of a little home called one evening on his neighbor to the left. He kissed the children and shook hands with the parents.

"I may not see you again. Tonight I go to join Morgan," he said.

The host went to his little wardrobe, took therefrom his greatcoat thrust a pistol into the pocket and threw it over the arm of his guest. Both were poor men, and winter approached. The recipient attempted to return it. "No," said the donor—"no, you take this coat. Your path is to be one of privation; besides, I won't need it. Tomorrow morning I start north to enlist. My government has overcoats to spare, and pistols too. You who go south may find neither. God bless you, friend. May we return to meet again."—Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

CONNELL MISTREATED NATIVES.

Witness So Alleged, In Describing Balangiga Massacre.

Washington, May 10.—William J. Gibbs, of Springfield, Mass., formerly corporal of Company C, Ninth infantry, told the Philippine committee yesterday the story of the massacre of soldiers at Balangiga. He also described the mutilation of the dead soldiers and told of the disappearance of one soldier whom the natives charged with rape, but, he said, the charge was not believed. He said the natives were dissatisfied because they were compelled to work in cleaning up the place under the supervision of the soldiers.

The witness stated that Captain Connell, who commanded the troops did not treat the natives right, as he destroyed their supply of food. He said the massacre was deliberately planned, and he judged that boys participated, as he saw a number of them lying about dead.

He had not concluded when the committee adjourned.

CURTAILMENT OF PRODUCTION

Unfortunate, Says Dun's, With Consumptive Demands Greatest In Nation's History.

New York, May 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.' Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, said in part:

At a time when consumptive demands surpass all previous records in the nation's history it is unfortunate that production should be curtailed. Yet that is the present situation. First, labor controversies and a tornado stopped work at many points, greatly reducing the output, and many more wage disputes must be settled before the end of the month or furnace fires will be banked and wheels cease to revolve. Losses by the elements have been severe, the largest tin plate plant in the world being rendered idle probably for a month, while many foundries and shops were totally destroyed. Prices of commodities on May 1, as shown by Dun's Index number, rose to the highest point in recent years, gaining 6.3 per cent over the corresponding date last year, but this week there has been a material decline in some products, notably grain. Distribution through retail channels continues very heavy, seasonable weather exerting a most helpful influence. Railway earnings are steadily gaining, full returns for April exceeding last year's by 10.6 per cent, and 1900 by 25.0 per cent.

Procrastinating consumers who predicted a collapse in the iron and steel market similar to the break that occurred two years ago have greatly augmented the pressure by tardily attempting to supply their requirements. It has been obvious for some time that there is utterly lacking the artificial movement tending to inflate prices that was conspicuous in the opening months of 1900. The only limit to prices appears to be the ability of the purchasers to pay fancy figures, according to the urgency of their needs. Meanwhile there is no advance on long term contracts, and these cover the large bulk of the business. Productive capacity is being greatly enlarged, but there is no evidence as yet that the nation's needs are not expanding equally fast.

Woolen goods are scarce, but the demand is still confined to substitute orders caused by the strike.

Dispatches to this paper promise a large wool clip, though the late spring has delayed shearing. There has been less selling of wool on the sheep's backs, and ranchmen appear to be in financial condition to hold their yield until satisfactory prices are forthcoming.

More encouraging weather reports have made the outlook brighter for a normal wheat yield, while the wide discrepancy between census figures and those of the agricultural department regarding the crop of 1899 suggested the idea that in succeeding years the production was heavier than officially reported. These influences were depressing, while there was little of a sustaining nature in speculative operations.

Special reports to Dun's Review indicate that the spring wheat outlook is good, though some reduction in acreage was caused by high prices for coarse grain and last year's splendid returns from flax. Evidence of large planting had a weakening influence on corn, but there still appears an increase of 25 per cent of the prices a year ago and 60 per cent over 1900 at this date.

Failures for the week numbered 218 in the United States, against 187 last year, and 24 in Canada, against 26 last year.

MARKET DEALINGS FELL OFF.

Anthracite Dispute May Have Had Some Effect, Friday.

New York, May 10.—The volume of dealings yesterday fell considerably below half a million shares for the first time in a good many weeks. Whether there was any other reason for this dullness than the decision of the party of speculators lately leading the market to let it lie fallow for a time was not evident. Perhaps the long drawn out controversy over the anthracite labor settlement may have been effective in discouraging speculative activity. If that was the factor which induced the curtailment of demand and the sagging of prices in the general list, it did not appear among the coalers themselves. That group was affected by the marked strength of Delaware and Hudson. The demand for this stock seemed to be of a very special character.

The outcome of the miners' controversy was still awaited when the stock market closed yesterday. There was some show of strength in the early dealings and an appearance of renewed activity on the part of the recently prominent market leaders. Activity was manifest also on the part of some smaller speculative pools in minor railroad stocks. Amalgamated Copper was conspicuously active and strong, advancing at one time 1⅜. Reports were current that sales of copper had been effected at 12½ cents by a leading competitor in sufficient amount to take it out of the market for some time to come. The announcement that one of the suspended stock exchange firms would be able to resume and that the other two hoped to do so was regarded as a satisfactory development. Trading was resumed in International Power and it was lifted four points. There were not lacking weak points in the market, however, all through the session. The reactionary tendency of the market became more general after the appearance of the preliminary estimate of the week's currency movement. The market closed dull and steady.

A King and a Miller.

Every reigning member of the Hohenzollern dynasty has been noted for his sense of fair play in dealing with his subjects.

It is said that the Emperor Frederick the Great was greatly annoyed by the presence of a flour mill that stood close by one of his palaces in Berlin.

The miller refused to sell his mill and insisted that he should retain possession of it as long as he lived. The emperor stormed at him without avail and finally threatened to drive the miller out by force and confiscate his property.

The dauntless miller replied to his threat by saying, "There are still judges in Berlin, your majesty."

This reply, which has since become famous throughout Germany, impressed the emperor so favorably that he withdrew both his threat and his request, and the flour mill is standing to this day.

The Good and the Bad.

One ought to balance the good with the bad and also the length of time a man has lived to form a true estimate of his character. Polybius, the Greek historian, has an observation to the same effect. "There is no reason," says he, "why we should not sometimes blame and sometimes commend the same person, for, as none is always right, neither is it probable that he should be always wrong."

Of what does a bad taste in your mouth remind you? It indicates that your stomach is in bad condition and will remind you that there is nothing so good for such a disorder as Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets after having once used them. CONNELL MISTREATED NATIVES.

Witness So Alleged, In Describing Balangiga Massacre.

Washington, May 10.—William J. Gibbs, of Springfield, Mass., formerly corporal of Company C, Ninth infantry, told the Philippine committee yesterday the story of the massacre of soldiers at Balangiga. He also described the mutilation of the dead soldiers and told of the disappearance of one soldier whom the natives charged with rape, but, he said, the charge was not believed. He said the natives were dissatisfied because they were compelled to work in cleaning up the place under the supervision of the soldiers.

The witness stated that Captain Connell, who commanded the troops did not treat the natives right, as he destroyed their supply of food. He said the massacre was deliberately planned, and he judged that boys participated, as he saw a number of them lying about dead.

He had not concluded when the committee adjourned.

It was also announced that Mr Evans will leave for London in the near future.

THE NEW EXECUTIVE BOARD

Will Investigate Matters And File Its Conclusions—Various Important Resolutions Considered—Delegate Called Home by Father's Death.

Trenton, May 10. —(Special)— It now appears that the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters will make another attempt to prevail upon the potters of this city to accept the uniform price list which was the cause of so much contention a little over a year ago. The majority of the trade here is desirous of having a change in conditions.

The resolution calling upon the Brotherhood to take hold of the matter was introduced in the convention Thursday. After a heated discussion the matter was laid over and taken up again yesterday morning.

A debate upon the merits of the uniform price list characterized the morning session. It was finally decided to leave the matter entirely in the hands of the incoming executive board, which, after it investigates the conditions here, will file a report as to the advisability of a uniform price list.

If the potters of this city finally decide to accept the uniform list, it will not be without some opposition. Many here do not favor the list because they claim it would reduce their wages. The opposition is chiefly among those who, while not receiving enormously high wages, are at the same time getting more than those who in some instances are working in the same shop, making the same kind of ware.

The uniform price list has never been in effect in the east, and therefore never given a fair test. They all unite in saying that in the west it works well, because it was compiled to suit western conditions. The heads of the Brotherhood claim that the organization knows no east or west, and the list can be enforced here as well as elsewhere.

The Trenton manufacturers ever since the agitation of a uniform price list, have been using their influence with the men not to accept it, claiming it would reduce their wages. If the list would result as they say the Brotherhood officials hold that the manufacturers would only be too willing to put it in force.

The Trenton Manufacturing Potters' association declined to meet President Hughes in conference two years ago concerning the list, and none of the members would allow him inside their plants to make measurements.

Since the enforement of the list in East Liverpool and other cities in the west, the men have been brought in close touch with the manufacturers.

The claim of the Trenton manufacturers that the list cannot be enforced here because of the more or less antiquated condition of the local plants, is not consistent with the provisions for such conditions as are made in the list, or the assertions of the western pottery owners.

In East Liverpool the uniform price list met with the same opposition at first, but after it was given a trial the manufacturers appeared perfectly satisfied and now claim that it is one of the best measures that has yet been compiled for the advancement of the pottery trade.

At a meeting of the Kilnmen's local Thursday nighht, the list was the subject of much discussion. The measurements of two kilns was submitted and, according to the uniform list, the men would receive three days in advance over what is now paid for one and two days for the other.

It is not the intention of the Brotherhood officials to enforce upon the potters here a measure which they do not want. After due investitgation the executive board will likely make a report which will be left entirely to the locals for approval.

The election of officers will likely take place until next week. President Hughes and Secretary Duffy are practically sure of re-election.

There is little opposition to the re-election of First Vice President Hutchins. The opposition comes principally from the eastern delegates. The work of Mr. Hutchins has been very commendable. He has practically the solid support of the western representatives, which, it is thought, is enough to insure re-election.

The dish machines which were mentioned in the report of President Hughes, was considered at some length yesterday. In view of the men the machine is displacing a resolution was adopted prohibiting the employment apprentice dishmakers where journeymen can be had. The resolution having far its purpose the abolishment of the apprentice system in the jigger department was lost by a close vote.

Another resolution which failed to receive approval was one apportioning the number of apprentices to each journeyman presser.

At present two apprentices are allowed to each two journeyman. The purpose of the resolution was to reduce this number to one to every two journeyman.

A resolution passed calls for the manufacturers to supply men to carry broken ware from the kiln shed, instead of leaving that work to kilnment.

Secretary Duffy was arranging yesterday morning the railroad fares of the delegates.

A communication from Mayor Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland, inviting the delegates to a ride on the Trenton, Lawrenceville & Princeton railroad, owned by the Johnson syndicate, was received and accepted. The convention adjourned at 2:15 to allow the delegates to make the trip..

They visited the grounds and buildings of Princeton University and spent some time viewing the baseball team at practice on Osborne field.

BLIGHTING FROST

DID GREAT DAMAGE IN THE COUNTRY DISTRICTS.

Orchards And Gardens Suffered—West Virginia Fruit Growers Doleful.

Frost did great damage in the country about East Liverpool last night. Many farmers think fruit prospects seriously impaired.

On the Lisbon road, north of town, the frost was quite heavy. Ice froze in vessels which had been left outside. All small garden plants, such as tomatoes and cabbage, were totally destroyed where residents had neglected to provide protection from the frost. The fruit escaped serious injury, as it was in a majority of instances, along far enough to be in a hardy condition and was able to stand the biting. All of the larger fruit, particularly peaches, are doing well, and give promise of large crops.

The damage to fruit in Chester is considered serious by most of the fruit growers near the town. The damage to vegetables was not noticed so much.

Patent Trouser Creaser.

At last the well dressed man will be able to keep the crease in his trousers without having them pressed by the tailor. Terry O. Carman has applied for a patent on an idea of this character. Of course the trouseres will have to be creased with a smooth iron first, but the method of making the crease remain in its position, and the way it is done is an idea that Carman will sell. The patent papers are expected to be received by Mr. Carman soon.

Anti-Trust Bill.

Columbus, May 10.—(Special)—An important measure passed by the house was the Brumbaugh anti-trust bill, to amend the Valentine law by providing that any person or firm who is injured in his business by any combination or trust may recover damages, both as a recompense and as punishment.

School District Bill Passed.

Columbus, May 10.—(Special)—The senate has enacted into a law the bill of Representative Crist making a special school district of certain sections of Washington and Yellow Creek townships.

A WIFE MAKES UGLY CHARGES

SHE HAS NOW LEFT HIM

Lisbon, May 10.—(Special)—Verna Brooks, of Wellsville, has entered suit for divorce and alimony against John Brooks, of Cleveland. She asks that her maiden name be restored and also for the custody of her three-year-old daughter.

They were married in 1898 when she was less than 16 years old. Since marriage they have roamed much, living in Lisbon, Salisbury, Irondale, Cleveland and again in Irondale. In July she left her husband and went to live with her mother at Wellsville, where she has been supporting herself and child. She claims that her husband has defamed her character; that he has become enraged without cause, knocking her down and otherwise most cruelly abusing her, both by speech and action; that she fears the mental strain caused by his actions would result in the loss of her mind.

Lisbon, May 10. —(Special)— The committee appointed by the county commissioners to visit the charitable and penal institutions of the county inspected the county jail yesterday. The committee is composed of three ladies and three men. Those visiting the jail were Dr. William Moore, of Lisbon; Mrs. Henry W. Aten, of Wellsville, and Robert Elyson, of Damascus. They report the jail in unusually good condition.

TWELVE INNINGS WERE REQUIRED

First Time For Years That Such a Ball Game Has Been Played Here.

MOST PHENOMENAL SPURT

Coupled With Good Luck Won the Contest for East Liverpool, Which Had Not Scored Up to the Ninth. An Exciting Finish.

For the first time since 1893 when the old Eclipse base ball team of East Liverpool defeated the Keystones, of Pittsburg, by a close score, a 12-inning game was witnessed in West End park yesterday afternoon, it being the second of the series between the locals and the Canton Marines.

A warmer, more interesting and more exciting contest is seldom seen. It was beyond a doubt a great game from start to finish and the 500 fans in the park were not slow in showing their appreciation. From the beginning of the ninth until the end they howled and hurrahed like mad, every play, good or bad, being received alike.

That the locals won can be credited to nothing else but pure luck, notwithstanding that they played a practically errorless game. They walked off the diamond victorious after scoring goose eggs for eight innings, and but one explanation can be given for their triumphant finish.

Although the fresh, cool wind which prevailed made the spectators huddle together for warmth, it acted as an incentive and an invigorator for the players, and perhaps was the cause of the bitter struggle. However, the occasional clouds of dust and dirt flying over the field did little to inspire the "old boys" and not a few plays were made under difficult circumstances as a result.

Promptly at 4 o'clock the game was commenced by Umpire Clark, the locals taking the field. The visitors started the show by placing a hit which was instrumental in scoring two runs. The manner in which they commenced on Winters was indeed discouraging, but the battle was hardly begun when he changed the conditions with four strikeouts and several other admirable feats. During the following seven innings the Marines failed to score a run, but in the eighth made another jump, by doubling their tallies, while the locals laid down the bat in rapid succession for at least 24 times.

The outlook for a team was never more disheartening than it was for the locals at the beginning of the ninth. With not a single score against the four credited to their adversaries they took the field in rather low spirits, but quickly arose from their gloomy spell and started the balls rolling their way. There were only three visitors up, all going out in order, Ahmon on a pop fly and Sperry and Barry on three strikes.

Following this the victors made the telling spurt. Three elegant hits and the same number of errors on the part of the Marines tied the score.

Everything now was excellent; everybody inside the fences had yelled himself hoarse. At the conclusion of the tenth phenomenal playing was hardly noticed, so many of them coming in a bunch. Neither side could make an opening, 12 men in the tenth and eleventh going down as lambs before a lion.

The twelfth and last acted in like manner for the Marines, but not so with the choice of the fans. Heckathorn was the first up. He lined a pretty hit to the field; was followed with an out by Webb, but a few seconds later ended the game which will be fresh in the minds of the spectators for years by scoring on the chance hit made by C. Davis to center field.

ATTENDED THE SECOND NIGHT'S PERFORMANCE.

Scottish Reformation Entertainment Cleared Over $500 in the Two Nights.

The second presentation of the "Scottish Reformation," which was given last night at the opera house was even a greater success than on the previous night.

The opera house was crowded with an appreciative audience. Mrs. W. C. Lynch as Queen Mary was again the recipient of much merited applause, while D. M. McLane as John Knox was a general favorite. The lecture given by Mrs. Monroe and accompanied by stereopticon views was greatly enjoyed.

The exact sum netted by this play is not known, but it is estimated that over $500 for the Y. M. C. A. was cleared during the two nights' performances.

FROM LANCASTER

G. A. R. AND S. of V. DELEGATES HAVE RETURNED.

All Report That the State Encampment Was a Success. Officers Chosen.

The delegates and past captains of the local camp Sons of Veterans, together with the representatives of the G. A. R. of this city, have all returned from the Lancaster encampment, and are very pleased with the hospitality of their comrades and friends in that ctiy.

The election of officers in the various organizations did not include any East Liverpool people. Delegates to the S. of V. encampment refused offices offered in order to leave the field clear for J. J. Rose's election as commander next year. The next encampment will be held in Marietta. The S. of V. of that city propose to offer a fine silk flag as a prize for best secret and degree work. Garfield camp stands a good show of capturing it.

IN DISTRESS

Are William Ferguson And His Large Family Who Removed From This City.

Lisbon, May 10.—(Special)—William Ferguson and family of 10 moved from East Liverpool to Bridgeport last January and are now in destitute circumstances. One child has died of typhoid fever and Ferguson and one of the children are now sick of the same disease. They continue to be residents of East Liverpool for one year after leaving, as far as assistance is concerned, and are now costing the county $5 per week for support and nursing.

An Executor Appointed.

Lisbon, May 10.—(Special)—W. E. Wells has been appointed executor of the estate of Elizabeth A. Gross, late of Fairfield township. Bond, $5,000.

A Candidate Next Year.

Dr. A. C. Yengling, of Salem, will be a candidate for department commander of the Ohio G. A. R. next year.

EAST LIVERPOOL TAX LEVY MAY BE FURTHER INCREASED

And Also to Curtail Expenses Were Considered at Much Length.

Was Resurrected and If Enforced Will Help Considerably In Curtailing Expenses—Levy of 9 Mills to Be Recommended.

But four of the six members of the finance committee of council were present at the meeting which was called for last evening. They were President Nice, Bullock, Howell and McConnell, Dr. Marshall for some unaccountable reason not being present. Mr. Orr, the other member of the committee, is out of town. Solicitor McGarry, Clerk Davidson and ex-Clerk J. N. Hanley were also present.

A general discussion of the city's financial condition was indulged in, and incidentally the probable tax levy for the coming year.

Mr. Hanley's report showed that several of the funds had run behind to the amount of some thousands of dollars, and that in order to meet current expenses alone the city's revenue would have to be increased.

It was the opinion of those members who were in attendance that during the coming year, the strictest economy must be practiced. The matter of revenue from sources other than the tax levy was discussed at length, and the committee resolved to watch these funds more closely in the future in order that a few of the departments would be nearly self-sustaining.

There is no improvements contemplated at present that would require the expenditure of any considerable amount of money with the exception of the paving of the wharf. The business men and manufacturers have long been agitating this question, and the majority of the members of council have determined to see that the improvement is made if it can be done at a reasonable expense. There is but little money in the wharf fund, and if the paving of that portion of the river beach was to be paid for at once, it would be necessary to put it to a vote, and and if favored, issue bonds. The members of the committee, however, believe they see a way out of the dilemma without the trouble and expense of a vote—not to speak of its probable defeat. If the arrangement can be made, it is the intention to have ordinances passed and new regulations adopted whereby the city could have a much greater income from this source. Every boat that lands at Broadway wharf could be assessed any amount the city may see fit to impose. This has never been done. Parties using the river shore for coal boat purposes at various points within the city limits have been collected from heretofore, but it is thought the amount might be increased a trifle. From these and other avenues it is thought the yearly income of the wharf fund could be materially increased so that in a short time the improvement, even if made at once, could be paid for from the increase derived from the wharf itself.

Another very important question was raised when some member gave it as his opnion that the city was spending an enormous amount of money in new additions which was unnecessary, and which the land companies could be made to pay before the plot was acepted.

Mr. Horwell remembered that an ordinance had been passed during a former term which covered the entire matter. The ordinance was unearthed and found to be No. 465, passed in 1895. It provides that, before a plot is accepted, the lines must be run and clearly defined, the streets placed to grade, the gutters lowered and bridges erected over streams and a number of other very important and expensive items looked after by the owners. It was thought if this ordinance was observed to the letter the city would be richer by several thousand dollars per year.

The amount levied last year for all

LARGEST POTTERY IN THE WORLD

Was Entrusted the Work of Making the First Piece of Ware in the New No. 3 Plant — Its Up-to-Date Arrangement.

By starting work in the new addition the Laughlin China company of this city, has in operation the largest pottery in the world. It exceeds the capacity of the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles company by just one kiln. The company succeeded in having the first piece of ware made there during the afternoon of May 7. The honor of doing this, and rightly so, belongs to Samuel P. Jackson, the oldest employe of the company, who has been working for the firmy since the original pottery was started by Homer Laughlin, now residing in Los Angeles, Cal.

It has been stated by what can be considered reliable authority, that the new addition cost not less than $200,000, as every modern improvement was followed. From where the clay, in its crude state, is taken from the cars, to the shipping department, one straight line is followed, which makes the work of the employe more easy than any other shop in the city.

Fronting on a long siding of the Cleveland & Pittsburg railroad are located the seven clay bins, and these are reasonably full of the several mixes. On the inside of the plant, and alongside the bins is built a small track, upon which is a traveling scale, into which the clay is placed before it is dumped into the five plungers and slip mills. These latter contrivances are quite large and all are kept constantly at work. From these mills the clay through pipes is conveyed to two agitators. From there into another large agitator the clay is sent. The latter is built in the ground, in the corner of the clay room. Two large double pumps are then used in forcing the clay into the five 32 cell clay presses, which to date have made about 250 presses of clay.

This work has all been done under the supervision of J. W. Stilgenbauer, who has charge of this department. After the clay has been pressed it is placed on a small car and sent to the large clay cellar, where it is allowed to remain for an indefinite period. After being pgged the clay is placed on an elevator of the continuous kind, and sent to the clay shops on the second floor. The arrangement of this department could not be better, as there is a division between each part of this shop, jiggers, pressers and turners all having spacious departments. The management of this department has been placed in the hands of George Stevenson, who is quite a young man, and only a few years ago was employed by the same firm as a presser. His rise with the company has been rapid, and he is now surrounding himself with workmen of the best class. This is what has made his work as superintendent a success.

There are 13 jiggers in the shop, three lathes and room for a large number of pressers. Owing to the large amount of work that yet remains to be done before the plant is completed, it will be at least a month before all departments are in full operation.

The power for this massive plant is secured from two sources. The machinery in the clay department, including the clay shops, and the making of the sagger clay and wads, is furnished from a 30 horse power Westinghouse gas engine, making 300 revolutions a minute. This remarkably inexpensive engine, as it consumes about 2,000 cubic feet of gas per day, costs the company but 16 cents daily.

The machinery in the slip department is operated by the large engine in No. 2 addition. The steam from the dry rooms, and for heating purposes, is furnished by a boiler which is used for no other purpose, and whch is located in a building entirely separate from the main building. This is quite a change in the arrangement of the plant, as in other instances the boilers are confined to the building in whcih the clay department is located. The engines of the large addition are looked after by Allen M. Fisher, who has been with the company for years.

The new building is to be lighted by electricity, and the power for this purpose will be furnished from a large dynamo which has been installed in the No. 2 addition.

The wareroom, decorating departments and the shipping and packing departments have been well provided for as far as room is concerned. In the old plant there are times when the printers and decorators are crowded for room, but in the new addition provision has been made for this, and no trouble will result from an oversight on this score. These departments have not been completed, but there is a large force of carpenters now working in this end of the plant under the direction of Harvey McHenry.

There are sidings on both sides of the building, which makes it very convenient as far as shipping is concerned. As a result of this the company will be enabled to pack four cars at one time, and more if necessity requires.

The first piece of ware made was a 7-inch plate, bythe old employe, Samuel P. Jackson. On the bottom of this plate is the following: "The first piece of ware made in No. 3 plant by Samuel P. Jackson, May 7, 1902." This plate will be well taken care of by the officials of the firm, as it has a significant meaning, that of "progress." The first bowl was made by W. H. Colclough, who will operate the cup jigger, and to him belongs the distinction of making the first cup also. Vernon Raynolds made the first piece of pressed ware, it being a 24s jug. The lathes have not yet been started, and it is likely no work will be done in this department for several days. The two lathes, however, will be in charge of Mr. Headley and Mr. Evans, the latter for years employed at the china works. Nick Swartz will press ewers, while Raymond Raynolds will press 24s jugs. Emmet Green will operate the big jigger; William and Thomas Copestick will operate the dish jiggers, with James Cochran, of Chester, recently employed at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor plant. Harry Dray will make individual butters and fruits, and Elijah Sherwood will make wash bowls.

There are many places not filled by Manager Stevenson, but for each vacant job there are a dozen applications. Mr. Stevenson stated this morning that he would secure the cream of the trade, and nothing else. Thomas Miles will have charge of the biscuit crew. Until recently he was employed at the Sebring potteries. He was formerly a resident of the East End, and is well known throughout the city.

Following the rule when No. 2 plant was started, the company will place a new toilet set on the market. This was modeled at Trenton, and the moulds will be made within a few weeks. The design is very neat.

It will be several days before the jiggermen will be working full, as the moulds are not dried. They are now being placed in the dry room and will be ready for use soon.

To show a comparison between the two largest potteries in the city, the following is given:

Knowles, Taylor & Knowles—Old end, 5 kilns; new end, 9; china works, 8; Buckeye, 9; total 31 kilns.

Thinking that there is a lack of laborers in this city, Alexander Chafin, of the East End, has sent to the southern counties of Ohio and Kentucky for not less than 25 men, and these are expected to arrive in the East End not later than next Sunday. Chafin stated this morning that all of the men who have come to the city from the south during the past few months have secured employment, and now that other factories are about to start, Chafin sees a chance to increase the population and he proposes to do it.

About a dozen persons are expected in Chafinville tomorrow who are said to be coming up on the boats. It may be that Chafin will have to build many more houses to keep these new comers in before long, as there is not a vacant house in that section of the city at the present time.

PROFANE BALL PLAYERS

Cause East End Residents to Make Complant to the Police.

Much complaint has been made during the past few days by persons residing in the Boyce orchard, whose property fronts the railroad, about the language used by a crowd of boys who persist in playing ball on the railroad property during the afternoon and early evening. It is claimed that workmen who are employed in the East End potteries, and who live in those houses have refused to allow their families to set on their porches during the evenings on account of the actions of these boys.

Officer Jay Fisher was notified today of the doings, and it is reasonable to believe that if the practice of playing ball on the railroad is not stopped several arrests will follow.

NEW EAST END HOUSES

Contracts to Be Let Next Week for Several More.

There is now considerable building being done in the East End. Next week it is said the contracts will be let for the erection of two new houses, while Alex. Chafin has commenced the foundation for six additional one-story houses on the flat north of Pennsylvania avenue. Some of these have already been rented, money having already been paid for this purpose.

Prohibition Alliance Meeting.

A meeting of the East End branch of the Prohibition Alliance was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Dawson, on St. George street. The attendance was quite large and some business was transacted that the members will not talk about. Several applications for membership were presented and the next meeting will be held in a fortnight at the residence of Archie Searight, on Pennsylvania avenue.

U. P. Church Services.

The services at the Second U. P. church tomorrow will be in charge of Rev. Mr. McQuiston, of Monmouth, Ill., who preached at this church several weeks ago. A meeting of the congregation will be held next Wednesday evening for the purpose of selecting a pastor, and extending a call, and it is likely the call will be extended to a preacher who has had charge of the services at this church within the past few weeks.

FAREWELL GLIMPSES

Columbus, O., May 10.—[Sepcial.]—When the present legislature adjourns on Monday next, at 12 o'clock, as it will, unless there be a hitch over the passage of the appropriation bills, exactly eighteen weeks will have passd since the opening day, on January 6, when the session was called to order and the routine of work began. In any sort of a comparison with previous legislatures several things ought to be remembered before judgment is pronounced. This general assembly faced at the start the promises of its party platforms both Republican and Democratic, declaring for a reform in taxation laws and a relief to the people from the somewhat excessive state levy under which the state had been operating. To devise the means by which that could be done and still bring into the state treasury sufficient money to meet the operating expenses of the different departments was a stupendous undertaking. It has been solved, although the wisdom of the solution is yet a matter of future demonstration. No such task has faced a general assembly in recent years. Another matter which demanded attention was that of redistricting. By common consent, the state has been changed in its boundaries every decade. It fell upon this legislature to undertake that work. The question of giving satisfactory primary election laws under which the people could operate smoothly and without conflict and avoid any touch of fraud was a paramount issue with which, unfortunately, nothing has been done. But these were not all. It was known that the canal question would come up and the state be forced to declare its policy in connection with this department of its government. For weeks no issue before the legislature created such a bone of contention or was so vigorously and bitterly fought. Day after day, and night after night, the lobby of the halls of both the house and the senate were filled with eager men fighting over the matter, buttonholeing members. They represented those who saw in the canals a useless expense and burden to the state, a source of outlay from which there was no adequate return, and they represented the men who wished the canals given up in order that the banks might be utilized for the building of electric and steam roads, the facilitating of transportation. On the other hand there were hundreds to whom the canals give employment, from the members of the board of public works and canal commissions to the laborers along the banks, all vitally interested. There were the many manufacturers in all parts of Ohio who obtain waterpower from these public ways, much upon the presumption that water, like air, is free, and again came the utopian dreamers who hope some day to see the canals converted into great ship canals by which vessels of magnitude may be transported from lake to river and then out into the ocean and thus to all the markets and marts of the world. On top of all these were the professional lobbyists, to whom the legislature is a bargain counter where they bring their goods and sell to the highest bidder. Few legislatures have been afflicted with these men more than the present.

When all of these things are taken into consideration and weighed, it will be found that much has been done and real good has been accomplished. The new plan of taaxtion has been put into operation and the state levy reduced, as promised, by an increase in the tax upon corporation both domestic and foreign. The reduction to the people in the amount of tax they will be forced to pay each year will amount to some $2,500,000, and if the operation of the new plan meets with the success anticipated, this reduction will be still greater and the state levy still further reduced.

The primary election matter unfortunately has not been settled, although an earnest and genuine attempt was made in that direction by Dunlap of Cuyahoga, who introduced a bill, providing that the primaries of all parties should be held on the same day and at the same hour. It was defeated by one of those strange freaks of voting which sometimes strikes legislative bodies, and not because of any real opposition. Only the late date of its consideration prevented the matter being taken up again, when it would undoubtedly have been passed. But a healthy, good, genuine, solid sentiment in favor of a rational and sensible primary law was created, which may at the next session bring about tangible results.

On the canal matter the policy of the state has been definitely determined for all time to come. The legislature has said that the canals are to be maintained as means of water transportation at public expense, and that in case of an abandonment of all or any part of them such boats as were built to run over the abandoned part will be purchased by the state at their value at the time of the abandonment. The effect of this has been to stimulate boat building as nothing else could have done, and from up and down the canals everywhere come the reports of new craft under way of construction. Officials believe this will be the most productive year within a quarter of a century in the matter of canal transportation and the tramp of the mule on the tow-path is expected to be heard again in the land.

The redistricting question goes out of the legislature as it came in, except that the advantage of a full and free discussion has been given. Nothing but an eleventh hour change of sentiment on Monday can be hoped for to effect a single switch in a district. The difficulty attending this has been to bring about such a revision as would give general satisfaction, and leave no disappointments behind. Such a thing was absolutely impossible. When the house decided to change the 12th district alone, by making of Franklin county a district by itself, the senate rose up and declared that if the 12th were changed the third must be also. On this the house demurred, and especially Guerin of Erie, who was outspoken in saying that it would be unfair to adopt such a course unless consideration were given his county of Erie, by taking it out of the 13th and putting it in the 14th. To have gratified the desire of all the members would have been impossible. So it has come about that nothing has been done, and the districts will be left as they are, which pleases the Ohio delegation in congress and seems to leave no great regret anywhere except, perhaps, here and there, where some aspiring statesman has seen his ambitions knocked into a cocked hat.

Of course, these do not include all or a fraction of all, the bills of even general importance which have been acted upon. But it is a review of the more important things which have formed the foundation for the building of the legislative structure. Every section has had its local measures and every member his pet schemes. The Willis bill, effecting the sale of liquor in municipalities, has been passed and a uniform system of public accounting provided for under the direction of the state auditor. Several new boards of state examiners for different things have been created, and a number of bills abolishing different boards of different kinds, in different places passed. Altogether it has been a busy session, and a long one, and none will feel sorry that it's over, for all are weary and tired and ready for the rest that follows labor.

By Dr. JOHN WATSON (Ian MacLaren)

I WISH AS ONE WHO LOVES THE UNITED STATES NEXT TO HIS OWN COUNTRY TO MAKE AN APPEAL BOTH TO THE MIND AND HEART OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE NOT TO THINK HARDLY ABOUT US BECAUSE WE DON'T SEE OUR WAY TO WITHDRAW FROM THE WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

I WANT THE AMERICANS TO BELIEVE THAT WE ONLY ASKED THE BOERS TO TREAT OUR ENGLISH PEOPLE IN THE TRANSVAAL AS WE TREATED THE DUTCH IN CAPE COLONY; THAT IF THE BOERS HAD NOT ATTACKED US WE SHOULD NOT HAVE MADE WAR ON THEM; THAT AFTER WHAT HAS HAPPENED THERE WOULD BE NO GUARANTEE OF PEACE FOR SOUTH AFRICA IF THE TWO REPUBLICS REMAIN INDEPENDENT AND HOSTILE STATES; THAT IF THE TWO STATES BECOME AN INTEGRAL PART OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE THEY WILL BE PLACED AS SOON AS POSSIBLE IN THE POSITION OF CANADA AND AUSTRALIA AND THAT THEY WILL THEN ENJOY SUCH ORDER AND PEACE AND JUSTICE AS THEY HAVE NEVER KNOWN IN THE PAST.

DAN GROSVENOR SAYS:

"Peruna is an Excellent Spring Catarrh Remedy---I am as Well as Ever."

HON. DAN. A. GROSVENOR, OF THE FAMOUS OHIO FAMILY.

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., says:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peruna. One week has brought wonderful changes and I am now as well as ever. Besides being one of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy."---

DAN. A. GROSVENOR.

In a recent letter he says:

"I consider Peruna really more meritorious than I did when I wrote you last. I receive numerous letters from acquaintances all over the country asking me if my certificate is genuine. I invariably answer, yes."---Dan. A. Grosvenor.

A County Commissioner's Letter.

Hon. John Williams, County Commissioner, of 517 West Second street, Duluth, Minn., says the following in regard to Peruna:

"As a remedy for catarrh I can cheerfully recommend Peruna. I know what it is to suffer from that terrible disease and I feel that it is my duty to speak a good word for the tonic that brought me immediate relief. Peruna cured me of a bad case of catarrh and I know it will cure any other sufferer from that disease."—John Williams.

Miss Mattie L. Guild, President Illinois Young People's Christian Temperance Union, in a recent letter from Chicago, Ill., says:

"I doubt if Peruna has a rival in all the remedies recommended to-day for catarrh of the system. A remedy that will cure catarrh of the stomach will cure the same condition of the mucous membrane anywhere. I have found it the best remedy I have ever tried for catarrh, and believing it worthy my endorsement I gladly accord it.--Mattie L. Guild.

A Congressman's Letter.

Hon. W. P. Brownlow, Congressman from Tennessee, writes from Washington, D. C., the following:

"I have suffered from catarrh of the stomach for several years, and for the past twelve months was in an exceedingly critical condition. My attention was called to your Peruna, and I began to use it, and my improvement was noticeable after the first three days. I have taken three bottles of the medicine and I feel satisfied that I am now almost, if not permanently, cured. In connection with the Peruna, I have used your Manalin for biliousness and torpid liver. I regard it as the best medicine for this purpose that I have ever used. Having been benefited so much myself, I give you this statement, that others may be likewise benefited."—W. P. Brownlow, M. C., Jonesboro, Tenn.

Mrs. Elmer Fleming, Minneapolis, Minn.

"I have been troubled all my life with catarrh in my head. I took Peruna for about three months, and now think I am permanently cured. I believe that for catarrh in all its forms Peruna is the medicine of the age. It cures when all other remedies fail. I can heartily recommend Peruna as a catarrh remedy."—Mrs. Elmer Fleming.

Treat Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the time to treat catarrh. Cold, wet winter weather often retards a cure of catarrh. If a course of Peruna is taken during the early spring months the cure will be prompt and permanent. There can be no failures if Peruna is taken intelligently during the favorable weather of spring.

As a systemic catarrh remedy Peruna eradicates catarrh from the system wherever it may be located. It cures catarrh of the stomach or bowels with the same certainty as catarrh of the head.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

There is a feeling on the part of many citizens that a mistake has been made in planting a hedge about the Carnegie library grounds. It is argued that the grass plot alone would be much prettier and that the hedge when it has grown will seriously detract from the view of the imposing building and the handsome site it occupies. Further objection is made that a hedge has no place about a public building and is bound to give a graveyard appearance to the ground inside. Of course, there are those who would find fault, no matter what was done or left undone. The News Review has no desire to interfere in the matter, except to say that the public should have what it wants. Frankly, we do not like the hedge. If the public is of the same opinion, it would be an easy matter to remove it now, but a far more difficult task later. It is a question which is worthy of attention, and we would be glad to have expressions from our readers on the subject.

Playing at war is expensive, but much less so than the real thing. Kaiser William, the war lord, is preparing to have a good time fighting imaginary foes. The great land and sea maneuvers which are to take place on the German north coast next month are to be elaborate. It will be supposed that a naval enemy is holding the island of Borkum and is planning a descent upon the coast for the purpose of landing troops at an unknown point, under the command of General von Stuenzner. Wireless telegraphy will be used and the emperor, with a great following of naval and military officers, will be active in the performance. It is to be assumed that the German fleet is absent. If the kaiser can content himself forever with this harmless sort of war the rest of the world will be well pleased.

The press reports indicate that the fate of ancient Pompeii has overtaken the town of St. Pierre, on one of the French islands of the West Indies, and thousands of its inhabitants. No such destruction of life in modern times has ever resulted from a similar cause. Though the pages of history are filled with accounts of great disasters from such causes, the western hemisphere has heretofore contributed comparatively little to the record. If there is not a rapid exodus of population from the island of Martinique after this, it will be surprising.

The Cuban congress is in session and the machinery of the new republic will soon be in full operation. No other people in the world ever entered national existence under such favorable conditions as those which present themselves to the Cubans. They have had over three years' tuition in the business of republican government by the world's greatest republic.

AT THE THEATER

"The Great White Diamond" is the best melodrama on the road. It contains four big acts and four big sensations that are entirely different from anything produced on the stage. Gorgeous scenery, marvelous effects. Moreover, there is a charming vein of comedy which runs through the story, and there is nothing lacking in the way of specialties, which serve to liven things, as the whirling scenes succeed one another.

Bodies Turned to Stone.

Human bodies buried in limestone countries are often turned to solid stone by the limewater which penetrates the graves. In other soils there are elements which sometimes so embalm the buried dead as to preserve form and features unchanged. Many such cases are on record. Robert Burns' body was disinterred in 1815 to be removed to a new tomb. To the surprise of all his friends the features were found to be as perfect as at burial. When the body of John Hampden, the famous English patriot and leader, was disinterred by Lord Nugent 200 years after burial, the form and features were as unchanged as if the corpse had been recently laid in the grave.

One of Dumas' Jokes.

Just for a joke Dumas once addressed a letter to "the greatest poet in Paris." The postoffice sent it to Lamartine, the idol of sentimental readers. He hesitated to open it and took it to Victor Hugo, who protested that his brother bard had far too humble an opinion of himself. After some conversation they agreed to decide by lot which of the two should open the envelope. The lot fell to Victor Hugo, who, taking out the letter, read, "My dear Alfred." It was written to Alfred de Musset.

A Capable Student.

In one of the Philadelphia colleges a professor of chemistry asked a student the other day, "Now, suppose you were called to a patient who had swallowed a heavy dose of oxalic acid, what would you administer?"

"I would administer the sacrament," replied the student, who, by the way, is said to be studying for the ministry and takes chemistry because it is obligatory.—Argonaut.

It is reasonable to believe that the time is not far distant when the manufacturers will meet for the purpose of appointing a committee to confer with the executive board of the Brotherhood, for the purpose of talking over the revision of any matters that are now being passed by the convention. It is known that some of the resolutions which have been or will be presented to the convention call for an increase in wages, and as this is always an important matter, of course conferences will have to be held on this matter. From what can be learned it is intimated that some departments would like to have an increase of almost 15 per cent.

"This company for one will not go into the 'pottery combination,' states an official of the Barberton pottery. Although repeatedly approached by agents of the combination this company has refused to band itself with those of East Liverpool. As to the pottery companies located in Akron they will not say how they regard the matter. They, too, have been communicated with as regards the movement and although they state now that they are not considering the proposition there are still many chances remaining that they will allow themselves to absorbed.

Now that fine weather is at hand, jiggermen are having troubles of their own. A fine day is the signal for the mold runners and batters-out to take a day, and sometimes it is a week before they returned to their places. Meantime the jiggerman is compelled to lose much time scouring the icty for boys, and generally tries to select those who are willing to stick to their work.

In speaking of the propositions submitted by Messrs. Trainer and Irwin, of Chicago, a prominent manufacturer today said: "This proposition will never be accepted by the manufacturers, as far as I can learn. We received a document from these people, and after we read it it was cast aside, and this shows you how much interest this firm is taking in their scheme.

I can go out now and borrow as much money on this plant as these people propose to give us, and this being so, what is the use in forming a combination on such a plan as has been presented?" Several other manufacturers, who have received the same proposition, as exclusively published in this paper Wednesay evening, are of the same opinion.

John Patterson, who has been employed as a jiggerman at the Union for some time, has resigned his position and Monday will start at Laughlin No. 2. His finisher, Miss Eunice McLean, will also be transferred to the East End plant.

Many of the local potteries are holding back contemplated improvements until it is known what the result of the convention will be. It has been stated that several firms propose to erect new kilns, but have deferred action for a month or so.

Kilnmen's local No. 9 held a short session in Brotherhood hall last evening. Two applications for membership were received, and two transfer cards were granted. No other matters were considered, other than that of a routine nature.

The new clay press ordered for the Union some time ago is expected to be installed within a week or 10 days. With this press in operation the compnay will have double the capacity for making clay as it had before.

The water tower at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor pottery at Chester is being raised about 20 feet. This will allow the water to enter the pottery with more force than it does at present.

William Hartford, manager of the N. U. Walker plant, has returned to the city from Toronto, where he has been attending the funeral of his father-in-law, Jefferson Saltsman.

Della Dugan, who has been forewowan in the biscuit warehouse at the Union, has left that plant. Her work is now being looked after by Eva Powell.

Toronto manufacturers are now getting more cars in which to make shipments. The Forest City plant yesterday shipped 14 cars of sewer pipe.

Major Adams, the well known dipper, has returned from Sebring. Mr. Adams has stood by his post at the vat for more than 40 years, and enjoys the distinction of holding such position longer than any other man.

A Popular Expression That Had Its Origin In Congress.

The following is the origin of "I acknowledge the corn," which is used in the sense of admitting failure or having been outwitted: In 1828 Andrew Stewart was in congress discussing the principles of protection and said in the course of his remarks that Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana sent their haystacks, cornfields and fodder to New York and Philadelphia markets to sell.

Charles A. Wyckliffe jumped up and said: "Why, that is absurd, Mr. Speaker. I call the gentleman to order. He is stating an absurdity. We never send haystacks or cornfields to New York or Philadelphia."

"Well, what do you send?" asked Stewart.

"Well," continued Stewart, "what makes your horses, cattle, hogs and mules? You feed $100 worth of hay to a horse; you get on top of your haystack and ride off to market. How about your cattle? You make every one carry $50 worth of hay or grass to an eastern market. You send a hog worth $10 to market. How much corn at 33 cents a bushel does it take to fatten it? Why, thirty bushels. Then you put thirty bushels of corn into the shape of a hog and make it walk to an eastern market."

Before Stewart could proceed further Wyckliffe arose and said, "Mr. Speaker, I acknowledge the corn."

Scotch Consolation.

A story is told of a canny Scot who dealt in old horses, alternating his spells of labor with heavy sprees. During the period of depression which followed each overindulgence John habitually took to bed and there diligently studied the family Bible. During one of these fits of attempted reformation his condition prompted his wife to call in the Rev. Mr. Wallace, the parish minister, who at the time happened to be passing.

"What's wrang wi' him?"

"He's feart to meet his Makker," said Mrs. John.

Quick as fire came the crushing reply:

An Odd Habit Among Rooks.

Among the odd habits of rooks is the way that members of the same rookery have of intermarrying generation after generation. The males always choose their wives from among their near neighbors, and if one should be so bold as to bring home to his rookery a bride from a distance the other rooks will invariably refuse to receive her and will force the pair to build some way off. In the neighborhood of big rookeries outlying nests of this kind may always be found.

purposes was 8.5 mills, divided as follows: General fund, 1.8 mills; street, 1.2; fire, 1.5; light, 1.3; interest, 2; sanitary, 1; library, .3; park, .2. The levy was placed very low a year ago for the reason that every member of the finance committee realized that the work of the equalizing and decennial boards had been anything but satisfactory, and that the unequal apportionments would undoubtedly work an actual hardship to the taxpayers. They also hoped the inequality could be remedied before it would be necessary to make another levy and it was kept down.

During the past year, however, the street, fire, light, police and sanitary funds have been overdrawn to the amount of from $1,000 to $17,000.

There is but one of these funds in which the present expenses can be curtailed—the street. In the others, especially the police and fire, no cutting can be done, as every resident knows the city's fire and police protection is as limited as it can be run with any degree of satisfaction to the owners of property.

It is also argued that, since these departments did run behind, and money had to be borrowed to make it up, the levy should be increased to an amount that would allow the city to be free from debt at the end of the year. Interest on the borrowed money amounts to 7 per cent, and it would be pursuing a "penny wise and pound foolish" policy for the city to keep on running in debt. The committee will recommend the addition of two-tenth mills to the general fund, one-tenth to the fire; police, one-tenth, and the same amount to the light. This would make five-tenths in all, raising the total to 9 mills, the limit as provided by law.

The recommendation will be laid before the council at its next meeting, so that all members may be permitted to give their views.

The Home of the Kindergarten.

The Japanese have the most perfect kindergarten system in the world. In fact, they originated this method of instructing by entertainment instead of by punishment. Their play apparatus for such purposes is elaborate, but all of it is adapted to the infant mind, which it is designed at once to amuse and to inform. The little ones of Japan even become somewhat interested in mathematics by seeing and feeling what a pretty thing a cone, a sphere or a cylinder is when cut out of wood with a lathe. They make outlines of solid figures out of straw, with green peas to hold the joints together, and for the instruction of the blind flat blocks are provided, with the Japanese characters raised upon them.—Pearson's Weekly.

McKinley and His Mother.

Dr. Rixey, who for some years was the private physician in the McKinley household, used to tell that when the late president's mother sat down for the first time to a White House dinner what seemed to impress her most was the prodigal supply of cream. She commented on the abundance and then added, "Well, William, at last I know what they mean when they speak of the cream of society."

The president laughed. "I admit," said he, "that there seems to be an extravagant array of cream on the table, but you know, mother, we can afford to keep a cow now."

Taking It Coolly.

The ship of an admiral who was the Duke of Wellington's near connection was wrecked. He was placed in command of a second ship, which was also lost, and he himself was drowned. Lord Charles communicated the disaster to his father, who merely exclaimed, with Spartan coldness and brevity, "That's the second ship he has lost."

Much Pleasanter.

"Prosperity has ruined many a man."

"No doubt. But if I'm given any choice in the matter I'd rather be ruined by prosperity than by adversity. The process is more enjoyable."—Chicago Post.

SUPERSTITIONS AT SEA.

Quaint Notions Still Prevail Among the Older Mariners.

It is a mistake, according to a well known young naval officer, to suppose that the sailors of our present navy are free from superstition. "I remember," he said, "only five years ago when I was in the training ship that the old salts there were as full of old superstitious beliefs as any of their ancestors could have been.

"When at sea in a dead calm, the swaying of the masts in the motionless atmosphere sometimes causes a peculiar wailing sound like distant cries. This, the old seamen assured us, was the moaning of the souls of sailors lost at sea.

"Another one of their pet beliefs is that all sailors that die by drowning are at once transformed into Cape Horn pigeons, or, as they are also called, Mother Carey's chickens. Officers are supposed to find their reincarnations in sea gulls and mews, while the big, solitary albatrosses, following the wake of passing vessels, are the souls of captains who have gone down with their ships. These are the reasons why sailors never kill these birds.

"I remember that these tales impressed me a great deal in those days when I was still a mere boy. On one occasion I was sitting in the forecastle on my watch below, chatting with the boatswain's mate, a real old timer, when our conversation was interrupted by a low wail of agony, louder than that usually produced by the wind. We listened in a deep, awed silence.

"'Boy,' said the boatswain's mate, 'ye hear that? That's a seaman's call wot's been drownded.'

"Again the wail disturbed the silence.

"'Yes,' said the old sailor in an anxious whisper; 'that's some old salt wot's lost his life on board this yessel. Likely he's come for something he's forgot.'

"After awhile I ventured out on deck. The wails were coming from the roof of the forecastle. I climbed up and there found the captain's little son tugging away at the cat's tail, which the poor animal was resenting with the full power of its lungs."—New York Tribune.

Some Phonetic Spelling.

Before we complain of the spelling of our daughters we should perhaps take exception to the pronunciation of our fathers. Most of the eccentricities in spelling common to children arise from their attempts to reproduce words as they hear them pronounced by their elders. A child who was told to make a list of all the fruits she knew wrote down, "Apls, strorbriz, rarsbriz, goozbris, bnarners." Another spelled the word "idea" with the addition of an "r." "Idear!" exclaimed her teacher. "That is a funny way of spelling idea." Her pupil, however, was not to be outdone. "I know," she answered readily, "but I spelled it that way for short."—London Chronicle.

POLLUTED STREAMS

Columbus, May 10.—In the annual report of the state board of health the question of water supply for cities receives much attention. During the year the board acted on plans for the supply for various cities, including Wellsville and Salineville.

The examination of the supply for cities dependant upon Ohio river and Lake Erie for water, begun in 1897, and coninued until this year by means of monthly tests of water, lead the board to interesting conclusions. It says: "Large cities, with few exceptions, must forever depend upon lakes and streams for a water supply. The investigations of the board show the extend to which these are already polluted. The pollution of our streams is rapidly increasing. Their minimum flow is decreasing, and to the same extent their ability to dispose by natural agencies of the sewage and other pollutions poured into them. Our cities must more and more turn to water purification. But even then, unless efficient measures are taken to conserve the streams, many of them will become open sewers, breeding sickness along their course, and unfitted for the use of man or beast.

"The investigation indicates for the Ohio river that it at no place offers a safe domestic supply during the entire year. Its waters are improved and scarcely made safe by sedimentation. The low alkalinity at times will make it necessary to use much care in the use of coagulants (alum) in the purification of the water by mechanical filtration. In the interest of public health early attention should be given to the proper purification of all public water supplies obtained from this stream."

BROUGHT TO LIGHT

East Liverpool People Receiving the Full Benefit.

There have been many cases like the following in East Liverpool. Everyone relates the experience of people we know. These plain straightforward statements will do much toward relieving the suffering of thousands. Such testimony will be read with interest by many people.

Mrs. William Dunn, of 192 Sixth street, says: "Doan's kidney Pills did for me what none of the doctors could do. They told me I had gravel, and a little relief was all I could expect. I suffered terribly for two or three years alternately better and, worse with severe pains across the small of my back and up my side The pains were so severe that I was often compelled to stay in bed, not being able to get up. My limb swelled so I could hardly walk, and periodically I was taken with such severe pains through the groins that I could hardly stand it. The doctors advised hot applications and gave me bottle after bottle of medicine, but I did not receive any real benefit until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy. Having seen them so highly recommended by others I took them, and am grateful to say they helped me alomst at once."

Sold for 50 cents a box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS

The A. M. E. Church Trying Hard to Wipe Out Its Indebtedness.

Rev. J. H. Mason, pastor of the A. M. E. Zion church, issues the following statement:

"Last June by pressure of debt we were compelled to mortgage our church property in order to secure by loan the sum of $1,200. At the last settlement of accounts, January 20, 1902, we had paid in on the above indebtedness, on the principal $216.02, besides interest amounting to $56.72, leaving a net balance of debt, $983.98. The church is organized into working bands, who are doing all in their power to liquidate this debt. At an official meeting of the trustees the pastor was requested again to solicit some aid of all whom he may find in sympathy with this struggling church."

Rev. Mr. Mason will proceed about the work at once, hoping at least to be kindly treated and have his mission respected.

MOONEY AND FRIDAY HANGED.

Denied Guilt—Prayed For Men, Who Murdered Man, They Were Convicted of Killing.

Wheeling, W. Va., May 10.—John Mooney and Frank Friday were hanged at 6:45 p. m. yesterday at the Moundsville penitentiary, from the same scaffold, with a simultaneous drop, for the murder of James Hervey, a farmer of this county, March 1, 1900. Both protested their innocence to the last and walked to their death without a tremor.

Friday wrote an extended statement, which had been mailed to his sister, Mrs. E. Bogart, of Pittsburg, but its contents are not known. Their last act was a prayer "for the men who murdered James Hervey."

ONE FUNERAL FOR FORDS.

Mrs. Paul Ford Rallied From Awful Shock.

New York, May 10.—There was a meeting of relatives of Paul Leicester Ford and Malcolm W. Ford yesterday, at which E. H. Kidder, Mrs. Paul Ford's father, Roswell Steele, Worthington Ford and a sister were present. Later Worthington Ford said there would be but one funeral and that the service would be conducted by Bishop Burgess, of Long Island, formerly rector of Grace church, Brooklyn, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Stires, rector of St. Thomas' church, New York. Immediately after the service the bodies will be taken to Irvington-on-Hudson for interment. Dr. Munroe, the Ford family doctor, and Dr. Baruch, who was called in immediately after the tragedy, said Mrs. Ford had rallied entirely yesterday from the shock. She is still weak, but is out of danger. Mrs. Malcolm Ford, who secured a divorce four years ago, visited Malcolm Ford's late home and saw her 7-year-old boy, who had lived with his father.

Keep the Balance Up

It has been truthfully said that any disturbance of the even balance of health causes serious trouble. Nobody can be too careful to keep this balance up. When people begin to lose appetite, or to get tired easily, the least imprudence brings on sickness, weakness, or debility. The system needs a tonic, craves it, and should not be denied it; and the best tonic of which we have any knowledge is Hood's Sarsaparilla. What this medicine has done in keeping people healthy, in keeping up the even balance of health, gives it the same distinction as a preventive that it enjoys as a cure. Its early use has illustrated the wisdom of the old saying that a stitch in time saves nine. Take Hood's for appetite, strength and endurance.

SICK MADE WELL WEAK MADE STRONG

The Remedy Is Free to All Who Send Name and Address.

After years of patient study, and delving into the dusty record of the past, as well as following modern experiments in the realms of medical science, Dr. James W. Kidd, 2917 Baltes Building, Fort Wayne, Indiana, makes the startling announcement that he has surely discovered the elixir of life. That he is able with the aid of a mysterious compound, known only to himself, produced as a result of the years he has spent in searching for this precious life-giving boon, to cure any and every disease that is known to the human body. There is no doubt of the doctor's earnestness in making his claim and the remarkable cures that he is daily effecting seems to bear him out very strongly. His theory which he advances is one of reason and based on sound experience in a medical practice of many years. It costs nothing to try his remarkable "Elixir of Life," as he calls it, for he sends it free, to anyone who is a sufferer, in sufficient quantities to convince of its ability to cure, so there is absolutely no risk to run. Some of the cures cited are very remarkable, and but for reliable witnesses would hardly be credited. The lame have thrown away crutches and walked about after two or three trials of the remedy. The sick, given up by home doctors, have been restored to their families and friends in perfect health. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stomach, heart, liver, kidney, blood and skin diseases and bladder troubles disappear as by magic. Headaches, backaches, nervousness, fevers, consumption, coughs, colds, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis and all affections of the throat, lungs or any vital organs are easily overcome in a space of time that is simply marvelous.

Partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, dropsy, gout, scrofula and piles are quickly and permanently removed. It purifies the entire system, blood and tissue, restores normal nerve power, circulation and a state of perfect health is produced at once. To the doctor all systems are alike and equally affected by this great "Elixir of Life." Send for the remedy today. It is free to every sufferer. State what you want to be cured of and the sure remedy for it will be sent you free by return mail.

How About Your Heart

Feel your pulse a few minutes. Is it regular? Are you short of breath, after slight exertion as going up stairs, sweeping, walking, etc? Do you have pain in left breast, side or between shoulder blades, choking sensations, fainting or smothering spells, inability to lie on left side? If you have any of these symptoms you certainly have a weak heart, and should immediately take

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

Mr. F. H. Oaks of Jamestown, N. Y., whose genial face appears above, says: "Excessive use of tobacco seriously affected my heart. I suffered severe pains about the heart, and in the left shoulder and side; while the palpitation would awaken me from my sleep. AIRSHIP BUILDER

Salem, May 10.—Leo Stevens, the aeronaut who formerly resided here, and who is known by many Salem people, is the name of another airship builder who has a flying machine within 60 days of completion. He now has his workshop on the second floor of 291 Eighth avenue, New York city, and says he will contest for the big prize at St. Louis.

His machine, he thinks, is an improvement on the Santos-Dumont machine. He expects to make his first trip through the air over the tops of New York's sky scrapers.

FUNERAL OF CORRIGAN.

CARDINAL GIBBONS CHIEF OFFICIANT AT MASS.

New York, May 10.—A solemn requiem mass for the repose of the soul of the Most Reverend Michael Augustine Corrigan, archbishop of New York, was said yesterday in St. Patrick's cathedral by Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, in the presence of 8 archbishops, 18 bishops and more than 1,000 priests of the church.

The officiating clergymen were: Celebrant, Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore; assistant priest, the Rev. Joseph F. Mooney, vicar general; deacons of honor, the Rt. Rev. John Edwards, of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and the Rev. Father Colton, of St. Stephen's; deacon to the mass, the Rev. Father McGean, of St. Peter's; sub-deacon, the Rev. Father Lavelle, pastor of the cathedral; masters of ceremonies, the Rev. Father James Connelly, of the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, and the Rev. Father Thomas F. Myhan, of St. Ann's; preacher, Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia.

Other Masses Well Attended.

Although the funeral service proper was set for 10:30 o'clock, the early masses, at which prayers for the dead were said, were attended by large congregations. Before 6 o'clock, the hour of the first mass, there was 3,000 persons around the cathedral waiting for the opening of the doors. Five masses were said up to 8 o'clock, and as one congregation left the large building another took its place. At the end of the 8 o'clock mass the doors were closed so that preparations might be made for the final ceremonies.

Final absolution was given at noon and the casket then was borne by six priests to the crypt under the altar of the cathedral, where interment was made.

A wreath of Easter lilies, white roses and snowballs was received at the cathedral yesterday morning from President Roosevelt. Another wreath received bore the name of John W. Mackay.

Gave $50,000 to the Pope.

Rome, May 10.—Shortly prior to his death Archbishop Corrigan sent the pope a check for $50,000 as a personal gift in connection with the pontiff's jubilee.

It is calculated that the diocese of New York supplies the vatican with most of the Peter's pence, which has now been reduced to about a third of the amount formerly received.

The correspondent of the Associated Press is informed that it is not likely the successor of Archbishop Corrigan will be nominated at the next consistory and that probably more than a month will elapse before a decision in the matter will be reached. It is therefore probable that a capitulary vicar will be appointed to administer the archdiocese.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Another delightful social event was that of yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. John C. Thompson entertained about fifty guests at her handsome residence, "The Lyndens." The home was beautifully decorated as on the previous day with pink roses, lilies of the valley and palms. Progressive euchre was the game. At its conclusion very elaboarte refreshments were served by a Steubenville caterer. After lingering some time in the sun-parlor, which is one of the delightful features of this artistically arranged home, the guests departed after a most delightful afternoon. Mrs. Thompson is noted as being one of East Liverpool's most charming hostesses, and her entertainments have always been most brilliant.

The class which presented the "Scottish Reformation" at the opera house on Thursday and Friday evenings will entertain in honor of Miss Lucy Reninger, the trainer at Rock Springs this evening. All the members who can are urged to be present and assist in making the occasion memorable.

ART THRIVES IN THIS CITY

SOME EXQUISITE WORK

The city of East Liverpool has for years been conceded to be the pottery manufacturing center of the United States. It can be justly proud of the distinction, as a larger, more beautiful and artistic display of the elegant product cannot be seen anywhere. Nevertheless the citizens must not confine themselves to being proud of pottery alone.

There are other admirable features connected with the business, manufacturing and industrial reputation of the city and perhaps the most noticeable attractions among them are the art studios, one of the finest and best equipped being located on Washington street in the First National bank building. It is known as the Spencer studio and is owned and managed by R. E. Spencer, a man with years of experience in photography and possessed of superior talent for the work incident to the business.

A News Review reporter had the pleasure of visiting the Spencer studio this morning. He was amazed at the magnificent display of art, grandeur of the scenic production and the pleasing effects presented. The parlors are indeed realistic representations of artistic loveliness. From the walls overhanging are seen in most perfect types the faces of the adored living and the fondly remembered dead, while interspersed among them are true reproductions of nature's beauteousness.

In making the Sepia crayons Mr. Spencer and his assistants are particularly efficient. Three of their latest productions are now hanging in the directors' room in the First National bank. The portraits are those of Josiah Thompson, deceased, and ex-president of the bank; Hon. David Boyce, president, and N. G. Macrum, cashier of the bank. They are life-size and are perfect in every respect. The directors and adherents of the bank look upon them with pride.

Porcelain and ivory miniatures are also produced in elegant style by Mr. Spencer. He states that they will, in a few years, be almost exclusively in demand, as the public in general is taking a fancy to them more and more every day.

All interested in the display seen in the studio can glean a fair conception of the elegance by taking a view of the photographs to be seen in the lower show window of Lewis Bros.' furniture store. Here are presented a number of those who took part in the Scottish Reformation. Mrs. W. C. Lynch, as Queen Mary, is most beautifully photographed, as well as she and her guards in one of the imposing scenes of the play. Again the queen and the ladies and gentlemen of the court, bring forth many admiring expressions from those who have seen the photos.

D. M. McLane's picture as John Knox and surrounded by the ladies and gentlemen of the court, elicits many compliments.

Mrs. H. E. Monroe, who superintended the presentation of the play, states that the photographs taken by Mr. Spencer far exceed any she has ever seen, and those who have not been before his camera are extended a very cordial invitation to avail themselves of the opportunity at once.

TELEPHONE GIRLS

To the Editor of the News Review.

Dear Sir: I desire to publish this letter for the benefit of all. At the consultation between the operators of the East Liverpool exchange, Mr. Richardson and myself, the terms of settlement were discussed fully and freely. After I found what the girls wanted I framed a proposition which I thought met them a little more than half way, submitted it to them and gave them the use of the office for private consideration. After discussing the matter we were asked to return.

After some further discussion and some effort on the part of the older and more experienced operators, all voted to accept the proposition, which they considered a just and fair one, and return to work. Later in the evening of the same day, two of the operators, one of the youngest operators in the office, and the other, who had worked for us in all about one year, but who had left us some time since, and lately returned to work, became dissatisfied, as they thought they should be the ones that should be most favored, and proceeded to do a great deal of talking, and gave to the operators who returned to work a very unlady-like epithet of scabs.

In justice to the operators not employed in the East Liverpool exchange I wish to say through your columns that they were most lady-like through all the discussion, and when I placed the matter before them, and made them the proposition, they said, while perfectly satisfied, and thought the proposition a most fair one, they would not accept the same unless all voted to do so. They all did vote to accept, and immediately returned to work. And I think it very fair and unlady-like in those two who persist in talking the way they have talked.

I trust the public will not censure the operators not at work for the action taken by them in returning to work after they had all voted to do so. We also desire to say, that, as a company, we are justly proud of the service given by our East Liverpool operators.

If you can add anything to this letter that will be of benefit to the girls, I will be pleased if you do so.

Very truly,

THE COLUMBIANA COUNTY TELEPHONE COMPANY.

The management made no mistake in signing Reark. Yesterday was his first game and he played as if he had practiced all spring. Three hits and four put outs is a pretty good record for the first game.

Godwin failed to get a put out, but he was there in assists, seven in all. His pickups were marvelous and elicited much praise.

C. Davis behind the bat rarely let the ball get away, but didn't seem to fancy keeping company with it, as he dropped it like hot 34 times.

At first base Fred Heckathorn was all right. He got a run, a hit and 15 put outs.

Sympathy was with Whitnight on third. His errors were numerous, but being a general favorite, he was excused. When not in bad luck he covers the base to perfection.

Ahmon pitched a fair game and bids fair to enter faster company.

It's a good thing for Manager Walsh that his team won. Had it not after the change from Thursday's lineup everyone in the city would have rebelled. Nobody knows why he made the change, anyway.

40,000 DIE IN FIRE

CITY OF ST. PIERRE WIPED OUT.

Some Shipping Was Also Destroyed. U. S. Consul and Family Reported Perished—Volcano Erupting on St Vincent—No Damage Reported.

St. Thomas, D. W. I., May 10.—It was estimated last night that 40,000 persons perished as a result of the volcanic eruption in the island of Martinique.

The British schooner Ocean Traveller, of St. John, N. B., arrived at the island of Dominica, British West Indies, at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. She reported having been obliged to flee from the island of St. Vincent, West Indies, during the afternoon of Wednesday, in consequence of a heavy fall of sand from a volcano which was erupting there. She tried to reach the island of St. Lucia, British West Indies, but adverse currents prevented her from so doing. The schooner arrived opposite St. Pierre, Martinique, Thursday morning, May 8. While about a mile off the volcano (of Mont Pelee) exploded and fire from it swept the whole town of St. Pierre, destroying the town and the shipping there, including the cable repair ship Grappler, of the West India and Panama Telegraph company, of London, which was engaged in repairing the cable near the Guerin factory. The Ocean Traveller, while on her way to Dominica, encountered a quantity of wreckage.

Washington, May 10.—The following cablegram was received at the state department last evening:

"Secretary of State, Washington:

"At 7 o'clock a. m., on the 8th instant, a storm of steam, mud and fire enveloped the city and community. Not more than 20 persons escaped with their lives. Eighteen vessels were burned and sunk with all on board, including four Americans, and a steamer from Quebec named Roraima. The United States consul and family are reported among the victims. A war vessel has come to Guadaloupe for provisions and will leave at 5 tomorrow.

(Signed) "Ayme, Consul."

London, May 9.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegraph company, from Kingston, Jamaica, after giving the details of the Martinique disaster already known, says:

"Thousands were killed at St. Pierre, where a terrible panic prevailed. The eruption began Saturday, May 3, when St. Pierre was covered with ashes and appeared to be enveloped in fog. The flow of lava continued until Wednesday, May 7."

The message adds:

"In the island of St. Vincent the Soufriere (volcano) is active and earthquakes are frequent. But so far no damage has been done."

In response to the request of Governor Llewellyn, of the Windward islands, the British second-class cruiser Indefatigable has been dispatched from the island of Trinidad to the island of St. Vincent, by way of St. Lucia.

A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Pointe-A-Pitre, island of Gaudaloupe, French West Indies, dated yesterday, says:

"The Mont Pelee (St. Pierre) crater ejected yesterday morning molten rocks and ashes during three minutes and completely destroyed St. Pierre and the districts within a four-mile radius. All the inhabitants were burned.

"About eight passengers from the Roraima, of the Quebec steamship line were saved by the French cruiser Suchet.

"The inhabitants of the southern districts of the island who were dependent on St. Pierre for provisions are menaced by famine."

A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Jamaica says:

"The first intimation of a disaster at Martinique was the breaking of the cables on Tuesday. The French cable to Martinique, from Puerto Plata, was broken Wednesday. Cable communication with all the northern islands is stopped.

"The survivors of the British steamer Roddam describe the scene at St. Pierre as being "glimpses of hell,' beggaring description. The Roddam's men were killed chiefly by molten lava.

"The Roraima was wrecked in a terrible upheaval of land and sea. The whole crew perished.

"Two ships were lost with all on board in an attempt to approach Martinique."

Evans' Nomination Confirmed.

Washington, May 10.—The senate yesterday confirmed the nomination of H. Clay Evans to be consul general at London

TERRITORIES BILL PASSED.

Washington, May 10.—The opposition in the house to the bill for the admission of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico collapsed at the last minute yesterday, and the bill was passed without division as it came from the committee, except for a few verbal amendments. The real test came on an amendment offered by Mr. Overstreet, of Indiana, to join New Mexico and Arizona and admit them as the state of Montezuma. It was beaten—280 to 106—and all opposition then ceased. The closing scenes of the debate were accompanied by a dramatic incident, which narrowly escaped being a tragedy. Delegate Mark A. Smith, of Arizona, who has been fighting for the admission of his territory for a dozen years, had just made a vigorous speech against the Overstreet amendment, when he was seized with a rush of blood to the head. He was conveyed to the lobby, where several physicians, who are members of the house, by the prompt administration of powerful heart stimulants, saved him from a stroke of apoplexy. He later rallied and was removed to his hotel.

The bill as passed yesterday provides enabling acts for Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico, similar in form to former enabling acts, with the exception that the constitutional convention of New Mexico is empowered to designate the name by which the new state shall enter the Union, and in the case of Oklahoma the convention, by irrevocable ordinance, shall express the consent of that state that congress at any future time may attach all or any part of Indian territory to it. The enabling acts differ from each other chiefly in reference to the public lands appropriated for educational and public purposes.

The latter part of the session was devoted to private pension bills, 87 of which were passed; 28 original, 54 for increases and 5 to correct military records.

NO TIME TO VOTE FIXED.

Washington, May 10.—An effort was made in the senate to fix a time for a vote on the pending Philippine bill, but it was unsuccessful. The minority said many senators still desired to speak on the measure, and it would not be proper to determine at this time upon a vote. Yesterday's debate on the Philippine bill was mild. Mr. Teller, of Colorado, occupied considerable time in opposition to the measure. He contended principally that the Filipinos were capable of self-government and of establishing a government quite equal to some European governments. Some debate occurred over the resolution to discharge the committee on privileges and elections from further consideration of the proposed constitutional amendment giving the election of senators to the people. It was finally withdrawn, assurance being given that a report from the committee soon would be made.

MINERS TO QUIT WORK

ARBITRATION OFFER DECLINED.

Operators Rejected Proposal of Miners Officials—Delegate Convention to Consider Whether to Strike to Convene Wednesday.

Scranton, Pa., May 10.—A general strike of the miners of the anthracite region has been ordered for Monday next, but the order has a string to it. The question as to whether the strike is to be made permanent is left to the decision of a convention of delegates of all the local organizations of the mine workers, to be held at Hazleton next Wednesday.

The miners' executive committee of the three districts met yesterday morning and had a three-hour session. At its conclusion President Mitchell gave out a statement, saying in part:

"Replies to our proposition to submit the entire question in dispute to an impartial board of arbitration have been received from President Baer, of the Philadelphia and Reading; Chairman Thomas, of the Erie railroad; President Truesdale, of the Lackawanna, and President Oliphant, of the Delaware and Hudson, all of whom refused to join in the adjustment of the differences between us by the methods we propose."

At 4:30 the committeemen assembled and remained in session until 7:30 o'clock. When the session concluded President Mitchell prepared a statement, and assembling the newspaper men at the St. Charles hotel, read to them as follows from a typewritten paper:

Statement of Mitchell.

"To the United Mine Workers of Pennsylvania:

"Gentlemen—The executive committees of the anthracite mine workers who were delegated by the Shamokin convention to represent you in the negotiations with the railroad presidents and mine operators for the purpose of obtaining increased wages, shorter hours and better conditions of employment, have exhausted all peaceable, conciliatory and honorable means at their command, and have failed to secure any concessions of a tangible nature, and while, under the resolutions adopted by the Shamokin convention, authority was vested in the executive committees, should they fail in the negotiations, to inaugurate a strike at whatever time, in their judgment, held out the greatest promise of success, the committees, after three days' serious deliberation, feel that in justice to the anthracite mine workers and those dependent upon them, before a general strike is inaugurated, the question should be further considered by a delegate convention, in which representatives from the various local unions shall be fully instructed by their constituents and prepared to vote in favor of or in opposition to a complete cessation of work.

"In the meantime all persons employed in or around the collieries, are instructed to temporarily abstain from working, beginning with Monday, May 12, and continuing thereafter until a final decision is reached by a delegate convention, which will convene Wednesday morning, May 14, at Hazleton, Pa.

Asked to Instruct Delegates.

"The basis of representation in this convention shall be one vote for each 100 members and one vote for each additional 100 members or majority fraction thereof. The executive committees recommend that special meetings of all local unions be held on Monday afternoon, May 12, for the purpose of selecting delegates and considering the question involved, and it is especially recommended that specific instructions be given to delegates as to how they shall vote on the proposition to inaugurate a strike or to continue work under present conditions.

"The instruction for all men to suspend work on Monday does not include firemen, engineers, pump men and other labor necessary to preserve the property of the operators."

The order is signed by all the district presidents and secretaries.

Some Famous Dunces.

Literary history is crowded with instances of torpid and uninteresting boyhood. Gibbon was pronounced "dreadfully dull," and the utmost that was predicted of Hume in his youth was that "he might possibly become a steady merchant." Adam Clarke, afterward so deeply skilled in oriental languages and antiquities, was pronounced by his father to be "a grievous dunce," and of Boileau, who became a model for Pope, it was said that he was a youth of little understanding. Dryden was "a great numskull," who went through a course of education at Westminster, but the "stimulating properties of Dr. Busby's classical ferrule were thrown away upon the drone who was to be known as 'Glorious John.'" —London Standard.

A Small Legal Fee.

The smallest fee ever taken by an English counsel was sixpence, that fee having on one occasion been taken by the late Sir John Holker. Barristers' fees were in olden times much less than those now paid. An entry occurs in the churchwardens' accounts of St. Margaret's, Westminster, for 1476, showing that a fee of 3s. 8d., with fourpence for his dinner, was paid to Robert Flypott, counsel, learned in the law, for his advice.

In Nare's "Glossary" a barrister's fee was stated to be an angel, or 10 shillings. These are somewhat different figures from the 600 guineas paid to Sir Charles Russell a number of years ago at the Leeds assizes for less than three hours' work, or at the rate of over 3 guineas a minute.—London Tit-Bits.

SPORTS, AMATEUR AND PROFESSIONAL.

The smashing of records has already begun. Notwithstanding that the outdoor athletic season has but recently been initiated Frank Kramer, the cyclonic East Orange (N. J.) cycler, has added another record to his long string, and E. H. Gray of the University of Pennsylvania has succeeded in breaking the intercollegiate pole vault record.

Gray cleared the bar at a height of 11 feet 8 inches. He has been for several years a prominent competitor in collegiate athletics, and his latest achievement is the result of diligent effort. Pole vaulting is a sport that requires unceasing practice, and carelessness in the performance of the feat oftentimes results in serious injury.

E. H. GRAY CLEARING THE BAR.

Pole vaulting is attracting more and more attention every year. It is distinctly an amateur pastime and is seldom indulged in by foreign athletes Great care should be taken in the matter of holding the pole and in measuring off the exact distance for the running approach to the bar. In dropping to the ground it is particularly necessary that a natural, relaxed attitude is maintained, for otherwise an arm or a leg may receive a disabling blow. Ten or eleven feet is a considerable distance to fall, and unless a man lands squarely on his feet he will soon be rendered hors de combat.

Racing men have awakened to the fact that the coming season is likely to be a very prosperous one for those prominent in cycling. There are indications everywhere that the silent steed has been taken back into favor by the general public, and this means that the public will enjoy good racing if it is served up in an up to date manner.

The warm, sunny days that have occurred thus far this spring have seen the boulevards and cycle paths thronged with riders. Everywhere the dealers report the return of former patrons of the wheel. Men who have not ridden for several years are having their old steeds fixed up, and the rising generation is taking a very healthy interest in wheels.

Realizing the proximity of a boom, professional cycle teams are being organized on a scale that reminds one of the halcyon days of 1894 and 1895. New tracks are being constructed on modern lines and not so expensively as to involve the builders in financial difficulties, and the Coliseum circuit is being rapidly enlarged. When completed, the Coliseum circuit in the east will include twenty-five tracks and will give constant employment to at least 300 money chasers, of which number about seventy-five will be pace followers, about seventy-five sprinters and the rest pacemakers, trainers and managers.

What will make the racing picturesque this season will be the presence of a number of speedy foreigners in their odd, many colored uniforms, conspicuous for lack of good taste. Two of these men who have already signed a contract to ride here are Basil de Guichard, a lad of sixteen, and Emil Bouhours. They will ride under the management of P. O. Sheehan.

PUGILISM

Terry McGovern will tackle Young Corbett in an open air fight next October at Hartford, Conn. Manager Crowley, who secured the fight between these great little men by offering a fourteen thousand dollar purse, has decided to use the baseball ground in Hartford as the arena. There is no law against pugilism in Hartford, hence a big time is fought.

Sam Harris, manager of Terry McGovern, feels confident he has another world beater in Hughey McGovern, a brother of the little Brooklyn whirlwind. In favor of his opinion Harris is willing to back Hughey against any boy in the world at 110 pounds for $1,000.

CHARMING MRS. CHOATE.

Wife of the Embassador to England a Tactful Hostess.

Mrs. Joseph H. Choate, wife of the United States embassador to the court of St. James, is one of the most popular ladies of the diplomatic corps at the English capital.

Mrs. Choate is a liberal and charming entertainer, and her grace and tact have made the United States embassy a most important social center. In her salon gather the beauty and wit of the American colony in London, and invitations to her receptions, which are always crowded, are sought for by members of the British nobility. The latest photograph of Mrs. Choate shows her as she is, a beautiful type of the American matron. She is par excellence a diplomat's wife—quick witted, cordial and tactful.

MRS. JOSEPH H. CHOATE.

Mrs. Joseph Choate was Caroline Dutcher Sterling. She was born in Salisbury, Conn., and spent most of her girlhood days in Cleveland. In 1868 she was married to Mr. Choate and removed to New York. Mrs. Choate is a blond, her hair now slightly tinged with gray. Her features are aristocratic, her cheeks rosy with health and her eyes dark and brilliant.

Mrs. Choate is the possessor of a dignified and at the same time a winning personality. She is thus generously provided with all the attributes most needed by a diplomat's wife.

The Choate family is a charming one. There are two sons and a daughter.

Travelers to California

Naturally desire to see the grandest and most impressive scenery en route. This you will do by selecting the Denver & Rio Grande and Rio Grande Western, "The Scenic Line of the World," and "The Great Salt Lake Route," in one or both directions, as this line has two separate routes across the Rocky mountains between Denver and Ogden. Tickets reading via this route are available either via its main line through the Royal George, Leadville, over Tennessee Pass, through the Canon of the Grand river and Glenwood Springs, or via the line over Marshall Pass and through the Black Canon of the Gunnison, thus enabling the traveler to use one of the above routes going and the other returning. Three splendidly equipped fast trains are operated to and from the Pacific coast, which carry through standard sleepers daily between Chicago, St. Louis, Denver and San Francisco. Dining cars (service a la carte) on all through trains. If you contemplate such a trip, let us send you beautifully illustrated pamphlets, free. S. K. Hooper, G. P. & T. A., Denver, Col.

In the Art Gallery.

"Ah," exclaimed Mrs. Oldcastle, who was again enjoying the splendors of her new neighbors' art gallery, "a Corot, I see!"

"Where?" asked her hostess, looking doubtfully at the canvas which seemed to claim the other's attention.

The Limit of Chivalry.

There was once a man who zealously declared that woman has no right to invade the field of wage earning men. She should stay at home, where she belonged.

Finally his four sisters, three cousins and two aunts, who were without a masculine protector, gathered about him and inquired:

"Whose home? Yours?"

Wisdom In City Directories.

The New York city directory for the early years of the nineteenth century contained an almanac and other features now considered to be extraneous to directories. The compilation was largely done by Abraham Shoemaker. Mr. Shoemaker had a habit of ornamenting the margins of the pages with quaint old "saws" of this character:

No. 720 Seventeenth St., WASHINGTON, D. C.

"If every suffering woman has the same experience with Wine of Cardui that I had, your medicine will be most popular. About a year ago I began to have a worn out tired feeling with lassitude, pains in the back and head which kept increasing every month. I felt that I needed something, but to get the right medicine was the trouble. I finally decided on your Wine of Cardui and only needed to take three bottles when I was fully recovered."

Miss Rose Owens.

WHEN Miss Rose Owens, who has a responsible position in the Government service at Washington, D. C., decided to try Wine of Cardui, she made a wise choice. Over a million women have been relieved of female weakness by this same Wine of Cardui. It is not a strong medicine but may be taken every day in the year by any woman with benefit. It does not force results, but corrects derangements of the menstrual organs. It strengthens the nervous system, gives tone to the bodily functions, acts directly on the genital organs, and is the finest tonic for women known to the science of medicine.

If you are a suffering woman we would say to you that Wine of Cardui seldom fails to completely cure any case of female ills. We say emphatically, it never fails to benefit. Every day hundreds of sufferers are writing to our Ladies' Advisory Department. The letters are opened by persons competent to give advice. Mrs. Jones was cured by following the advice which was freely given her by the Ladies' Advisory Department. Miss Owens was cured without advice by just buying a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from her druggist and taking this great medicine in the privacy of her home. No doctor's examination, treatment or advice is necessary. You have read what these two cured women have written. Is this not enough to lead you to determine to be rid of suffering?

August 13, 1900, Mrs. W. H. Jones, of Cameron, Mo., writes:

"I suffered terribly at monthly periods for three years. I would sometimes go for seven months with no flow at all. Now I have my health back again and am expecting to be confined in January. I cannot praise your medicine enough."

Professor of American Literature in Brown University.

VIII.—Three Southern Orators.

IN this period, as in the colonial, some of its best literature was spoken. It does not much matter whether the preliminary composition was made with pen and ink, wholly or in part, or whether the words flowed unwritten from a mind that had pondered long upon the subject, or whether in their final form they were the result of correction and revision. The version which has been accepted and approved by the speaker or in some instances by hearers and contemporaries is what must abide the tests of literary value.

The oratory which had become a prominent feature of intellectual life before the war for independence and up to the adoption of the constitution received a new impulse when this instrument came to be the rule of the national administration. It was a rule which was new to all and not a favorite with many. Those who had made concessions could not forget what they had surrendered. There was room for varied and diverse interpretation of rights and privileges. In particular the powers which belonged to the original colonies before there was either federation or union were the cause of much dispute, and when a union of these separate and sometimes discordant provinces was agreed upon and established by the constitution a vast amount of definition and discussion followed. And so with respect to home and foreign policies and the conflicting interests of different sections of the country. All this had to be brought into the sessions of the people's representatives and those of each state assembled in congress, where deliberative oratory followed as a matter of course.

It would have been strange if this had not been of a high order, considering the antecedents of eloquence in this country and the examples of it in the British parliament easily accessible in the reported speeches of illustrious orators. In the first quarter of the century and later oral discourse was the principal means of political instruction. The people had been trained to listen by two or three sermons and lectures a week for two centuries, and a corresponding education had been given by practice in the pulpit and at the bar to a race of speakers.

The newspaper was as yet limited to a fractional part of its present scope and circulation. The town meeting, the campaign assembly, the state legislature, the house of representatives and the senate chamber were the progressive steps in the political education of statesmen who in those days listened to the words that were spoken, having no "organ" laid upon their desks each morning to guide them in the formation of their daily opinions and principles.

The man who in those years aspired to influence his fellow citizens and legislators had to depend upon his speech in all the comprehensive meaning of the term, including his intellectual attainments as well as his personal power with an audience. As a consequence, the orator's art became one of the ambitions of a public man, more easily acquired then by reason of its general prevalence and the inheritance from preceding generations.

Congressional oratory may conveniently be said to begin with the opening of the century, when in 1800 John Randolph was sent to congress. It was fitting that the traditional eloquence of the south should be continued by this ambitious though eccentric Virginian. He cannot be called a man of peace, being usually, as was once said, "in opposition to the exercise of authority by anybody but himself." This disposition fostered a denunciatory habit of speech which easily ran into invective and sometimes malediction. It was a stormy sort of eloquence, enjoyed, no doubt, by sympathizing colleagues more than by opponents. Still, it is said that his speeches were read more generally than those of any other member of congress. Events that were to take place half a century later appear to have been foreseen by this ill boding but true prophet, yet what he dreaded as a "coalition of knavery and fanaticism" finally issued in the united devotion of all parties and sections to a common country. He could predict the incidental calamity, but could not see the ultimate restoration. Nevertheless he left on record one phase of oratory, and if it is somber and even violent at times its counterpart can be found wherever an ardent and courageous soul has met evils that threatened disaster.

The name of Henry Clay recalls a career which was prominent and continuous for nearly half a century. It was too pronounced in its statesmanship not to elicit a variety of testimony with regard to his political aims, but as in all such cases the truth lies midway between extremes. With respect to his eloquence, however, the tributes of contemporaries are more concordant. It was for its kind unsurpassed, and, considering the advantages of education and training of which he was deprived, it was phenomenal. The son of a Baptist minister who left him the best inheritance that can be transmitted to a youth of political ambitions, a good voice and impressive delivery, the young lawyer, who had received his academic education in a log cabin school and his graduate course in a grocery store, began professional life as clerk in a chancery court. After four years of recording decisions he was granted license to practice in Richmond, where he established a school of oratory in the form of a debating club. At the age of twenty-one he opened an office in Lexington, Ky., and was soon full of business and on the highroad to politics. His oratorical ability helped him to win a contest where his opponent's speech was followed by deafening applause, but his own by profound and impressive silence. From 1800 to 1811 he was in the house of representatives or the senate at Washington, where he continued, with short interruptions, until he was seventy-three.

Of necessity his oratory was political and deliberative, but it had an honesty and a sincerity that carried somewhat of his own convictions to all who heard him speak. Off the lines of these strong convictions he could not be eloquent. Along that line he was very able to inspire others with his own fearless sentiments and hopeful expectations. Even his opponents were ready to acknowledge the straightforward honesty of his speech. This was clear in statement and addressed to the common sense of his hearers. His own antecedents favored such sympathetic knowledge of their limitations, and he made himself understood by the average man.

When his speeches passed into printed pages, they necessarily lost much of the personal power which went with the magnetic orator, but they have the conservative element which makes them oratorical literature. They bear well the test of much rehearsing in the schools and of frequent reading by the student of eloquence and of our political history. The issues are dead which called them forth, but so are those which have from time to time inspired the loftiest utterances of greatest speakers, from the Attic age to that in which Henry Clay and his compeers lived. Their eloquence is embalmed each in its own language and is an important element in the literature of the nations.

The name of John C. Calhoun is naturally recalled next to that of Henry Clay. A graduate of Yale college in 1804 and subsequently a law student in Litchfield, he cultivated extemporary speaking with great diligence and success. Perhaps as a consequence he was elected to the legislature of his native South Carolina upon his return home and to congress after he had been but nine years out of college. Questions arising out of the war of 1812, the national bank, tariff and nullification and finally of slavery, successively occupied his attention. It was a stormy period, when the republic was adjusting itself to sectional differences of policy, which were not diminished by diversity of opinion between political leaders. But this very antagonism called out the utmost resources of party chiefs and patriots. The battle had to be fought by oral discussion before the people first as the source of power and then before their representatives and the executors of their will.

It was before the legislative rather than the popular assembly that Calhoun was at his best. He was more severely logical than impassioned, dignified rather than inspiring. If his premises were accepted, escape from his conclusions was difficult, and there was no suspicion that he was not sincere in his convictions. His earnestness conveyed these to other men with undiminished force. His generalizations were bold and even reckless at times, and his exaggerations were often absurd, as is the case with most orators when overmastered by their purpose. It was then that he became most eloquent. But oftenest it was the qualities of solidity, breadth and clearness that chiefly prevailed. A natural logician of analytic temper, he could make his own position strong while exposing the weak points of an adversary's position. Discussing the relations between cause and effect, he was quick to see combinations which were effective and advantageous.

In the manner and method of his speech he was direct and plain. His thoughts were well arranged in his mind, and his resources were at ready command. They usually gathered around a few simple propositions. He often began in a modest and quiet way, but grew loud and shrill in voice and intensely energetic in action as his subject moved him. It was not like the oratory of a southern speaker so much as of the logical Scotch race from which he descended. But the causes he advocated had need of demonstrative argument more than the ardor of advocacy and the adornment of imagery. In congress he had to deal with men in whom the reasoning powers were not lacking and to meet them on their own ground.

It is interesting after the lapse of two-thirds of a century to observe how far these statesman prophets divined truly the outcome of the contests in which they engaged. It is evident that they had many forebodings for the future, but these were always connected with nonconformity to their own political precepts. As this was common even in their own day, there were many gloomy predictions on all sides. The conviction of coming disaster grew stronger and more widespread, but when it came it was not exactly in the manner or for the reason most frequently and publicly assigned by the orators thus far mentioned. The closer they kept to the enunciation of general principles and general predictions the nearer they were to the final event. When they began to particularize, they failed, like all modern prophets, but the prophecies themselves were sublime and eloquent and a noble part of the literature of the country. They dealt with great and vital themes and in their composition and utterance were worthy of the vast questions which they discussed.

Within Ten Years

THE OCEAN WILL BE

Crossed by Airships

By M. SANTOS-DUMONT

IT is a mistaken idea that there is any unusual danger in the flying machine. It is not as dangerous as the ordinary balloon. The airships that I use are as much under my control as any steam engine, except, of course, in case of storm.

I AM NOW PLANNING AN AIRSHIP THAT WILL CARRY FROM TEN TO TWENTY PASSENGERS. IT WILL BE THE FIRST PASSENGER AIRSHIP THAT HAS EVER BEEN BUILT ALONG THE DIRIGIBLE LINES.

I hope that as a result of the exhibition I am to give in St. Louis the enterprising and wealthy men of America will become so much interested as to push forward this great work. All that I have done heretofore has been at my own expense and without any assistance. WITH THE PROPER SORT OF ENCOURAGEMENT, SUCH AS THIS COUNTRY COULD GIVE, THE DESIRED GOAL WOULD BE BROUGHT MUCH NEARER. IN A WORD, WITHIN TEN YEARS WE WOULD HAVE TRANSATLANTIC AERIAL NAVIGATION.

Willing as I am to spend all my own fortune, you must understand that these races, which are no longer in the experimental stage, are most expensive.

It is here, it seems to me, in this land where things advance so rapidly, the greatest country in the world, that the matter might be taken up with all its magnificent possibilities.

WITHIN MY LIFETIME I EXPECT TO SEE AERIAL NAVIGATION BETWEEN AMERICA AND EUROPE A COMMON THING. AN AERIAL TRANSATLANTIC LINE FOR COMMERCIAL PURPOSES IS NOT A FAROFF POSSIBILITY.

The No. 7 machine, with which I will race here in America, is a heavier machine than the No. 6, and I expect that my experiments here will establish the commercial possibilities of aerial navigation, as the No. 7 will carry four passengers, whereas the No. 6 never used to carry more than one.

I have no patents on my inventions. Any one who wants to construct machines after the fashion of the Santos-Dumont machines is welcome to do so. I only wish that I could help others to build aerial ships so that the great day when it will be the principal means of traffic will not be delayed.

WHAT HE THOUGHT OF HIM

A certain Kansas man, so the story goes, wanted to tell a neighbor what he thought of him without laying himself open to a suit for damages. So he hit on the plan of sending him each day a postal card with only one word written on it in a large hand, in addition to the date obscurely tucked away in a corner.

The person receiving the cards recognized the handwriting and, suspecting something, kept them until they stopped coming, when he read them consecutively in the order of their reception. What he read was, "Ridiculous old Bill Jones is the meanest cuss in town," and he at once instituted a suit for slander against the sender.

The latter's lawyer, however, called attention to the fact that the postal card containing "ridiculous," though mailed first, was dated the day after the date of the card having the word "town." Moreover, a careful inspection would show that after the word "ridiculous" was an exclamation point, and after the word "town" was an interrogation mark, so that the series of postal cards might be made to read: "Old Bill is the meanest cuss in town? Ridiculous!" He claimed, therefore, that instead of slandering the plaintiff his client had defended him from slander, and this plea was sustained by the court.

But, all the same, everybody in town insisted that the first reading of the cards was the correct one, so that the writer attained his object.

Friendly Foes In Kentucky, 1862.

In these matters of principle not a hand was raised to prevent a free choice. No feeling of personal hatred stood between those who saw life's duty differently. A neighbor to the right of a little home called one evening on his neighbor to the left. He kissed the children and shook hands with the parents.

"I may not see you again. Tonight I go to join Morgan," he said.

The host went to his little wardrobe, took therefrom his greatcoat thrust a pistol into the pocket and threw it over the arm of his guest. Both were poor men, and winter approached. The recipient attempted to return it. "No," said the donor—"no, you take this coat. Your path is to be one of privation; besides, I won't need it. Tomorrow morning I start north to enlist. My government has overcoats to spare, and pistols too. You who go south may find neither. God bless you, friend. May we return to meet again."—Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

CONNELL MISTREATED NATIVES.

Witness So Alleged, In Describing Balangiga Massacre.

Washington, May 10.—William J. Gibbs, of Springfield, Mass., formerly corporal of Company C, Ninth infantry, told the Philippine committee yesterday the story of the massacre of soldiers at Balangiga. He also described the mutilation of the dead soldiers and told of the disappearance of one soldier whom the natives charged with rape, but, he said, the charge was not believed. He said the natives were dissatisfied because they were compelled to work in cleaning up the place under the supervision of the soldiers.

The witness stated that Captain Connell, who commanded the troops did not treat the natives right, as he destroyed their supply of food. He said the massacre was deliberately planned, and he judged that boys participated, as he saw a number of them lying about dead.

He had not concluded when the committee adjourned.

The Old Home Unhurt by the New Woman

By Rev. MINOT J. SAVAGE

WOMEN are claiming the right to share the governmental powers with men, and step by step they are gaining the recognition that they desire. THE COMING WOMAN, THE FREE, INDEPENDENT WOMAN, WISHES TO BE EDUCATED, TO ATTEND HIGH SCHOOLS AND UNIVERSITIES, TO BELONG TO CLUBS, TO ATTEND LECTURES ON ALL SUBJECTS, TO ENTER INTO THE PROFESSIONS, TO COMPETE WITH MEN IN THEIR BUSINESSES AND OCCUPATIONS.

I BELIEVE EVERY GIRL OUGHT TO BE EDUCATED IN THE HIGHEST AND NOBLEST SENSE IF IT IS POSSIBLE, TRAINED TO DO SOMETHING BY WHICH SHE CAN EARN HER OWN LIVING.

I do not believe this is going to stand in the way of the home. It is only going to set women free, so they shall be able to choose the home and not be driven into it merely for self support.

POULTRY POINTERS.

Land that dries quickly after a rain is well adapted to poultry raising.

When one does not care to raise chickens, it is better on the score of economy to keep the layers without cocks.

See that the hens are well developed and not too fat. Mate them to males also well developed, and the chicks will be all right.

When the hens are too fat, reduce them in flesh by giving them shorter rations and give more bulky and less fattening food.

Fowls appreciate good food as well as other animals, but it is unwise to limit them to one kind, be it ever so good or wholesome.

Crude petroleum thickened to a proper consistency with red or brown mineral paint is good to use on the outside of poultry houses and other farm buildings.

Bone and grit of some kind are an absolute necessity to fowls confined in small yards and unable to supply themselves with these little items always obtainable by birds at liberty.

Unfortunate, Says Dun's, With Consumptive Demands Greatest In Nation's History.

New York, May 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.' Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, said in part:

At a time when consumptive demands surpass all previous records in the nation's history it is unfortunate that production should be curtailed. Yet that is the present situation. First, labor controversies and a tornado stopped work at many points, greatly reducing the output, and many more wage disputes must be settled before the end of the month or furnace fires will be banked and wheels cease to revolve. Losses by the elements have been severe, the largest tin plate plant in the world being rendered idle probably for a month, while many foundries and shops were totally destroyed. Prices of commodities on May 1, as shown by Dun's Index number, rose to the highest point in recent years, gaining 6.3 per cent over the corresponding date last year, but this week there has been a material decline in some products, notably grain. Distribution through retail channels continues very heavy, seasonable weather exerting a most helpful influence. Railway earnings are steadily gaining, full returns for April exceeding last year's by 10.6 per cent, and 1900 by 25.0 per cent.

Procrastinating consumers who predicted a collapse in the iron and steel market similar to the break that occurred two years ago have greatly augmented the pressure by tardily attempting to supply their requirements. It has been obvious for some time that there is utterly lacking the artificial movement tending to inflate prices that was conspicuous in the opening months of 1900. The only limit to prices appears to be the ability of the purchasers to pay fancy figures, according to the urgency of their needs. Meanwhile there is no advance on long term contracts, and these cover the large bulk of the business. Productive capacity is being greatly enlarged, but there is no evidence as yet that the nation's needs are not expanding equally fast.

Woolen goods are scarce, but the demand is still confined to substitute orders caused by the strike.

Dispatches to this paper promise a large wool clip, though the late spring has delayed shearing. There has been less selling of wool on the sheep's backs, and ranchmen appear to be in financial condition to hold their yield until satisfactory prices are forthcoming.

More encouraging weather reports have made the outlook brighter for a normal wheat yield, while the wide discrepancy between census figures and those of the agricultural department regarding the crop of 1899 suggested the idea that in succeeding years the production was heavier than officially reported. These influences were depressing, while there was little of a sustaining nature in speculative operations.

Special reports to Dun's Review indicate that the spring wheat outlook is good, though some reduction in acreage was caused by high prices for coarse grain and last year's splendid returns from flax. Evidence of large planting had a weakening influence on corn, but there still appears an increase of 25 per cent of the prices a year ago and 60 per cent over 1900 at this date.

Failures for the week numbered 218 in the United States, against 187 last year, and 24 in Canada, against 26 last year.

MARKET DEALINGS FELL OFF.

Anthracite Dispute May Have Had Some Effect, Friday.

New York, May 10.—The volume of dealings yesterday fell considerably below half a million shares for the first time in a good many weeks. Whether there was any other reason for this dullness than the decision of the party of speculators lately leading the market to let it lie fallow for a time was not evident. Perhaps the long drawn out controversy over the anthracite labor settlement may have been effective in discouraging speculative activity. If that was the factor which induced the curtailment of demand and the sagging of prices in the general list, it did not appear among the coalers themselves. That group was affected by the marked strength of Delaware and Hudson. The demand for this stock seemed to be of a very special character.

The outcome of the miners' controversy was still awaited when the stock market closed yesterday. There was some show of strength in the early dealings and an appearance of renewed activity on the part of the recently prominent market leaders. Activity was manifest also on the part of some smaller speculative pools in minor railroad stocks. Amalgamated Copper was conspicuously active and strong, advancing at one time 1⅜. Reports were current that sales of copper had been effected at 12½ cents by a leading competitor in sufficient amount to take it out of the market for some time to come. The announcement that one of the suspended stock exchange firms would be able to resume and that the other two hoped to do so was regarded as a satisfactory development. Trading was resumed in International Power and it was lifted four points. There were not lacking weak points in the market, however, all through the session. The reactionary tendency of the market became more general after the appearance of the preliminary estimate of the week's currency movement. The market closed dull and steady.

A King and a Miller.

Every reigning member of the Hohenzollern dynasty has been noted for his sense of fair play in dealing with his subjects.

It is said that the Emperor Frederick the Great was greatly annoyed by the presence of a flour mill that stood close by one of his palaces in Berlin.

The miller refused to sell his mill and insisted that he should retain possession of it as long as he lived. The emperor stormed at him without avail and finally threatened to drive the miller out by force and confiscate his property.

The dauntless miller replied to his threat by saying, "There are still judges in Berlin, your majesty."

This reply, which has since become famous throughout Germany, impressed the emperor so favorably that he withdrew both his threat and his request, and the flour mill is standing to this day.

The Good and the Bad.

One ought to balance the good with the bad and also the length of time a man has lived to form a true estimate of his character. Polybius, the Greek historian, has an observation to the same effect. "There is no reason," says he, "why we should not sometimes blame and sometimes commend the same person, for, as none is always right, neither is it probable that he should be always wrong."
